THE YEAR 1913

Some of the Important Events and Deaths of That Period

The year 1913 has witnessed the passing away of many of our prominent citizens, and the review of the past twelve months in this direction emphasizes the loss which the community has sustained.

Among the most notable deaths of the year were those of Dr. James F. Bothfield, Dr. M. H. Clarke, Mr. Carl Baerman, the pianist, City Messenger Joseph D. Wellington, Assistant Superintendent of Streets Charles L. Berry and Mr. James E. McIntyre, the well-known publisher in January; Mr. Henry J. Preston, the architect, Mr. C. M. Whittlesey of West Newton, and the well-known and popular Register of Deeds, Mr. Edwin O. Childs in February; Mr. Eugene W. Pratt, the Newton Centre undertaker in March; Mr. Louis K. Harlow, the Waban artist, Mr. John E. Rockwood, the coal merchant of Newton Centre and the "grand old man" of Newton, Mr. Warren P. Tyler, in April; Mr. John S. Sumner, one of Newton's oldest residents, died in May; Mr. Frank Cordingley, a well-known manufacturer, and Mr. Samuel C. Smith, a retired Boston school teacher, in June; Mr. Horace Beckford, a Grand Army veteran in July; Mr. George H. Brown, well known in Masonic circles, and Mr. Charles H. Burrage, an old resident of Chestnut Hill in September; Mr. Albert S. Hutchinson, a rising young lawyer, Mr. George W. Shepard, the minstrel organizer, in October, and the Rev. Samuel W. Dike, Mr. James G. Wildman, the insurance man, Dr. Jesse F. Frisbie and that old-time manufacturer, Chas. B. Lancaster, in December. Two well-known women, who died during the year, were Mrs. Clementina Butler, the missionary, and Mrs. Emma L. Waitt of Newton.

The city for the first time discontinued granting sixth class licenses for the sale of liquor by druggists, the new order taking effect on May first. So far as heard from, there seems to be little fault to be found with the present conditions. Occasional complaints are heard and a few hardships caused by the change.

The new accounting system was installed at City Hall during the year, with the office of City Auditor abolished and that of Comptroller of Accounts substituted, with Mr. John Daboll elected to the latter office.

A new Planning Commission was established in December, but has not yet got to work.

The Church of the Redeemer has made a good start on a new church edifice at Chestnut Hill and steps have been taken by the West Newton Congregational Church and the Trinity Episcopal Church for new buildings. St. Mary's Episcopal Church at Newton Lower Falls observed the centennial anniversary of the laying of its corner stone, one of the most unique events of the year.

Rev. A. N. Slayton, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Newton Highlands and Rev. Charles L. Merriam of the North Church, Nonantum, resigned during the year, and the resignation of Rev. Jay T. Stocking, pastor of the Central Church at Newtonville has also been received, although Mr. Stocking does not sever his connection with the church until February.

MEN'S CLUB

The Men's Club of the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, January 6th, with the usual supper for the men, and at 8 o'clock the ladies will be invited to join them to listen to an address by Edward E. Allen, Director of the Perkins Institute and Mass. School for the Blind. This institution with its beautiful buildings just across the river from Newton is doing a wonderful work, and Mr. Allen will explain the details of this work. The public are invited to hear the address.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The annual Christmas party for the children of the Sunday School was given Tuesday evening in the parlors of the Channing Church. The young people were delightfully entertained with Christmas stories, by Miss Frances W. Dammun of Winchester, and the members of the Unity Club gave an entertainment for the younger children, entitled "Mother Goose's Christmas Visit."

There was a very large attendance and supper was served under the direction of the Channing Alliance.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Annual Christmas party for the children of the Congregational Sunday School was held Monday afternoon in the parlors of Central Church, Newtonville.

There was a merry company of boys and girls present and Santa Claus distributed gifts from a handsomely decorated and well laden Christmas tree. "The Story of the Other Wise Man" was read by Mrs. Fred E. Mann and illustrated with stereoscopic views. A number of the parents of the children took part in the festivities and at the close of the entertainment refreshments were served.

GAMMA SIGMA DANCE

Members of the Gamma Sigma Fraternity N. H. S. entertained their friends at a very pretty dancing-party on Monday evening at the Newton Club.

There were forty couples present and Russell's Orchestra was in attendance and furnished a fine program of popular music. The hall was decorated in the club colors, with banners of red and gold.

The matrons were Mrs. Arthur C. Wellman, Mrs. George M. Angier, and Mrs. Frank M. Nathan.

ARTIFICIAL ICE

Company To Be Formed To Furnish Pure Ice In Newton

The formation of the Purity Ice Company of Newton and the establishment of a great plant for the manufacture of artificial ice from Newton drinking water, will soon be accomplished by the combined efforts of the Women's Clubs from all parts of the city.

They are supported and encouraged in this great work by a large number of influential and public-spirited citizens, including city officials, physicians and business men, who desire to better the conditions that now exist through the use of Natural Ice.

The primary object of this Company is based on social or "community improvement" by the manufacture and delivery of pure, clean ice, made from drinking water; also to decrease the price as production increases, and try the experiment of reducing the cost of living in this one item alone, by cooperative effort and support.

The Company will be absolutely independent of any other ice concern and proposes to sell its product on a basis of high quality, low price and modern business methods.

The claim that "Natural ice is winning favor" is not borne out by actual facts, in our city, for in the last ten years the price has nearly doubled. In 1904, the consumption of natural ice in other parts of the country was 80 per cent of the entire output; this year of 1914 the consumption of natural ice will be 25 per cent, according to official reports. In other words, Natural ice is losing favor. In New York City, last summer, the total consumption of ice was 75 per cent artificial and great plants are now in process of erection. Plants are now installed in the principal cities of Canada, in a region where natural ice is abundant.

For the last eight months in our city we have been paying 40 cents per hundred for ice, while during the same period Brookline has paid 25 cents, undoubtedly caused by a warmer winter on our side of the tracks. With a shortage in any commodity, combined with a monopoly, the consumer is almost helpless when the Producer makes the price. If ideal conditions really existed in the use of natural ice, as lately portrayed by local papers, life would be one joyful song; but the opposite is painfully apparent; while the patience of the citizens has reached the limit.

The learned Professor, whose speech is only partly quoted in local papers, speaking of the harmless qualities of natural ice, says also that "there is danger of infection from dirty hands" and other un-sanitary conditions of harvesting and delivery. He also goes on to say that he "would not prevent the cutting of ice from dirty water." Even if we believed that filth and disease germs were killed by freezing, we do not care to use ice of this character, if we can help it.

Mother Nature is having such a hard time these days, that the Purity Ice Co. will let her severely alone and leave her to have it out with the natural ice man, for her product is poor and her ways uncertain in this instance.

DRAW JURORS

Aldermen Hold Special Session at Close of Year 1913

A special meeting of the board of aldermen was held Monday night to draw jurors and to pass a few financial orders before the close of the year. Alderman Blakemore presided and Aldermen Hatch, Jamieson, Bemis, Bartlett, Gordon and Early were the absentees.

Alderman Forknall drew these jurors for service next month at Cambridge, James E. Tully, High street, Edwin A. Bosworth, Watertown street, West Newton, Edward H. Mitchell, California street, John W. Brigham, Watertown street, Newtonville, Charles H. Breck, Fairmont avenue, Francis H. Franklin, Richardson street H. Myron Daggett, Chaske avenue. Edward L. Scribner, Lexington street, was drawn as a grand juror.

Orders were passed making small additional appropriations in the Street Dept. and several small transfers and grants. Some appropriations made two weeks ago, which would naturally expire with the present year were carried forward into 1914.

And at 8.04 P. M. the board adjourned.

DINNER DANCE

Mrs. George A. Clapp entertained a large company of friends at a holiday dancing party on Friday evening at her residence on Walnut street, Newtonville, in honor of her daughter Miss Antoinette Clapp, who is home from Smith College for the Christmas holidays. The reception rooms and parlors were converted into a ball-room and attractively decorated with wreaths and evergreen and appropriate emblems of the Yuletide season.

An excellent program of popular music was furnished for the dancing and the occasion was most social and informal.

Dinner was served in one of the small reception rooms, the decorative scheme for the table being green and red, with red roses in pleasing arrangement.

Guests numbering seventy, including several college class mates were present from Boston, Brookline, Northampton and the Newtons.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

The Christmas Entertainment was given on Tuesday evening in the parlors of Eliot Church by the Main Bible School.

A musical program was arranged, which greatly pleased the large audience; it included two well rendered piano solos by Carleton Person and George Cone; a violin solo by Miss Perry and a dialogue by Chase Kephler in the role of an Irishman and Philip Horn, as a French maid.

Mr. Ferry, as Santa Claus, sang a solo and was assisted by a chorus of boys from the Sunday School. He also distributed boxes of candy among the young people.

German selections were read by Miss Jessie McCarroll and the Misses Marguerite Collins and Irene Plummer contributed some Dutch songs, which were highly pleasing to the audience.

Miss Martha Gifford presided at the piano. At the close of the entertainment, ice cream and cake were served under the direction of the officers of the Sunday School.

GENEROUS GIFT

Will Enable Trinity Episcopal Church To Build New Edifice

By a Christmas gift, Trinity Episcopal parish at Newton Centre is able to build a new $50,000 church complete, instead of in sections.

The parish had $10,500 for the purpose and the benefactor, who is unknown even to the vestry, promised that if the parish would raise $5500 more he would give $9000, which will then amount to one-half of the entire $50,000. He then has promised to lend the parish $25,000 without interest for twenty years, this sum to be secured by a mortgage on the property.

The vestry has voted to accept the gift, and $2300 has been pledged without solicitation. The church will be built on the lot where the present one stands and will be of limestone.

OLD YEAR PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Beardsley of Auburndale, entertained a merry company of friends at an Old Year party on Wednesday evening.

Guests numbering twenty-five assembled at their residence on Crescent street to watch the Old Year out, and exchange congratulations and good wishes for the coming year.

The rooms presented a festive appearance, being decked with evergreen wreaths, laurel and holly, and a Dutch supper was served.

An entertainment followed with a fine musical program, including vocal and instrumental selections. One of the pleasant features of the entertainment was the presentation to the company by the hostess, of a large grab basket containing gifts for the guests. Each guest was requested to help himself from the basket, and the distribution of the gifts occasioned much merriment.

Friends were present from Boston and the Newtons and the guest of honor was Mr. Frank Pote of North Dakota.

LET 14,000 EXPERTS WORK FOR YOU

"Not one person out of a thousand even understands exactly how to avail himself of the printed information the government is ready to supply. In addition to sending out matter already printed, however, the Department holds at the service of the people some 14,000 employees ready and anxious to answer individual letters and give specific advice to people how best to manage their agricultural activities. The organization of this vast army of workers is exceedingly interesting. A brief summary of the principal business is given at the end of this paper. It must be remembered that a specialist with a trained staff of assistants stands at the head of each bureau, and that under each general head there may be from five to twenty sub-divisions. Each carries on a particular phase of the research.

It makes, therefore, no difference whether the government has printed a bulletin dealing with the particular subject that interests you, or whether you know the name or number of such a bulletin. A letter or postcard making clear your problem and the matter on which you desire help, if addressed simply to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will at once receive unusual attention." Suburban Life—The Countryside Magazine for January.

NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION

Citizens Receive Cordial Welcome From Mayor Hatfield and Mayor Elect Childs

The New Year's reception given by Mayor Hatfield to Mayor-elect Childs yesterday afternoon at the City Hall was very well attended and was one of the most successful of these affairs given for many years.

The hall was attractively decorated with flags and bunting and the receiving party stood before a bank of ferns and greenery. In the line were Mayor Hatfield, Mayor-elect Edwin O. Childs, Jr., and ex-mayors Henry E. Bothfield, Edward B. Wilson, A. R. Weed and George Hutchinson.

The ushers were in charge of City Clerk F. M. Grant and included Comptroller Daboll, Assistant City Clerk H. F. Young, A. M. Russell, Wm. P. Morse, J. W. Hastings, Andrew Prior, O. J. McCourt, M. B. CHRISTMAS DANCE

Miss Helen Baker entertained at a dancing party on Christmas Eve at her residence on Gay street, Newtonville.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with evergreen, holly and mistletoe and Miss Vida Chase furnished a delightful program of popular music for the dancing.

There were about ten couples present and refreshments were served at the close of the dance. Among those present were the Misses Susan Page, Marian King, Pauline Chellis, Marjorie Whidden, Gladys Kessler, Abby Cady, of Newtonville, Miss Remona Gwynn of Allston, and Miss Helen Morgan of Hanover, and Dorothy Whidden of Watertown, and Messrs. Roger Wheeler, Miles Page, Louis Baker, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Kelley, Mr. Thompson and Mr. James Perry Smith, Jr.

SWIMMING EXHIBIT AT Y. M. C. A.

Next Wednesday night at the local Y. M. C. A. swimming pool the Brookline Swimming Club of Brookline, will give an exhibition of speed swimming, fancy diving and water polo, together with various other water sports that will be of interest to all lovers of water sports.

The Brookline Swimming Club is the oldest and fastest swimming club in this part of the country. Their exhibitions have always brought forth much praise and comment. These men have been well coached and know how to show all the fine points of the art. They are also proficient in the popular game of water polo.

Mr. Jaquith, the star distance plunger, who has been winning from all comers at Revere Beach, will be seen in the plunging contest.

An effort will also be made to have several races between the boys' classes, also a relay race between the employed boys' class and the Junior A.

NEWTON CLUB

The Children's party on Wednesday afternoon was one of the jolliest for many a year and there was a record breaking attendance. The affair was in charge of Mrs. William C.
Bambridge, assisted by Mrs. G. Norman-Bankart and Mrs. Hubert G. Ripley and other ladies and mothers. The entertainment was given by Miss Baker who interested the children as well as the elders with some clever clay modelling, and an impersonation of an animated doll, with a most humorous monologue. The children were also entertained by Miss Dorothy Bankart, Miss Clyde Carpenter, Miss Mary Esther Bambridge, Miss
Marguerite Bambridge, and Miss Irene Tolman. There was general dancing and refreshments during the afternoon.

An entertainment of much interest and merit was the Argentine Lecture by Charles Wellington Furlong given on Tuesday evening. The views shown were many and well described, showing the hardships of the lecturers trip and affording much that was new as to the country touched on. A large audience was present.

An afternoon bridge is scheduled for 2:15 on Tuesday, January 6th, at which Mrs. Howard L. Herrington, Mrs. Charles R. Lynde and Mrs. Eastham Guild will receive.

MRS. FRANKLIN ESTABROOK

Mrs. Elizabeth Estabrook, wife of Mr. Franklin Estabrook, passed away suddenly on Monday of heart failure, at Auburndale.

Mrs. Estabrook was a well-known musician and composer and a daughter of the late Eben Tourjee.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon at her late residence on Central street. Impressive services were conducted at 2:15 by Rev.
Dr. George S. Butters, pastor of the Centenary Methodist Church.

The bearers were Messrs. Charles Strongman of Boston, Isaac S. Dillingham, William S. Wagner and Dr.
George A. Bates of Auburndale.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and the burial was in the family lot in Newton Century.

Mrs. Estabrook is survived by a husband and two sons, Mr. Rufus Estabrook and Mr. Lee Estabrook of Auburndale.

Natural Ice

YOUR ice dealer wishes to extend to you the best wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year. Our own hope is that,
by giving us an adequate harvest, Nature will assist us to add to your prosperity by lowering the price of ice. This we confidently hope.

It has been with regret that we have yielded to the necessity of adding to your cost of ice supply. Our consideration is YOUR PURSE and YOUR HEALTH, as well as our own. We want you to feel that, so far as your ice supply is concerned, your health has nothing to fear, and your purse shall always be treated squarely. Natural ice continues to be, as it has been in the past, purer than the purest water. It is water refined into crystals. The process of natural freezing sterilizes and filters the water, and drives impurities out.

As an illustration of the remarkable filtering power of natural freezing try this experiment:—Color water with dye stuffs, bright red or green, and then freeze it. You will find the ice free from color.

Still stands the statement of Dr.
Eugene H. Porter, New York State Health Commissioner: "Under ordinary conditions there is hardly a thing consumed in the house-holds of our public that is less liable to convey infection than natural ice."

Natural ice is even 90 per cent purer than the water on which it freezes. This is a chemical fact. The chief reason we do not manufacture our ice is because we find, on investigation, that natural ice is more pure, and more efficient: giving off more cold;—therefore, more economical.

Another interesting statement from Dr. Porter is to the effect that the process of storage for ice further purifies it:
"Ninety per cent of the impurities are squeezed out by the crystallization; and ninety-nine and nine-tenths of those remaining are removed by the cold during storage." This approximates a state of absolute purity not found in the food
you eat, or the water you drink.

We are trying further to conserve your health by care and cleanliness in handling.

Again we invite your further patronage.

Wishing you all the best things for the New Year.

E. N. CLUB DANCE

The members of the E. N. Club, N. H. S., gave a very successful dancing party on New Year's Eve in Norumbega Hall, Auburndale.

There were about thirty couples present and the hall was beautifully decorated under the direction of Mrs.
Taylor.

A program of popular music was rendered by Mr. Harold Stone, pianist, and Mr. Robert Harley, violinist. The matrons were Mrs. Samuel Abbott and Mrs. Maxwell Stone of Newton Centre and Mrs. Edward Bosson of Newton Highlands. After the dancing, there were refreshments.

LODGES

Newton Royal Arch Chapter will hold a Ladies' Night, with an entertainment and banquet on the program.

—On New Year's Eve all lady employees of the office department of the Saco-Lowell Co., for the past fifteen years, held a reunion and banquet at the Petee Inn. The private dining room was tastefully decorated for the occasion with a large bouquet of carnations for the centre piece, a gift from Mr. William L. Thompson of the Boston office. Covers were laid for nine, with a favor at each plate and a band Mrs. James McNealey. After the banquet the ladies adjourned to the home of Mr. William L. Thompson of Boylston street, where they were entertained by Victrola selections.

REVIVE OLD CUSTOMS

On the spur of the moment, a number of Newtonville ladies decided to revive the good old-fashioned custom of holding open house on New Year's afternoon and evening and the following matrons entertained their friends in that hospitable manner:—Mrs. Edward W. Greene of Mt. Vernon street, assisted by Mrs. E. R. Benton of Newton Centre, and Miss Wood of Springfield, Mrs. Fred E. Mann of Harvard street, Mrs. William O. Hunt of Newtonville avenue, assisted by Mrs. Harold O. Hunt, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden of Walnut street, assisted by Mrs.
Wm. E. Strong and Mrs. John W. Byers, Mrs. G. Lyman Snow of Walnut street, who invited all to enter without ringing the bell. Mrs. Snow was assisted by her daughter, Miss Snow, Mrs. William C. Bambridge of Mt. Vernon street assisted by Mrs. Charles Bambridge, and the Misses Bambridge, Mrs. Fred S. Retan of Highland avenue, assisted by Mrs. Mills and Miss Marion Sherman, Mrs. Warner Marshall of Clyde street, assisted by Mrs.
Marshall, Senior, Mrs. Rust of Kirk-stall road, Mrs. Jay T. Stocking of Kirkstall road, Mrs. John F. Brant of Oakwood road, assisted by the Misses Brant, Mrs. N. H. Bryant of Walker street, and Mrs. Hubert G. Ripley of Newtonville avenue. The affair was so delightful that more elaborate plans are being made for next year.

NEW YEAR'S DANCE

The New Year's Dance on Wednesday evening at the Neighborhood Club, West Newton, was a very successful and enjoyable affair.

There was an attendance of about fifty couples, including members of the Club and several of the younger society set.

A program of popular music was furnished by Russell's Orchestra.

The dancing continued until midnight and as the lights were lowered,
the gong struck the hour of twelve,
and the dancers heralded the passing of the old and the coming of the New Year.

The party was given under the direction of the members of the house committee.

tained a large number of children at a log cabin party on Christmas evening on his estate in Weston.

—Miss Helen Peterson of the Bridgewater Normal School is spending the Christmas vacation at her home on Auburndale avenue.

—Miss Emma Richardson of the Framingham Normal School is passing the holidays at her home on Central street.

—Miss Mary Helen O'Donnell,
daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. O'- Donnell of Auburndale avenue, died Wednesday night at her home after a long illness at the age of 24. Funeral services will be held in St. Bernard's Church tomorrow morning, with a requiem high mass, and interment will be in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

The annual New Year's reception to Rev. William C. Gordon and Mrs.
Gordon was held last evening at the parlors of the Congregational Church.
The occasion was quite informal and the young people of the congregation were especially requested to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon received from 8 until ten and there was a large attendance.

CHARITY BALL

Brilliant Society Event Held by Mothers'
Rest Association

The most brilliant society event of the season was the Charity Ball given New Year's Eve at Newton Centre, under the auspices of the Mothers'
Rest Association.

Bray Hall presented an unusually gay and festive appearance, being elaborately decorated for the occasion with Christmas trees, evergreens, wreaths and Yuletide emblems.

The main entrance was festooned with evergreen wreaths and Henry's Orchestra furnished an excellent program of music from the stage, where it was almost concealed in a bower of Christmas trees and evergreens.

The chandeliers were twined with greenery and a novel feature was introduced at midnight, when the hall was suffused with a red light, and the dancers formed in a grand march, led by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rice.
Miss Hazel Sands, in a costume of pale green and wearing a wreath on her head danced up the centre of the hall and shot an arrow at a huge ball hung from the ceiling. A shower of confetti began to fall over the dancers giving a weird snow storm effect, which, together with the electric display, was most beautiful and scenic.
On the stage a Cupid appeared illuminated and bearing a placard with the greeting, "A Happy New Year." Greetings were then exchanged between the guests and there was the general feeling of sociability and hospitality which the Mothers' Rest Association likes to show.

It was very much regretted that Mrs. Samuel Ward, who is president of the Association, was unable to be present on account of illness.

The ladies who received were Mrs.
Arthur C. Badger, Mrs. Charles E.
Kelsey, Mrs. H. H. Kendall, Mrs. A. E.
Alvord and Mrs. Norman H. George.

Mrs. Frank A. Mason had charge of the dancing, and card tables were arranged in the small hall, where auction bridge was enjoyed by the guests who did not care to dance.

A representative gathering of society numbering four hundred were present from Boston, Brookline, Cambridge and the Newtons.

The committee included Mrs. Arthur C. Badger, Mrs. Robert E. Anderson, Mrs. Samuel F. Brewer, Mrs.
Adams D. Claflin, Mrs. G. W. Crampton, Jr., Mrs. F. F. Cutler, Mrs. Norman H. George, Mrs. Frank E. Hatch, Mrs. George F. Huntress, Mrs. Henry
J. Ide, Mrs. George W. Jackson, Mrs.
Charles E. Kelsey, Mrs. H. H. Kendall, Mrs. Frank A. Mason, Mrs. W. B.

MUSICALS

Mr. and Mrs. William B. H. Dowse entertained a company of friends at a charming musicale on New Year's Eve, at "Eswood House," their residence on Temple street, West Newton.

It was a delightfully social and informal affair to mark the passing of the old and ushering in of the New Year.

The entertainment was musically artistic and enlisted the services of Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams, soprano; Mr. Carl Webster, cello; Mr. Arthur Brooke, flute and Mrs. Jessie Downer Eaton, accompanist.

HANDSOME CALENDARS

John T. Burns & Sons, Inc., are presenting their patrons with some handsome calendars for the new year.

An office calendar with a beautiful picture of Mt. McKinley in colors is one of their gifts and they also have a smaller office calendar of a wood scene in colors which is also attractive.

Wm. J. Cozens the real estate agent is also presenting his patrons with a fine calendar having a reproduction of a well-known photograph.

TEACH THE CHILD SUCCESS

Experienced School Teacher Makes a Suggestion to the Mothers of Her Pupils.

Every mother knows how easy it is for a child to become discouraged during the first weeks of school.

"I wish," said a most successful teacher to a mother one "first" day, "that I had all the mothers here instead of the children this morning."

"Yes, I mean that—the forty mothers, I would like to tell them just one thing—the difference between success and failure."

"In the school room as well as elsewhere the difference is just a difference of attitude."

"No general ever won a victory who did not go on the battlefield determined to win."

"In the home is where we form our habits," she continued, "and the habit of success is not a difficult one to form."

"The most important thing for the mother to do is to believe in her child, see that his tasks are such that he can do, and then openly recognize his success."

"No child who has had such home training ever makes many failures in his life. To teach this idea of success necessitates continuous individual work in many cases, and a thorough comradeship with the child."

"At the end of the month," she said, smiling hopefully over the roomful of workers, "I will know them all, but until then—yes, I wish I had the mothers here this morning."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

AMUSEMENT FOR THE TOTS

Game That Will Keep Them Interested During the Long Evenings of the Winter.

Now that the evenings are drawing in, the children will want some new game to play after supper is over. They will all enjoy the "Cut-Out Family Game," which is played as follows:

Get a big pile of illustrated journals, catalogues and picture papers, and give each child a blunt-pointed pair of scissors, a large sheet of newspaper or brown paper, and a pot of paste or a packet of pins.

Then read or tell them some simple little tale of every-day life—not a fairy story, but an ordinary, every-day tale of boys and girls and their fathers and mothers. As you go along, stop from time to time, and let the children hunt through the illustrated books for pictures to suit the occasion.

Perhaps you will begin in this way: "Once upon a time there was a little girl called Susie. She was seven years old and she had long, curly hair. Now, look through your books and find a picture of Susie."

Then the children will spend five happy minutes in finding Susie, cutting her out, and fastening her at the top of the blank sheet. As the tale continues the sheet will become full of portraits of the different people whom Susie met, the pet animals she had, and so on.

It will take an hour or more to fill a sheet, and the children will be quietly and happily occupied all the time.

Club Swinger's Collapse.

Tom Burrows, the champion club swinger, just failed Saturday night at Earl's court to complete 100 hours of continuous club swinging.

He began his task at 7:10 Tuesday evening. Saturday morning he developed sprain of the right ankle. He was compelled to throw the weight of his body on his left leg, and it was the additional pain and fatigue consequent on this that led to his collapse at 8:45.

During the evening it was clear that he was near the limit of his powers of endurance. Two army doctors who were in attendance decided to allow him to fall asleep in the ordinary course of nature, rather than risk a mental shock by stopping him forcibly. Thus he was allowed to totter along until he lurched against a table. His wife caught him in her arms, and Burrows fell asleep, continuing in a deep slumber, despite the cheers of the crowd, while he was carried to a taxicab and driven home. He had swung his clubs for 97 hours and 35 minutes.—London Daily News.

Some Accompanist.

Charles Hough, a young man of youthful appearance, slight in build compared with the woman, and gray as to hair, was at the piano. He understands perfectly how best to accompany the prima donna. He knows that volume is required, what shading is desirable, how much of it, and he follows every motion of the singer to detect her next requirement in the matter of piano support. He not only knows these things, but he does them. That is why he is such an excellent accompanist. He wore evening clothes. The piano was finished in black, one of the low concert type of instrument, with a little outward turn, on the top of which the singer rested an arm occasionally.—Exchange.

Cruel Tale.

A dreadful story is in circulation about Richard Harding Davis.

Mr. Davis, as everybody knows, is a wit. He was, therefore, terribly annoyed the other day to hear that a brother author had spoken unfavorably of his witticisms. Coming upon his brother author he said:

"My boy, I hear that in a house where other people were kind enough to consider me witty, you declared that I was not so. Is this true?"

"No, not a word of truth in it," the other answered cheerfully. "I was never in a house in my life where anybody considered you witty."

LEARN SECRETS OF NATURE

Form of Enjoyment That Has Not Been Appreciated as it Ought to Be.

To a recent newspaper symposium on the importance of the study of natural history Ernest Harold Baynes of Meriden makes an interesting and valuable contribution.

His experience as a traveler and lecturer convinces him that very few people, comparatively speaking, enjoy nature as they might and as they would like to do, the bar in their way being their ignorance of our common birds, our common quadrupeds, our wild flowers, trees and shrubs.

As he points out: "Most forms of amusement cost money, but to the man, woman or child who has been given a real interest in minerals, wild flowers, insects, reptiles, birds or mammals, a five-cent carfare to the country is the price of admission to the great wonder hall whose roof is the blue sky and whose caretakers are rain and the wind and the sunlight. And by their association with the dwellers of the forest and the moor they not only derive personal happiness but become better citizens."

In the first place they will become more healthy, physically, because they will practice walking, the sanest and more useful form of exercise known to man, under conditions of air and light most conducive to health and body; mentally, because association with nature means association with the sweeter things of life; those things of all others most conducive to health and purity of mind."—Concord Evening Monitor.

SOMETHING WRONG WITH 'EM

Alfalfa Sage Is Lost in Wonderment at the Antics of Those Yaw Boys.

"My profoundest sympathy goes out to the Yaw boys in their terrible affliction," vouchsafed the Alfalfa Sage. "They came of a large and gumptionless family, every member of which is noted for his persistence in hunting trouble and his uniform success in finding it. They invariably stand in the path of on-rushing motor cars when looking aloft to see if the geese are flying southward. They delight in arising in the wee sma' hours to drink cough medicine out of a bottle of poison so thoroughly hidden that a map and a bloodhound are necessary to find it. As soon as the hearing of one of them becomes impaired he will go miles out of his way in order to promenade on the railroad track three minutes before the fast mail is due. A few days ago I read with pity of one of the Yaw boys who came clear to Kansas City from Nebraska for the sole purpose of giving a young man of engaging manners change for a $40 bill. Of course this particular Yaw knew that there never was a $40 bill, but still he cheerfully forked over the change and then gazed in amazement at the engaging young man who had taken the change and fled as the crow flies. What is the matter with those Yaw boys, anyhow? Have they no brains at all, or are what few they possess hopelessly petrified?"—Kansas City Star.

FAMOUS WALNUTS ARE GOING

Woodmen Cutting Illinois Tract of 400 Acres That Has Never Before Been Touched.

Woodmen entered the Makemson tract of timber four miles east of Danville, October 1, and began cutting the world's largest forest of virgin walnut timber. For the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitant woodmen were allowed to enter the 400-acre tract, which was closed to the inspection of all save the close friends of Hiram Makemson during his life.

The forest land came into the possession of a government land patent. By both Hiram and his son it was held sacred. All about the tract were well-titled acres, but not even stock was permitted in the wooded park until after the death of his jealous guardian, some months ago. In settling up the estate a sale was ordered by the court. An Indiana firm of lumber buyers purchased the walnut, paying $95,000 for the timber just as it stands. The ash timber brought $20,000 more, while the hickory, elm, and oak and smaller timber brought the total price for the standing timber close to $150,000.—Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.

SURELY FOR HIMSELF ALONE

Could Be Little Doubt as to Where the Sweet Girl's Love Was Centered.

The pork-packer's daughter was won. Amid the sumptuous trappings of wealth and luxury she plighted her troth with the suitor who had crossed the seas to besiege her heart.

"Are you sure, my darling," he murmured, as they stood together beneath the gorgeous chandelier, "that you love me for myself alone?"

"Charles James Edward," she answered, "I am sure."

"Then listen." With courtly grace he led her to a seat.

"My beloved," he said, tenderly, "I have purposely refrained from telling you about my family, in order that you might be governed in forming your estimate of me by considerations of personal worth."

"Charles James Edward!" A world of love and trust spake she in those simple words.

"Of course, sweet girl, you know I am of noble lineage?"

A warm glance and a gentle pressure of the hand formed her reply.

"And you are aware that my people are among the proudest of the proud. Put are you prepared to know—"

"He bent low and whispered—"that the blood of a king courses in my veins?"

"Yes!" She smiled engagingly.

"I am not surprised. I am informed that there is some dreadful scandal about every one of these aristocratic families. And did it get into the courts, dearest?"

Yes, it was for himself alone that she loved him.—Puck.

The Hunnewell Club observed the departing year in its usual manner on Wednesday evening, and the dancing party was largely attended, about three hundred being present.

The matrons were Mrs. Fred A. Gay, Mrs. Freeman O. Stanley and Mrs. Freedom Hutchinson. The guests were presented by the following ushers: Messrs. Wm. F. Garcelon, Frank P. Scofield, H. P. Curtis, Geo. Lincoln Parker, S. P. Kerns, F. W. Dana, Ralph W. Angier, and Edward M. Hallett, who was in charge.

Dancing was enjoyed until about twelve o'clock, the hall being elaborately decorated with green and red, Christmas bells and wreaths. At that hour, the dancers were invited to the dining room, where President John Hopewell gave them a New Year's toast, a keg of cider being broached for the occasion. The refreshment tables were presided over by Mrs. Edward M. Hallett, Mrs. Francis W. Dana, Mrs. Everett E. Kent and Mrs. Frank P. Scofield.

—Wednesday evening the Mothers' Rest Association gave their annual dance in Bray Hall. This year it was called a Charity Ball and a remarkable success, as the hall was filled to its utmost capacity.

—On Saturday afternoon—boy scouts from troops 3, 4, 5 and 11 went in search of Mrs. Colby. The troops were led by Commissioner Kimbel, formerly scout master of Troop 5. No trace of the missing woman was found.

—Tuesday was reserved as Church Day at the Methodist Church. Mrs. J. A. Allen, corresponding secretary of the New England Woman's Home Missionary Society, spoke to the ladies during the missionary hour at 2:30 P. M.

—Last Tuesday morning the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church held their monthly meeting. At noon time a basket lunch was served, and in the afternoon the W. F. M. S. held their meeting. A goodly number attended both sessions.

—A tea given by Miss Margaret Wheeler, of Mill street, Newtonville, Tuesday afternoon, December thirtieth, the engagement of Miss Gladys M. Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard S. Williams, of Church street, Newton, to Mr. Sumner Stow, of Lake avenue, Newton Centre, was announced.

—Yesterday afternoon the fire department was called out for box 78. While one of Mr. G. D. Miller's men was putting gasoline into his automobile, the machine became ignited and was badly burned. Mr. Douglas Semple of Centre street pushed the car out of the garage, and by so doing avoided what would probably have been a serious fire, if the nearby ice houses had been struck by a spark.

(From Telephone Topics)

President Elliott in his recent book, "The Truth About the Railroads," speaks of the opportunity the employees of the railroads have to show courtesy to the millions of annual passengers.

This truth is strikingly illustrated in the telephone business. The year 1913 shows approximately 658,000,000 originating calls in the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, an average of 110,000 calls to each operator. In other words, each operator has had 110,000 opportunities to make or mar the reputation of the company.

How often is she guilty of discourtesy? The company keeps a classified list of all complaints, and includes as complaints of discourtesy all which the subscriber views as such, even though the operator was only obeying the company's rule, as in using certain standard phrases or in refusing to furnish non-advertised numbers. These so-called discourtesy complaints, both oral and written, approximate 1800 for the year—one for every 365,000 messages; five a day for 1,800,000 daily messages.

Put in another way, three-tenths of one complaint for every operator per year, or three years for one complaint for every operator! Think of it! In three years she has spoken with the public of all classes, conditions and temperaments 330,000 times, and has been thought to be discourteous only once! Concealed that not all dissatisfaction is expressed in complaints, admit that it exceeds the complaints, five, ten, twenty, one hundred times, and even then how does the record compare with that of the average business or professional man?

Let him be his own silent judge. How hard he finds it to please even his friends in his daily contact with them; how much harder to please his chance acquaintances, and how little he knows how many strangers he has offended. If he failed but once in a hundred times, he would feel justly pleased with himself, and have a reputation for sainthood among his neighbors. Yet even then the telephone girl would beat him more than 30 times over! Think of it!

Telephone operating has developed the art of being kind. The aptly chosen phrase, the fitting tone, the ready helpfulness, go further to make this rough world smooth than all our good intentions.

Dedicate Hint.

NEW ENGLAND PORK AND BEEF

Another Interesting and Instructive Article by George French

When we talk about beef raised in New England for the market we are compelled to admit that there is but little of it, and that the prospect of more is not as good as it ought to be. It is said that not more than five per cent. of the beef consumed in New England is raised there. When the fundamental facts about raising beef for the market are considered it is plain that New England should grow all the beef the local markets need. In the past it has not been profitable to keep beef cattle through the winters. The steer for beef should be two or two and a half years old, and must therefore be carried through two winters. The first winter, and up to three or four months previous to making beef of him, he must be kept on short rations. He must be fed to grow, but not to fat. He must be housed, in something approaching comfort, and he has to be fed through a long winter and a spring that always seems backward. When he is ready to begin his second winter he should be put in the barn and kept there until he is sold for the slaughter. When he is tied up to be fattened he must be fed with care, and his feed increased until he is having all he will clean up—corn fodder, hay, silage and all the corn meal he will eat. If the steer is a two-year old, weighing around 1,000 pounds, he may be fattened in two months or a little more. He will gain two pounds a day, sometimes more.

Conditions are now such that the farmer can afford to fat steers for the market, if he knows how and if there is a market. It is necessary that business methods be followed, and that the farmer knows how to feed to fit the creatures for the market in the shortest time and in the best manner. There is a man in the western part of Massachusetts who has made money fattening steers for several years. He buys young stock in Chicago and ships them to his farm in the fall, fates them through the winter and sells them in the spring. He has made money on every shipment. The work comes during the winter when there is not much to do on the farm, and I suppose this man does not reckon the labor very high. Cannot the farmer raise his steers as cheaply as he can buy them? It seems to me that he can raise them much cheaper, or buy calves in the neighborhood. This man paid as much as $5.20 per hundred pounds for his steers. He says that a steer will not increase enough before he must be sold to pay for feeding him, but that the original weight must be increased in value—that is, made fatter so that the beef will be better and command a better price. This is what may be called the "hot-house" method of fattening. There are those who do not believe in it. One farmer who fattens cattle for the market says they are better if kept in sheds with one side open, during the winter. He says they pay better per bushel of corn fed to them than do the cattle that are kept in barns; and if they are kept in good barns the overhead charge is so high that there is but little profit.

Raising beef cattle is a specialty, but there is no reason why farmers who have grazing land and can raise forage crops should not take it up, as soon as there is a market. There should be abattoirs established in two or three central places, with cold-storage plants, where the beef could be slaughtered and cured, and from which it could be distributed.

Pork is not so much of a pure prospect as beef. Men are making money with hogs. A man in western Massachusetts bought a 65-acre farm two or three years ago and began to raise hogs and alfalfa. He says that if he had begun five years earlier he would have had $10,000 profit—which means $2,000 a year off of 65 acres of sandy land. It takes little time to care for hogs, and they pay a good profit. A man in Connecticut made a clear profit of 14.2 per cent on a lot of hogs. A Vermont man made $5.82 each on 70 pigs. A Maine man has figured that he can raise pork for 3 cents a pound. If it sells for 6 cents there is 100 per cent profit, and it usually sells for much more than 6 cents, as we all know who pay 35 cents a pound for bacon.

As showing what can be done in a small way, where there is no labor cost, a Maine man made more than 100 per cent on four pigs he bought when five weeks old. A Massachusetts man paid the mortgage on his farm with pork he raised, and he says there is nothing a farmer can raise with less work and more profit than hogs.

There are several men in New England who have made fortunes raising hogs and marketing their pork products as a specialty. The fact that Deerfoot products will be thought of Mr. Burdett buys much of his pork in the West. He has to. He would be glad to use all New England grown pork, but the farmers all about him see it come from the West, and do not, in sporting parlance, bat an eyelash, neither do they go about raising hogs.

There is a great opportunity in New England to specialize with pork and beef. It is not easy to buy good beef. If there comes into the house a really fine steak it is made the subject of remark. There are sure to be several poor ones for one good one. Beef should be standardized, as to age of animal when slaughtered, breed, weight, condition, and length of time the meat has been kept since killing, as well as the conditions under which it has been kept. All this should be handed to the purchaser of every roast. If such beef could be purchased it would be popular. Why do not the New England men who own the land get together and make just that kind of beef? If they would bind themselves to raise so many cattle every year, it is perfectly certain that men to slaughter and distribute it would come forward.

This beef matter is one for co-operation. No single farmer is going to gamble on beef that he does not know where he can sell or what he can get for it. The few men who are now raising beef with some success have to sell to the big beef men, or manage to handle it themselves. In some parts of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont there are yet local butchers who kill a few cattle, and distribute the meat among their neighbors, and in those states the farmers kill now and then a cow or a pig, and the meat is parceled among the people in the neighborhood. There is a chance in this beef and pork business for some organizer to get busy and work it up. There is money in it, and there would be good meat for New England people in it.

CHILDREN'S PARTY

The Christmas Party for the Kindergarten and Primary Departments of Eliot Sunday School was held Wednesday afternoon in the chapel.

More than seventy children were delightfully entertained for an hour with games, after which they marched out to the primary room, where refreshments were served.

The children then filed into the main hall and gathered about a large Christmas tree which was brilliantly decorated and well laden with gifts.

Mr. Ferry, in the guise of Santa Claus, came tumbling down the ladder from the balcony, much to the amusement of the little folks, who were soon made happy by the distribution of gifts and candy.

There were about 25 parents and friends of the children present.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Arthur L. Brayton and Wendell H. Brayton, both of Newton, County of Middlesex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to the Exchange Trust Company, dated August 30, 1912, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Middlesex, South District, Book 3744, page 84, for breach of the condition in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold on the premises first hereinafter described at public auction on Thursday, the fifteenth of January, 1914, at three o'clock in the afternoon all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and therein described substantially as follows:

Two undivided third parts, and any and all further interest of said Arthur L. Brayton and Wendell H. Brayton in and to a certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon situate and numbered 871 Beacon Street, in that part of Newton called Newton Centre, in the County of Middlesex in said Commonwealth, bounded and described as follows:—Southerly on said Beacon Street ninety (90) feet; easterly partly by land now or formerly of Barton and partly by land now or formerly of Turpin one hundred and twenty (120) feet; northerly by land now or formerly of Edmonds eighty-nine (89) feet, the line being indicated by stakes at either end; westerly partly by land now or formerly of Hawthorne and partly by land now or formerly of Goodwin one hundred and twenty-six (126) feet, containing 11,070 square feet, or however otherwise said premises may be bounded or described and be all or any of said measurements more or less.

Being the same premises described in the deed to Lester Barton dated May 4, 1889, and recorded in the Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 1910, page 28.

Said premises are subject to mortgage for $5000 held by the Newton Savings Bank, dated February 15, 1902, recorded with said Deeds, Book 2947, page 264.

Also a certain parcel of land with a stable thereon, situate on Francis and Elliott Streets in said Newton, being Lots 67, 68, and 69 on a plan recorded with said Deeds, Plan Book 117, Plan 6, containing 11,631 square feet. Said last described lot is subject to a mortgage for $1000 recorded with said Deeds, Book 3534, page 229.

The premises first above described will be sold subject to said $5000 mortgage and accrued interest thereon. The premises secondly above described will be sold subject to the said $1000 mortgage and accrued interest thereon. Both of the lots above described will be sold subject to any and all outstanding tax titles, unpaid taxes, or other municipal liens whatsoever. $1000 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale; other terms at sale. JOHN E. GILCREAST, Assignee and present holder of said mortgage. Boston, December 15, 1913.

FAMILY DINNER

Mrs. Susan Fogwill entertained a family dinner party on Christmas Day at her residence on Washington street, West Newton.

The table was attractively decorated with red azaleas and covers were laid for twenty-eight, all the members of the Fogwill family, with the exception of one being present.

After the dinner, gifts were distributed from a large Christmas tree and a fine musical entertainment was given in the evening, under the direction of Mrs. Beardsley.

N. H. S.

Rindge Technical defeated Newton High Tuesday 1 to 0 at the Brae-Burn rink, in a hockey match which was closely contested throughout.

The soft condition of the ice made fast skating an impossibility, and also told on the players who were not in the best of condition. The best playing on both sides was done by the goal tenders. Camm scored for Rindge a few minutes after he had replaced Cedarstrand, when he carried the puck the length of the rink, and shot the puck past Hawks for the only tally of the game.

CITY HALL

The inmates of the City Home enjoyed a musical program Tuesday. The soloists were Cheney L. Hatch, Alfred M. Russell and Miss Gertrude M. Bourne, all of City Hall, and Mrs. Sibley. The soloists also gave a pleasing program in the wards of the Newton Hospital.

DAINTY DISH ITALIANS LIKE

Ravioli Well Worth a Place on the Tables of Americans Who Care for Good Food.

Dressing.—One scant cup dried mushrooms, one-third cup grated Edam cheese, two cups sausage meat, one cup brains, one small onion, three cloves garlic, one good pinch parsley, one good pinch celery, one colander cooked spinach, nine eggs, one medium sized bowl white bread (cut fine and soaked in milk)—wring bread dry before adding to other ingredients—three tablespoons olive oil, two pinches allspice and salt and pepper to taste. All the ingredients must be chopped fine and thoroughly.

Gravy.—Get a fair sized boiling piece and make a brown gravy by first putting some bacon in a saucepan and then the meat, letting it brown nicely without water. After the meat has cooked a while, add a little onion, some parsley, celery and tomatoes, also a few dried mushrooms, salt and pepper. Let this cook until tomatoes are done, then add a little dry flour and stir it in well. Add enough water to keep the meat from burning and cook until meat is well done. When meat is done, add enough water to make the required amount of gravy.

The Dough.—One sifter flour and a cup more, one small handful salt, two eggs, water enough to make a stiff dough. Roll this dough into several large, thin sheets, spread some dressing on half a sheet of dough and fold the other half over it. With the edge of a thin board mark the "turnover" into three inch squares. Go over the marks made by the board and press the dough together firmly with the thumb. Cut the squares apart with a knife and lay them on a floured board while the remainder of the dough and dressing are made into similar squares.

Cooking.—Have a kettle partly full of boiling salted water, and when the squares are all made up drop into the water and boil for 25 minutes. When the squares are taken from the water they should be drained in a colander.

To Serve.—Put a layer of the squares on a platter, sprinkle a layer of grated cheese over and then put on a layer of gravy. Repeat this process until the platter is full.

This recipe makes enough for about fifteen people.

Philadelphia Clam Soup.

Do not use the juice from the clams in the soup. Have about twenty-five small clams, one quart of milk, three potatoes, two tablespoons of flour, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one-half cup butter, salt and pepper. Chop the clams fine and drain. Pare potatoes and chop. Place milk and potatoes in double boiler. Rub the butter and flour together until creamy and when potatoes and milk have boiled fifteen minutes stir in the butter and flour and cook eight minutes longer. Add parsley, pepper and salt and let boil three minutes. Then add the clams. Cook one minute and the soup is ready to serve. This is delicious.

Neatness in Arrangement.

I find that a small pasteboard box placed on the floor beside me, into which I can drop pieces of thread and scraps of cloth while sewing, is a great help in keeping the room neat. writes a contributor to Los Angeles Express. It saves all that unsightly mess so often seen on the floor when one is sewing. A newspaper spread on the floor to drop the scraps on answers the same purpose and can be picked up and burned when one stops work.—Christian Science Monitor.

Gay Frocks for Children.

The fashion for Bulgarian colorings is as popular as ever, and its conquest is complete as regards some little frocks for children suitable for the spring.

Made of fine crash, cut in the Magyar shape, the hem and sleeves bordered with scarlet, the front embroidered in bright colors, and the whole finished with a scarlet woolen girdle and tassels, they are delightful as play frocks and will wash well.

Poached Eggs and Ham.

Cut a neat round of toast for each person. Butter it and keep hot. Chop one tablespoon cooked ham for each round of toast. Carefully poach eggs. Add to the water a pinch of salt and half a teaspoon lemon juice or vinegar. This will prevent eggs breaking. When poached drain eggs and lay one on each round of toast. Arrange the ham around the edge to form a border sprinkle with a little finely chopped parsley and serve at once.

Cheese Salad.

Ten cents' worth of Roquefort cheese, a ten-cent package of butter, two green peppers, one large Bermuda onion, one-half a stalk of celery will be needed. Rub the Roquefort and cream cheese and butter to a smooth paste, add the finely chopped onion, peppers and celery. Mix well. Season with paprika and put in icebox to harden. Serve with hot toasted crackers.

Fried Cheese Balls.

One and one-half cups of grated cheese, one tablespoonful of flour, the whites of three eggs, salt, pepper, and cracker dust.

Beat the whites of the eggs; add the other ingredients; make into balls and roll in cracker dust. If the amount of flour is doubled, the mixture may be dropped from a spoon and fried without being rolled in crumbs.

Cheese Cake.

Take two quarts sour milk, pour into a cheesecloth bag and let drip 24 hours, after which time turn it into a dish and season with salt, adding one cup thick cream. Then add one cup sugar, four eggs, one tablespoon melted butter, one-half cup cream or milk and currants. Mix ingredients well and bake in a deep pie plate lined with rich dough.

FOR THE WARM DAYS

NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO FIX UP PORCH FURNITURE.

Demands a Little Time and Trouble, But Effect is Well Worth While—Best Method of Staining New Articles.

It is time to get out the porch furniture. This sounds like a task easily accomplished, but in reality it entails a good deal of work. The furniture cannot be just lugged down from the attic or up from the cellar and deposited as it is on the veranda. It must be cleaned and freshened up. Some of it needs a new coat of stain or enamel, some of it needs new cushions. Perhaps it must be replenished, and that means careful shopping.

To begin with the cleaning, this can best be done out of doors, with a garden hose and plenty of hot water. For each chair have a pailful of hot suds, softened with borax. Apply this to the seat of the chair with a stiff whisk broom, and scrub it about vigorously. Then scrub the back, sides and under part of the chair in the same manner. Dash whatever suds remain over the chair, and then rinse it with plenty of fresh, clean water from the hose. Clean tables and all other pieces of furniture in the same way, and let them dry out of doors in the sunshine, or else near a fire.

The cleaning process described may brighten the furniture sufficiently so that no additional stain or paint is needed. If the furniture does need a fresh dressing apply the finish decided on without scraping off the old paint. The result will not, of course, be perfect, but it will be sufficiently good to make the time saved seem worth while. Most porch furniture is hardly valuable enough to spend hours over with sandpaper and paint removers.

New furniture should be carefully stained or enameled. It can be bought, of course, already colored, but as the price of most articles is a dollar less when they are uncolored, and the work is easy to do and pleasant any cheap, it can advantageously be done at home. Enough varnish, enamel or stain for a chair or moderately large table costs from 15 to 25 cents.

Many decorators now give willow furniture a dull instead of shiny finish. To accomplish this apply a flat finish oil stain. Put it on evenly, and allow the first coat to dry before putting on a second.

If the stain is not dark enough when it has dried a second coat can then be put on without danger of cloudiness, stickiness or thickness.

Another way to get a dull finish is to put on a varnish stain and rub it in as you put it on with a cotton cloth. This method makes the stain dry dull.

Salad Francois.

Chop fine a bunch of parsley, two shallots and half a dozen anchovies. Lay them in a bowl and mix with them salt and mustard to taste, two tablespoons of salad oil, and a gill of vinegar. Stir all well together and then add, two or three at a time, some very thin slices of cold roasted or broiled meat, not more than three or four inches long. Shake the slices well as they are put in the dressing. Cover the bowl closely and let it stand for three hours before serving. Served garnished with parsley and some slices of the meat, with a little fat on them.

Rhubarb Cobbler.

Butter a deep earthenware pie dish and fill with rhubarb, unpeeled, but thoroughly washed and cut into pieces half an inch long. Add sugar to sweeten, then cover with a rich puff paste, or, if preferred a fritter batter of eggs, flour, milk and salt, allowing a large tablespoonful of flour to each egg, a teaspoonful of baking powder to each cup of flour used, and milk to make the right consistency. Pour over the rhubarb, which should be slightly heaped in the center, and bake until light and brown.

Lemon Toast.

Take the yolks of three eggs, beat them well and add one and one-half cup sweet milk; take bakers' bread (not too stale), and cut into slices; dip them into the milk and eggs and lay the slices in a spider with sufficient melted butter, hot, to fry a nice, delicate brown; take the whites of the three eggs and beat them to a froth, adding a half cup of white sugar; add the juice of one lemon, beating well, and serve over the toast as a sauce and you will find it a very delicious dish.

Veal Hearts.

Four slices bacon, one sliced onion, four veal hearts, one cup stock, one-half minced pimiento, one teaspoon salt, one-half bay leaf. Fry bacon crisp, remove from the spider and crisp the sliced onion in the hot fat. Trim and wash hearts, slice them, roll in flour and fry in hot fat. Add to the fat in the pan the stock, pimiento, salt and bay leaf. Pour the mixture over the hearts and cook two hours. Add the bacon five minutes before serving.

Cheese Cake.

Take two quarts sour milk, pour into a cheesecloth bag and let drip 24 hours, after which time turn it into a dish and season with salt, adding one cup thick cream. Then add one cup sugar, four eggs, one tablespoon melted butter, one-half cup cream or milk and currants. Mix ingredients well and bake in a deep pie plate lined with rich dough.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss Grace M. Burt, Editor.

For the ninth time the Club Editor extends a Happy New Year to the Graphic readers. May this year be the best in the club life of the city. To make this column more useful every week is the desire of the Club Editor and to do this the hearty cooperation of all the clubs is needed. The cordial support already received is bespoken for the coming year. Notices of all kinds are earnestly solicited, particularly those relating to things being done for the community. Club officers sometimes feel that their club members do not need the notices of their own meetings, not realizing that if each club felt the same way a club column would be an impossibility. That the column is serving the clubs and is worth while is constantly being brought to the Club Editor's attention through the kindly expressions of appreciation and the cordial response from most of the clubs to the request for news. But will the officers please remember that the Club Editor cannot invent news. If she did, woe unto her! When every club is represented and all feel not what they get out of it for themselves, but what they can contribute to it for the benefit of the others, then will this column be serving the community to the best of its ability.

Local Announcements

On Jan. 5 the Newton Highlands Monday Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Rowland W. Barnes, 3 Bowdoin street.

On Monday afternoon the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will hold its meeting at the home of Mrs. W. T. Logan.

Mrs. Roseth Knapp Breed will entertain the Brighthouse Club with Character Sketches on Monday, Jan. 5 at 2.30. This is to be "new members' day", when it is hoped that all will attend and become acquainted.

The monthly meeting of the Newton Mothers' Club will be held with Mrs. Joseph Lovell of Otis street on Monday, Jan. 5th.

On Tuesday, Jan. 6, Mr. W. L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera House will speak before the Newtonville Woman's Guild on "The Tales of Hoffman."

The regular monthly business meeting of the Social Science Club will be held on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Arthur W. Lane, chairman of Education, will be in charge of the meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Jan. 9. Mrs. Anna Sturges Duryea will speak upon "The International Consciousness," and Miss Ellen T. Emerson of the Women's Municipal League of Boston will speak briefly of the work of the Household Nursing Association.

Local Happenings

Mr. Alton Briggs addressed the Waban Women's Club on "The Food Supply in New England" at the home of Mrs. Lewis Bacon on Monday afternoon. He discussed high cost of living, assigning some reasons for it to the excessive luxury in food, to the increase of wages together with the decrease of working hours and to the fact that the population was increasing three times as fast in the consuming area of New England as in the producing area. He was a strong advocate for the "Back to the Farm" movement and of cold storage saying that the latter was absolute necessity, it being the great food supply of the common people. Seventy-five per cent. of the eggs, for example, he said, are produced during April, May and June, and if not put in storage people of ordinary means would be unable to obtain any at all by November and December. Mr. Briggs also said that as a rule the best of food stuffs are put in storage and in that case eggs and butter were exactly as good and the former often better than supposedly fresh eggs from farms even if not taken out until twelve months later.

The Monday Club made its annual visit to the home of Mrs. Henry E. Williams on Saturday last. Mrs. Henry E. Williams read a few selections and Mrs. F. S. Fairchild sang several solos and all joined in singing familiar songs. Refreshments were served and a small token of Christmas left with each resident.

At this week's meeting of the Monday Club Newton Highlands, held in the home of Mrs. C. E. Thompson, Mrs. J. E. Peckham took the subject "Voices of Freedom" and read several selections, among them being "John Burns of Gettysburg" by Bret Hart, "The Colored Soldiers" by Paul Lawrence Dunbar, a negro poet, "Freedom Our Queen" by Holmes, "The Conquered Banner" by a Southern priest, and Lowell's "The Present Crisis". Mrs. W. C. B. Robbins rendered a piano solo, "American Fantasy," and all joined in singing the war time songs. After a brief intermission the speaker for the afternoon was introduced, Mr. W. M. Mick, who gave a very fine address on "The Civil War."

The regular meeting of the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. was omitted on Monday afternoon on account of the illness of the chairman of the day.

On Tuesday afternoon the Newtonville Woman's Guild held its meeting in the Central Congregational Church. Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln gave an interesting and humorous paper on "The Duties of Hostess and Guest." The program was in charge of the new Home Economics committee and Mrs. S. P. Herron, chairman of the State department, was present and made a brief address. Miss Ellen T. Emerson of the Women's Municipal League of Boston, spoke briefly of the work of the Household Nursing Association and that nurses such as the association furnishes may be secured through the Newton Hospital. Two soprano solos by Miss Keith of Newtonville were very much enjoyed.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning Mrs. Elizabeth H. Tilton of Boston spoke of the poster campaign against alcohol which she has originated. Mrs. Tilton is backed by the leading physicians of Boston and many public men. Her idea is to arouse people who haven't thought much about it to the real dangers of alcohol and to prevent the sale of it. Her work is a process of education by means of posters, which shall be placed upon houses and in public places, particularly around large factories and wherever many laborers are employed. A very large number of the men who frequent bar rooms do so for the want of any other place to go. As substitutes she would have coffee houses started and recreation centers established.

Following Mrs. Tilton, Mr. Francis H. Williams spoke to the members upon the proposed artificial plant for Newton. Mr. Williams gave substantially the same talk which he gave before the Newton Federation, which has already been reported in this column.

Mrs. L. P. Everett entertained the Pierian Club for its meeting on Wednesday afternoon when the study of South America was continued. Mrs. Temperley treated Bolivia and Mrs. Dean, Paraguay and Uruguay. In her current events paper Mrs. Mills took up the subject of sex hygiene, quoting largely from recent articles by Dr. Cabot of Boston. After a social hour the club adjourned to meet in two weeks with Mrs. Mills.

The annual New Year's luncheon-bridge of the Newton Mothers' Club was held at the Brae Burn Club on Thursday afternoon about 150 being in attendance. Following the luncheon a group of songs was delightfully rendered by Miss Neecamp of the New England Conservatory of Music. The rest of the afternoon was given up to a social hour. A substantial sum was realized, which will be used for the philanthropic work of the club.

—The picture of Mr. Charles W. Dyer, a former resident of Bennington street appears in a recently published photograph of the American embassy at Berlin, Germany.

—Mrs. Edward Taber Merrihew of Eldridge street announces the engagement of her daughter, Bertha Living, to John Preston Rice, also of Newton, of the Harvard class of 1910.

—At Channing Church next Sunday by special request, Rev. Harry Lutz will preach upon "The Inside of The Cup"; and the following Sunday, Jan. 11, on "The Outside of The Cup."

The engagement was announced, recently, of Miss Grace Francis of Middletown, Conn., to Mr. Harry E. Whitaker of Hunnewell avenue. Mr. Whitaker is an electrical engineer at Jacksonville, Fla.

—A portrait of the late Dr. Julian A. Mead of Watertown, and who was well known in this place, is among the paintings exhibited this week and next at the Copley gallery by Miss Rosamond Coolidge.

—Owing to the recent arrival at the Pomeroy Home of two little orphan children the home is very much in need of a go-cart and crib and any donations suitable for small children will be gratefully received.

—Miss Ellen Nealley, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Nealley, entertained twelve of her young friends at a delightful little birthday party on Wednesday afternoon, at her home on Garden road.

—Rev. Harrie R. Chamberlin will give a series of illustrated sermon lectures on Gothic Cathedrals, on Sunday evenings this winter at the Immanuel Baptist Church. The subject next Sunday will be "The Century of Cathedral Building."

—A meeting of the Channing Branch of the Woman's Alliance will be held Tuesday afternoon in the parlors of Channing Church. Mr. Frank W. Chase, principal of the Bigelow School, will give an address on "The Conservation of Our Boys."

—On Wednesday afternoon at a parlor meeting in North Easton, at the home of Mrs. M. H. Spooner, Mrs. W. E. Birdsell, secretary of the Newton Equal Franchise Association, spoke on "The Truth About Suffrage." There was an interesting discussion afterwards.

—The wedding of Miss Mabel Chick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac William Chick, and James O. Foss, Harvard '06, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Foss of this village, took place at 7.30 last evening at the home of the bride's parents, 347 Beacon street, Back Bay.

—The Foreign Missionary Department of the Woman's Association held a meeting Tuesday afternoon in Eliot Chapel. The program was "China's New Day" and included "The Printed Page: Chinese Love of Literature; and The Translations of the Bible now in Progress."

The Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which usually meets on the first Thursday of each month, is postponed to the following week, to permit the members to attend the annual New Year's reception at the Frances Willard Settlement on Chambers St., Boston. A large number went in.

The next meeting of the Newton Union will be held Jan. 8, 1914, at the home of Mrs. Augustus Remington, 91 Otis street, Newtonville. The subject for the afternoon will be "Work among Sailors and Soldiers."

POLICE NOTES

A fine of $65 was imposed upon Carmine Tomolillo of 38 Beecher place, Newton Centre, by Judge J. C. Kennedy in the Police Court Tuesday morning on the charge of carrying a loaded revolver. Tomolillo was arrested at 4 o'clock Monday morning at Waverley avenue and Cotton street by Patrolman Richard Bannon while standing behind some bushes. When the patrolman accosted him, Tomolillo struck him with his fist, and after a short tussle he was taken to headquarters. Tomolillo paid the fine.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE—"Mercedes," the sensation of London and Paris, who is unquestionably the most remarkable man that the world ever produced, will make his first American appearance at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. "Mercedes" is described as the monarch of the unknown forces of nature who has harnessed thought transference to music. Every person in the audience has the opportunity of testing Mercedes' remarkable powers. Merely think of a musical selection, be it grand opera, ragtime, sacred music, ballads, classic or patriotic airs. Mercedes will transfer your thought suggestion mentally to Mlle. Stanton, his assistant, who sits at the piano, and the Mlle. will play the desired selection without a second's hesitation. This is without question, the most remarkable mental work ever conceived or promulgated by man. The prince of pun-makers, Jack Wilson, will also be on hand, assisted by Ada Lane and Jack Boyle. Robert F. Holmes, the well-known actor will appear in "The Man In The Dark," his latest success, and other big attractions will be the Empire Comedy Four, America's funniest quartette; "The Purple Lady," B. A. Rolfe's big musical comedy, with Ralph Lynn and company of sixteen; Lily Long, the enchanting English songbird; Samoff & Sonia, the Russian dancers; and many other features yet to be announced.

"THE MERRY FIDDLE"
A play for children, "The Merry Fiddle," is to be given at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, on Friday afternoon, February 13th, and Saturday morning, February 14th (Valentine's Day), by The Children's Players. It will be remembered that last year The Children's Players gave "The Naughty Little Princess" and the year before "The Forest Ring"—both fairy story plays. "The Merry Fiddle" has to do with a magical fiddle which accomplishes all sorts of things. The actors of The Children's Players are not children, but adults, most of whom are members of college and other dramatic clubs of the vicinity. Miss Boyle, Robert F. Holmes, and Miss Caroline Freeman are director of it and Miss Esther Sidelinger is "leading" little girl.

BOSTON'S STREET MATRON

Reprint from "The Survey"—Issue of July 12, 1913.

"That it is not necessary to delay motherly oversight of the girls of the street until the city can appoint women to its police force, has been proved by the first six months' work of Mrs. Thomas H. Tyler, Boston's street matron.

"About the first of the year the Florence Crittenton League of Compassion, desiring to join preventive measures to its rescue work, rented an apartment in the Fenway, and established Mrs. Tyler there in homelike surroundings. From that centre, night after night she has gone about the streets and the parks, into the theatres and cafes, wherever girls are to be found, and has quietly and unobtrusively given her help where needed. She has no police authority, no distinctive dress or badge and does her work by the sheer force of her friendliness. The service she renders runs the whole gamut of girls' needs. It varies from seeing a simple country girl safely on the right car to plucking swiftly from an equally simple girl from the final misstep.

"She is a friend to girls and her entire formula of service is embraced in the phrase so often on her lips: 'She saw I was her friend.' Nor is it an idle formula with Mrs. Tyler. The girls she helps are her friends—they are not cases; they are individuals who need Mrs. Tyler.

"While generalization is difficult because each girl has her own peculiar needs, it is safe to say that the Shelter is possibly the most effective instrument Mrs. Tyler uses. Here she invites her girl friends for a day or a week, as the case may be, and here they find a home—many of them for the first time. She believes it to be of prime importance that the bewildered girl shall get a chance first to catch her breath and then to get a fresh grip on her self-respect. So the girl is at once made to feel that she is a friendly guest, not an inmate, of a friendly home.

"So when Gertrude, a college girl whose lapse was chiefly occasioned by sheer laziness, came home with Mrs. Tyler, they visited concerts and art museums in deference to the visitor's tastes. On their return other friends of Mrs. Tyler came in a perfectly normal fashion, and Gertrude felt herself a guest among many. So Mrs. Tyler quietly emphasized the beauty of enjoying those delights in a perfectly legitimate way and in companionship which left no bitter taste. But Mrs. Tyler's other friends were all workers, and Gertrude was given something to think about.

Annie, however, had known but little of home life. When Mrs. Tyler picked her out from a crowd of roistering sailors, she needed physical care. Her clothes were dirty; disease and vermin clotted in her sick body. When she was clean and whole—the Society's expense account provided a new outfit for her—Annie's tastes were also consulted. She knew nothing of art or music, but did like animals and Mrs. Tyler took her to the Zoo at Franklin Park. The next night they went to prayer meeting and strangely enough the lesson that evening was on repentance. When Mrs. Tyler tucked her in bed that night Annie said, 'I think I could say a little prayer tonight.'

Mrs. Tyler's activities in no way supplant those of the established agencies; they supplement them, and offer opportunity to exceptional value. It is significant that the organization behind Mrs. Tyler, one long known for its rescue work, has now turned its attention in the direction of preventive work."

Mrs. Tyler is well known in Newton where she has made her home for many years.

LET SOMETHING GOOD BE SAID

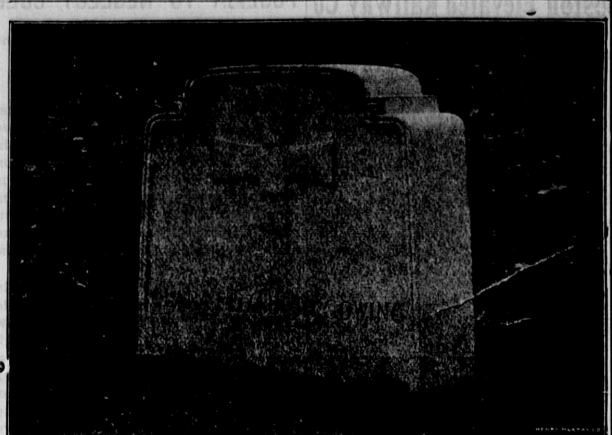

By James Whitcomb Riley

When o'er the fair fame of friend or foe
The shadow of disgrace shall fall;
Instead
Of words of blame, or proof of thus and so,
Let something good be said.

Forget not that no fellow-being yet
May fall so low but love may lift his head,
Even the cheek of shame with tears is wet,
If something good be said.

No generous heart may vainly turn aside
If ways of sympathy; no soul so dead
But may awaken strong and glorified,
If something good be said.

And so I charge ye, by the thorny crown,
And by the cross on which the Saviour bled,
And by your own souls' hope of fair renown,

LAND COURT.

To Marion E. Saville, of Newton, in the County of Middlesex, and said Commonwealth; Hattie A. Ruddock, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and said Commonwealth; Carrie Jones and Allen C. Jones, of Brookline, in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Edward B. Wheeler, of Las Vegas, in the State of New Mexico; any heirs, devisees or legal representatives of Eber, William and Elijah F. Woodward, late of said Newton, deceased, who have not released their interest in the land hereinafter described; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Harry J. Strand, of said Boston, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land situated that part of said Newton, called Newton Highlands, bounded northwesterly on Beethoven Street 183.80 feet northeasterly on land now or formerly of Marion E. Saville 150 feet; southeasterly on land now or formerly of Hattie A. Ruddock 50 feet; southeasterly on land now or formerly of Edward B. Wheeler 50 feet; southeasterly again on said land of Wheeler 146 feet; and southeasterly again on Woodward Avenue 100.74 feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston in the County of Suffolk, on the twelfth day of January A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

The Decalogue Declared To Be the Fundamental Moral Law

The Rev. Walter B. Murray of Bridgewater delivered a lecture last Sunday evening in the Church of the New Jerusalem at Newtonville, on the subject "A Decalogue for Today."

He began by saying that the Ten Commandments were not popular, and never had been so. As children many people had been induced to learn them, and it was fortunate for them that they had had stored up in their memories these fundamental principles of morality and religion; but they were not learned from love of them, nor do naturally-minded men and women love them. Such people do not like laws which restrain them in the exercise of their selfish instincts; they prefer to be a law unto themselves.

He said that the Israelites, to whom the Commandments were first given, seldom kept them except for reward. "We know from their history that they did not keep them. They were continually lapsing into idolatry, which meant that they broke the first and second commandments, and naturally they must have broken all the rest. Their failure to keep them resulted in the captivity of both Israel and Judah, and the extinction of the ten tribes. Even the Jews who returned from Babylon, although they did not again become idolaters, yet by their ingenious and crafty interpretations of them, for which they were rebuked by Jesus, made them void."

The first thing the Christians did was to try to throw off the yoke of the law, by claiming that Christ had fulfilled the law, both ceremonial and moral, and hence those who believed in Him were saved by faith, not by the law, even the moral law being made of secondary importance.

But Jesus did not try to eliminate the Ten Commandments. Instead, in His answer to the rich young man who came to Him and asked how he might have eternal life, He told him to keep the Commandments, thus showing that they are the basis of our hope of heaven. The Beatitudes are merely the complement of the Commandments. In the Sermon on the Mount the chief theme is the keeping of the Commandments, not only externally, but in spirit.

The speaker said that his object was to show that the Ten Commandments were not something the people should run away from, but as important to human life as the bony framework of the body which gives it form and strength and permanence. Without them there could be no security for life or property or loved ones; no homes, no government, no organization of human society, but instead only a wilderness in which fierce wild beasts roam from which we would have no protection. It was not only the Sabbath that was made for man, but the whole moral law. The Decalogue is thus not a code of disagreeable religious precepts which interfere with our liberty and prevent our happiness, but a God-given expression of love for the human race in order that we may enjoy the fullest protection, the most perfect liberty and undying happiness.

Even if the Ten Commandments were not new to human society when they were given, they were certainly the first official expression of the fundamental laws of morality and religion which have survived the wreck of ages. And they were then given for the first time as the basis of all religion, with the religious motive, the strongest in our natures, as an incentive to keep them. True religion was thus shown to be the faithful performance of our duties and obligations to God and our fellowmen. If as selfish men we are urged to a recognition of these duties and obligations by a series of Thou-shalt-nots, nevertheless this leads us later to a recognition of higher motives, and makes it possible for us to understand the summing up of the law and the prophets in the two great commandments. The law and the prophets had to precede and serve demands of us.

The speaker then showed that the Ten Commandments contain in a brief summary the complex of all things of religion, and that by means of a life according to them there is a conjunction of God with man and of man with God, which is the end of all religion. He showed that not only is the Decalogue the basis for all our civil law, but of all natural law as well in whatever field of nature. For spiritual law is back of all natural law. Indeed natural law is only a name for spiritual law in operation on the plane of nature. Spiritual law fashions the world of nature and dominates it; it is the expression of God, the Creator of all things, who is Spirit. Thus, the basis of universal law is the moral law.

He closed by saying that we should love the Decalogue as the bulwark of human liberty, the foundation of civilization, the basis of all earthly and heavenly happiness.

TITTA RUFFO

Titta Ruffo, the Italian baritone, and the most sensational singer of our time, not even excepting Caruso, will make his first appearance in Boston in Symphony Hall next Sunday afternoon, January 11th, at 3.30. He will have the assistance of Miss Florence Hinkle, the admired soprano, and William Morse Rummel.

The appearance of Ruffo in Boston is watched with much curiosity by all who are interested in opera particularly and in singing in general. He gains fame, if only from the fact that his fee is greater than that of any other singer in the world, with the exception of Caruso and Melba. He is said to be a skilled singer and a musicianly artist. At present he is a member of the Chicago Opera Company.

SWIMMING LESSONS

Newton Y. M. C. A. Announces Free Classes For Next Two Weeks

Free swimming lessons will be given for the next two weeks to the men and boys of this city by the Newton Y. M. C. A. in accordance with the schedule printed below.

For this purpose the Association has obtained the services of Mr. William D. McCarthy of the Mass. Humane Society and every man and boy in the city, who wishes to know how to swim, will be given free instruction.

50,000 men and boys were taught how to swim last year in the swimming pools of the Young Men's Christian Associations and in out-door pools in this country and two years ago 600 boys were given instruction in six days in this city.

The schedule follows: Police and Firemen at 10 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

School boys, 10 to 12 years from 4 to 4.30 P. M. each day except Saturday and from 11 to 11.30 A. M. on Saturday.

School boys 13 to 16 years from 4.30 to 5 P. M. each day except Saturday and from 11.30 to 12 on Saturday morning.

High School Boys from 3 to 3.30 and from 3.30 to 4 P. M. each day except Saturday and from 10 to 10.30 and from 10.30 to 11 A. M. on Saturdays.

Employed Boys from 8.30 to 9 P. M. on Monday from 8 to 8.30 P. M. on Tuesday and Thursday and from 7.30 to 8 P. M. on Thursday and Friday.

Seniors from 9 to 9.30 P. M. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

DANCING PARTY

Miss Veronica Stuart entertained a company of friends at a dancing party on Saturday evening at her residence on East Side parkway, Newton. The parlors and reception rooms were converted into a ball-room and attractively decorated with evergreen, Christmas wreaths, and holly.

The occasion was delightfully social and informal and was participated in by about ten couples.

Miss May Dailey, a Tufts College friend, furnished an excellent program of popular music, and at the close of the dancing, refreshments were served. The decorative scheme for the dining-room was pink, with ferns and pink carnations in pleasing arrangement on the table.

DAY OF PRAYER

Thursday, January 15th, will be observed as a day of prayer throughout the United States by the members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for the success of the united effort being made by temperance and church organizations for national prohibition. In accordance with this observance the West Newton Union will hold a prayer service from 2.30 to 4.30 o'clock that day in the vestry of the Methodist Church, Newtonville, at which all Christian women are invited to be present.

THE MIKADO

Popular Comic Opera Revived For Annual Players Benefit

The Mikado, Gilbert and Sullivan's well-known comic opera will be presented week after next by an all-star cast of well-known amateurs of Newton on the evenings of January 20, 22 and 23 and also a Saturday afternoon matinee on January 24, in Players' Hall, West Newton. This is the annual play presented for the benefit of Players' Hall, and gives every promise to surpassing the great successes scored in the past.

Last year "San Toy" was presented and the year previous the difficult musical play "Pinafore" was given, both with great success. Many of those who took part in the past two shows, will again be seen behind the footlights this year.

The show is being staged under the direction of Mr. William G. Hambleton, well-known in Newton for his musical ability and also the success of his past productions. Mr. Hambleton is conducting the music, and Mr. Hubert W. Pierce is aiding Mr. Hambleton as assistant manager.

The title role of Yum-Yum will be taken by Mrs. Joseph B. Ross, who has combined with her natural acting ability a beautiful voice. Miss Dorothy B. Seccomb will take the part of Piti-Sing, Miss Ruth Stutson as Ko-Ko, Mr. Thomas E. Stutson as Ko-Ko, Mr. Francis W. Sprague, 2nd, as Poo-Bah, Mr. Ralph Somers as the Mikado, Dr. Leslie Naylor as Nanki-Poo and Mr. Clinton Kyle as Pish-Tush.

The chorus will comprise Miss Winifred Adams, Miss Dorothy Atkinson, Miss Irene Atkinson, Miss Mary K. Bacon, Miss Ellen S. Brever, Miss Frieda Davis, Miss Ethel Gardner, Miss Gladys V. Glover, Miss Dorothy Hartel, Miss Helen Hartel, Miss Margaret Hunt, Miss Helen Kuntz, Miss Eleanor M. Morton, Miss Helen P. Morton, Miss Dona Morris, Miss Eunice Newhall, Miss Louise Newhall, Miss Martha T. Rice, Miss Hildegard Shirley, Miss Miriam K. Tenney, Frank D. Baker, T. Edward Cutler, William A. Dorney, Cyril W. Forbush, J. Ellis Gammons, Samuel H. Gardner, William Fawcett, Warren Jackson, G. E. Nicholson, H. H. Richardson, Howard Thomas, George Toney, Richard D. Warren, George M. Wilson, H. W. Newell.

Mr. Harold I. Whitney of Watertown, who won much favor by his dancing during the past in Newton, will again be seen in the "Mikado," having as his partner, Miss Pauline Chamberlain. The business end will be looked after by A. G. Hosmer, Mr. Stuart Chase and Francis W. Sprague, 2nd. The program is in charge of Mayor Charles E. Hatfield and Mr. Harry L. Burrage. Miss Lillian Harrington will be the mistress of the dance and Miss Mary Sprague is mistress of wardrobe and properties.

ENTERTAIN HONORARY MEMBERS

The members of the Nonantum Association entertained its honorary members Tuesday night in their clubhouse on Dalby street, Nonantum. During the evening several speeches were made, and a beautiful checker board, set with pearl, was presented to the club by A. H. Waitt and Paul J. Burrage, both honorary members of the club. Several talented members of the club rendered a most pleasing musical program, and the addresses were made by Edwin O. Childs, Jr., Mayor-elect; A. H. Waitt, Paul J. Burrage, Alderman Reuben Forknall, Alderman John W. Murphy, George R. Stratton, Paul Champagne, all honorary members, and Walter Gibson, Frank Prendergast, William Hanson and Stephen Morrell, officers of the association.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC SETTLEMENT

Unique Philanthropy Is Greatly Appreciated By Many Young People

When the year of 1910 drew to a close, no resident of the city of Newton, Mass. could have foretold that at the end of three years, a Music Settlement would have been so firmly established there that its future is today a practically assured thing. Even the generous-hearted, music-loving woman, who started in the simplest manner to share her own musical advantages with the children of Newton's working-class, never dreamed of the success resulting from her initial effort.

Miss Fyffe (Elizabeth Fyffe) herself attributes these results to the generosity of those who have encouraged and aided her with their money, their influence and their leisure, for the school is entirely supported by voluntary contributions, and the income from the lessons. Nevertheless, the inception of the settlement must be credited to her own great desire "to teach," as she once wrote "two or three children. If I could find so many, who might need musical instruction, for which they could not afford to pay the regular prices, or any price at all." Of the swift development from this simple beginning, she said:

"I had no thought that there was any field in West Newton for a serious movement of the sort, and when I found myself confronted with a demand which far outstripped my possibilities, all I could do was to enlist others to help me with the actual teaching of the pupils who applied."

In how many villages and towns and cities of the United States might not some other man or woman, music-loving and generous-hearted, find a similar development if he planted his seed? Lack of time might be the excuse of many people, but the records of this school are but a repetition of the old truth, that the busiest people are the ones who always find or make time to help others.

Through the management of the day nursery at West Newton, twenty children were found within two weeks, who were eager to avail themselves of the musical instruction Miss Fyffe offered. She had intended to ask the teachers of music in the public schools to watch for children suitable in age and sufficiently interested to be given the benefit of private lessons—but at no time since the school started has there been need of this. There always has been a waiting-list.

When there came the response of twenty children desirous of beginning at once, and before it seemed at all feasible, Miss Kimberly had organized the elementary orchestra, which is now perhaps the most striking feature of the school.

The audience that recently attended the operetta marvelled at the work of the children composing this ensemble orchestra. One may marvel still more if by chance he realizes what it must have meant on the parts of both pupils and teacher, to get such results from a group of twenty-three children, the youngest of whom is aged eight and the oldest, seventeen. Moreover, two of the pupils playing had taken lessons only two and a half months.

A Cosmopolitan Crowd

All the pupils are American born, the majority being of Irish parentage. There are several Swedes, others of Danish blood, some of French-Canadian descent and a number of Italians. Perhaps the parents of no other children are prouder than the colored fathers and mothers whose music-loving boys and girls make such excellent progress.

Pupils are accepted on probation and must show their sincerity by regular work, continued effort, and prompt attendance. Each child is given a book of his own, which records for every lesson, his marks for the different parts—scale, exercise, piece and chart. Effort, by the way, is not how hard he tries but how much he advances. When his average falls below for a lesson, he can see for himself where his weakness lies and he must bring up that mark.

Oddly enough, there is no mark given for prompt and regular attendance—none is needed. The very occurrence (Continued on Page 8)

EDITORIAL

The uncalled for reflection in the Boston papers on Alderman Blakemore to the effect that he had accepted a re-election to the board of aldermen, from Ward 1, notwithstanding the fact that he intended to move in the near future into Ward 7, does not state all the facts in the case. Alderman Blakemore did not intend to be a candidate for re-election this fall, but a canvass of precinct two of Ward one, proved that the best interests of the city would be served by inducing Mr. Blakemore to stand again. This action was strongly urged by many leading citizens of Ward
one, and Mr. Blakemore at last consented to serve another year with the understanding that he would retire at the end of the present municipal year.
As precinct two of Ward one and Ward
seven are practically one community, this action will meet the approval of all unbiased citizens.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. is to be commended for its offer to give free swimming lessons to the men and boys of this city. With 5000 lives lost annually in this country by accidental drowning, the Association is doing a real service to humanity by teaching our youth to swim. Every man and boy in Newton should take advantage of this splendid offer of the Newton Association.

FOR THE BLIND

Mr. E. E. Allen Speaks to Men's Club of Newton M. E. Church

A meeting of the Men's Club of the Newton Methodist Church was held Tuesday evening in the parish rooms.
The speaker of the evening was Mr.
Edward E. Allen, Director of the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts School for the Blind.

Mr. Allen stated that the New England Asylum for the Blind, was incorporated in 1828. The first director of the school was Dr. Samuel G. Howe, who afterwards married Julia Ward.
He first opened a class in his father's house, but shortly afterwards a very wealthy man, Thomas A. Perkins, presented the corporation with a building which he owned, and the corporation was afterwards named in memory of him. Outgrowing this building the corporation exchanged the same for what was then the great Mt. Washington House in South Boston, where the main school was located until the present quarters were constructed at Watertown. Dr. Howe worked for 40 years, and one of his great successes
was the education of Laura Bridgman, and helped to give the Perkins Institution its name.

Dr. Howe died in 1876, and was succeeded by Dr. Michael Anagnos, who developed a marvelous gift for collecting money. He solicited contributions amounting to some two million dollars, and his great work in this respect is still bearing fruit. The great part of this money was for the kindergarten part of the school, infact such a large part, that when the present buildings were erected it became necessary to borrow a large sum from the kindergarten branch.

Dr. Anagnos went to Greece in 1906 and perished there. Mr. Allen then became director of the school, coming from Philadelphia. He agreed to accept the position on the condition that a new location was selected for the institution. He went abroad to study conditions in the institutions in Europe and on returning discovered that a better system of handling such an institution was already in use at Perkins Institution than at any he had visited abroad, and by dividing the pupils into groups of about 20, each with a house of its own, taken care of by a matron, and its own corp of teachers. The question of obtaining a site for such an institution was the next problem and it was called to the attention that this land in Watertown was vacant and with the agreement that it should always remain as one complete estate, the land, 34 acres, was purchased for the sum of $50,000.

The pupils do not pay tuition, or are not required. The blind as a rule are poor people. There is one student from California who pays a tuition of $300 which is about three-fourths of what it costs to educate them during one term. The institution does not pay taxes. The State of Massachusetts pays the institution $30,000 each year, with the agreement that the school shall educate such students as the State shall send to them. A great majority of the pupils come from the New England States, Rhode Island
contributing 40, Maine about 20. Each of these states pay $300 per pupil, the institution therefore being relieved of the necessity of erecting and equiping an institution for the blind in their respective states. The $30,000 contributed by Massachusetts is about one-half of the amount necessary to run the institution during one session. It is run on the same principle as a boarding school, the scholars remaining closed during Christmas, Easter and through the summer. Many of the children whose homes are nearby go home over Sunday.

Pupils are allowed to stay at the institution just as long as it is necessary for them to equip themselves so that they are able to go out into the world and earn a living. The boys and the girls are kept entirely apart, each having their own buildings, and at times for chorus rehearsals, mainly to prevent intermarriage.

There are 50 teachers for the 284 pupils. The daily routine of the school is somewhat as follows:

Bells ring at 6 A. M., upon arising one of the teachers leads the way to the shower baths which are located each cottage. Breakfast is served at 6.50 A. M., teachers and pupils partaking of the same menu, each group being served in the dining room in its own cottage. The work of setting, clearing away the tables and washing and drying of the dishes is done by the pupils.

A strong attempt is made to work up a musical education for all pupils, particularly the boys, it being found that they make a better living and are more successful as piano tuners and teachers of music.

With the girls an attempt is made to give them a complete domestic training, it being found that they very soon go into the home to earn their living, but are more needed and better served to help in their home life.

He urgently requested all present and in fact everyone to come and visit the institution.

ROOT CROPS IN NEW ENGLAND

By George French

It takes a pretty worthless piece of land to be so poor that good crops of roots cannot be raised on it—beets, turnips and carrots as the staples,
with parsnips, radishes, and the more unusual varieties according to the exact nature of the land and the demands of the market at hand.

There is a steady market for these roots, and if they are of good variety, well grown and properly prepared for the taste of the discriminating buyer, they bring good prices. They must be regularly and promptly marketed. The real dealer or the commission man must know what he can depend upon.
It is not good policy to happen into a man's store whenever it is convenient to take a load of roots to town, with a scrubby lot of unnamed stuff, not too well grown. The wagon should be at the store promptly on time, as agreed, on the day set, or on every day if the market is large enough to absorb that much, and the roots should be clean and neatly trimmed, uniform in size and regular in shape, and of such named varieties as have something distinctive about them, in size, shape or color, and the grower will after a time have the advantage of a trade mark. This is important. There should also be some attractive label used, so that the buyers will get to know Smith's turnips and beets, and look for the label on the box or barrel from which the retailer serves. Then if the texture and flavor are also distinctive, the grower will soon have a market for his roots, and he can take his product as to almost eliminate the cost of selling. The lowest priced hand can go to market with the load, saving the time of the owner both as to going with the load and as to peddling it around to all the dealers when he did go. In this matter of good goods well packed, with labels, and of all the difference between profit and loss, or between just existing and being able to put some money in the bank every week.

I know two brothers, Danes, who went into the very heart of the most rural of all the rural districts in New England, one of the little almost forgotten hill towns in central Massachusetts, as much as 25 or 30 years ago, and bought a little abandoned farm of some 60 or 70 acres. They had been market gardeners in the Flatbush district of what is now the Borough of Brooklyn of the city of New York. They had been laborers there, working for one of the then big gardeners of that region. What they wanted of the small, rocky, barren piece of waste land up on that cold and moisty hill nobody about that region could imagine. The house was a wreck, and the land was not thought worth paying taxes on. The only apparent advantages seemed to be the free air and being but eight miles from a good market.

But the brothers went to work, grubbing out the big rocks and patching
the soil, and the house so that it would not be drowned in their beds
when there came a storm in the night.
They put in a patch of cabbages, and a few turnips and beets, using commercial fertilizers for the most part.
The neighboring farmers laughed, and guessed how long it would be before the brothers went back to Flatbush.
But they were all astonished to see the good crops that were harvested the first season; but they had some more laughs when they saw the roots carefully washed, trimmed and neatly packed in clean barrels. These roots sold easily. The brothers worked on, in the light of the grins of their neighbors. They took out more roots, and every year they had more good roots and cabbages to take to market.
"That dumb, poor land will all run out in a year or two," said the farmers.
But it didn't. It got better and better,
and there were better and better crops,
until the brothers had got their yield up to a big two-horse load every day in the year, with perhaps two or three exceptions due to snow storms in the winter; and the produce all went to one commission man, who has now handled it for all these years, and of course made a lot of money on it.

The brothers stored their roots in ground cellars, not much but mere pits, and took them out as needed, trimmed and washed them, and carted

MADE STUDY OF EPIDEMIC

Young American Doctors Braved Death to Investigate Causes of Dread Pneumonia Plague.

In the fourteenth century an epidemic known to students as the black death swept over the larger part of the civilized world. It started in northern China, worked its way westward, and ultimately destroyed 25,000,000 people in Europe, one-fourth of the total population. Two years ago this same disease, now scientifically rechristened the pneumonia plague, started again in its old medieval birthplace—and in less than three months destroyed 50,000 people.

This recent outbreak in Manchuria is the first time the disease in extensive epidemic form has visited the civilized world in 500 years. It was the first opportunity that modern medical science has ever had to study the disease at first hand.

Two young Americans, Dr. Richard P. Strong and Dr. Oscar Teague, in the face of all kinds of dangers and discouragements forced their way into the heart of the plague infested region, established rough and ready scientific laboratories at Mukden, made a large number of autopsies upon the stricken Chinamen—the first which had ever been performed in this ancient capital, the religious scruples of the Chinese having prevented experiments of the kind—and, in a bulky volume recently issued at Manila, have presented to the scientific world a detailed and comprehensive study of this disease—probably the most famous in history and romance as it is certainly the most terrible in the rapidity and uniformly fatal character of its results.—The World's Work.

FOR MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

While the will of the late Dr. Jesse F. Frisbie has not yet been filed, it is stated on good authority that after making several bequests to relatives, the remainder of his property is bequeathed to Gov. Samuel D. Felker and Horace L. Worcester of Rochester, N. H., and Mr. Robert D. Holt of Newton, as trustees, for the establishment of a hospital in Rochester, N. H. Dr. Frisbie's native place, as a memorial to his son, Mr. Frank Dunlap Frisbie, and to be known as the Frisbie Memorial Hospital.

MUSIC CLUB MEETS

The West Newton Music Club met on Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. Thomas P. Baxter on Bristol road, West Newton, and an interesting program was rendered by club members, including piano solos by Miss Florence M. Carter and Miss Lillian West, vocal selections by Miss Alice Sampson, accompanied by Miss Rosalind Kempton and Miss Isabella W. Puffer, cello solos by Mrs. Lillian Haynes Walker, with Miss Puffer at the piano, duets by Miss Bernice Keach and Mrs. Ethel Keach Ferrin, with Miss Carter as accompanist and a sonata for violin and piano by Miss Elizabeth Fyffe and Mrs. Harry L. Burrage.

N. H. S.

The High School hockey team trimmed the Medford High School seven Saturday afternoon on the Brae-Burn C. C. rink, 1 to 0. The game was hard fought and at times rough. Newton caged its goal after 10 minutes of play. Capt. Rice and Barker by good team work bringing the puck down the ice and Barker pushing it into the net. The ice was in perfect condition for the game and a good-sized crowd of hockey enthusiasts watched the contest.

ALDERMEN DINE

The annual dinner of the Newton board of aldermen was held Monday evening at the Brae Burn Club and was one of the most enjoyable affairs of its kind. President Blakemore was the toastmaster and the guests were Mayor Charles E. Hatfield, City Clerk Grant and Clerk of Committees Brimblecom. After discussing an excellent menu, the board held a mock session at which the idiosyncrasies of the different members were magnified in a humorous manner and fake reports and communications on alleged city business were discussed. A parody on the local newspapers was also enjoyed.

Remarks were made by Mayor Hatfield, and Aldermen Sullivan, Jones and Gordon, who retire this year, and by Aldermen Pratt, Murphy, Blanchard and Barker.

Those present included Aldermen Forknall, Murphy, Cabot, Blanchard, Cox, Pratt, Alley, Winslow, Jones, Sullivan, Bartlett, Richardson, Rice, Gordon, Barker and Jarvis.

CLAFLIN GUARD VETERANS

The annual dinner of the Claflin Guard Association, which was postponed from last November on account of the sudden death of its secretary, Col. Robert B. Edes, will be held next Thursday evening at the American House, Boston.

Mr. Tierney is the youngest man advanced to that position in the history of Middlesex Court. He is but 21 years old, and holds the rank of first lieutenant in Co. C, 5th regiment.

—A very interesting debate was carried on Sunday evening by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Immanuel Baptist Church, resolved, "That work inside the C. E. Society is more important than that outside." Affirmative, Wm. Capen, and Miss Helene Moore; Negative, Walter Paine and Mrs. Chester Cotton.

The Judges, Mr. Blaisdell, Mr. MacPherson and Miss Buttrick awarded the victory to the affirmative.

A DECLARATION OF FAITH

If life, after all, is a lottery fair, Where some must draw blanks, while others draw prizes, What good is our worry or hurry or care?

Whenever the shadow of trouble arises?

Worry has killed, but never has cured; Care brings the crows-feet, but never the bird-song;

And pain is less sharp if it's wisely endured. And even a wall may be turned to a word-song.

If life is a voyage according to chart, Between a cold Pole and a torrid Equator, My Captain, I know, will not harden his heart

And leave me marooned on a berg or a crater.

Then hurry and worry and scurry who will, The grave-flower to win at the end of life's highway;

True beauty I'll find in the grass by my sill, And joy in the bramble I meet in the byway.

Henry Murray Co., has enjoyed the most prosperous year in its history and started the year 1914 with many orders in advance. The company was established in 1870 by Henry Murray and has been located at 41 Haverhill St., during all these years. The workshop of the concern is located on Medford St., Charlestown, where the largest force of expert stone workers in this vicinity is employed. The firm has facilities for turning out the finest work of its character, and there is hardly a large cemetery in this country but what has among its conspicuous monuments and head stones, examples of the splendid work of the Henry Murray Co. The company is noted for the originality of its designs and the harmonious and artistic detail and faithful reproductions. The work is designed with a view to natural surroundings and location and with its splendid force of artists, sculptors and skilled workmen, it is able to give entire satisfaction, no matter how pretentious or elaborate the monument. Among some of the work in the Newton Cemetery are those adorning or marking the lots of Wm. T. Cobb, Wm. D. Harvey of Farley, Harvey Co., Harry D. Priest, Wm. H. Rogers, Wm. Emerson Barrett, formerly of the Boston Record and Advertiser. While making monuments for hundreds of persons and families throughout the country, the Henry Murray Company has erected to its skill and workmanship monuments that will last as long as those that mark the graves of many prominent Americans.

How does your gear shift feel—is it "loose"—has it "play"? This highly important part of your car wears none too slowly—and if the wear isn't "taken up", worn parts replaced or bushed, you are apt to have stripped gears because of the "shift" not fully meshing them.

We'll attend to your gear shift and every other part of your car RIGHT if you have us evenhanded it.

Up-to-date equipment, and ample space, also competent mechanics.

Supper was served at 11:30 and among the guests at one table, were Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Ayer of Prince street, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker of Newton Centre, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Stratton of Newton Highlands, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Warren of Newton, and Mr. and Mrs. George N. Towle of Newton Centre, who are spending the winter season at the Copley-Plaza.

—The little girl was the pet and favorite of the family. Always with a delicate physique, the rest constantly and loyally helped her in all her undertakings. She was educated at the Boston Girls' High School and the Chaucer Hall School.

—The family removed to Newton about twenty years ago and affiliated with Channing Church, and were loyal and devoted members, helping every good word and work. Miss Susan became an important member of the Alliance, carrying on the Cheerful Letter work in a remarkable way. Numberless unfortunate people all over the country have an uplift by her self-sacrificing work. She was deeply interested in the education of the negroes and the mountain whites and made visits to "Sekegee," the Lincoln Memorial and Berea to learn as far as possible, if giving to them was a wise sacrifice. She was no gushing sentimentalist but considered it her duty to make her benefactions an investment for human uplift. She was an interested believer in woman's suffrage.

—She was a charter member of this chapter, its first secretary, and always did her loyal part. In the home, she was a devoted daughter, sharing the care of a beloved and invalid mother with her sister.

—She was most happily married, a little less than five years ago to the Reverend Henry G. Ives of Andover, N. H., and threw herself into parish and educational work with zeal, which was doomed to be fatal. A school was connected with the parish and there was much work to be done. It is good to know that her work in the church, school and town, was appreciated and that she won all hearts and was beloved as few, ever are. She was fond of social life, good literature, and of having found time to go to Europe five times and to make many interesting trips in this country, but the main interest of her life was to do good. About a year ago, it was evident that her untiring activity was wearing out her delicate physique, but all thought that with rest and change, she would recover. All that love and care could do was done for her, but she slipped away from our mortal sight and has "joined the choir invisible of those immortal dead, who live again in minds made better by their presence."

—To her husband, to her sisters and all who stood near to her, we give our loving sympathy. Taking her all in all, we shall not look on her like again.

—The service closed with the beautiful poem "Away" by Jas. W. Riley read by Mrs. Ferris.

—After the business hour a fine program was given in charge of Mrs. W. D. Tripp, and consisted of an interesting paper upon William Jackson, one of the first settlers of Newton given by Mr. A. W. Fuller.

—Piano selections were artistically rendered by Mrs. Oscar H. Shildbach and violin solos by Miss Emily Mercer with Mrs. Mercer, accompanist. The hostesses were Mrs. Thos. M. Elwell, Mrs. John Leavitt, Miss Lucrèce J. Fuller, Mrs. Clarence S. Luitwieler, Mrs. Jacob H. Green, Mrs. Willard D. Tripp.

SARAH HULL CHAPTER

Honors Memory of Mrs. Susan Whiting Ives

The Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., held its meeting at the Newton Club, on Wednesday, Mrs. Franklin E. Smith, the Regent, presiding. After the call to order and cordial greetings for the New Year the Regent called upon Mrs. A. H. Ferris, the Honorary Regent, who had charge of a brief but impressive memorial service to Mrs. Susan Whiting Ives, one of our charter members and the first secretary of the Chapter. After appropriate remarks Mrs. Ferris called upon Mrs. F. B. Hornbrook who spoke as follows:

These of us who have wandered in foreign lands, will recall how often we came to the wayside shrine of some saint who long ago passed from mortal sight, and the wayfarers would pause, kneel, and for a few moments withdraw their hearts and minds from the ordinary routine of their personal lives, into the contemplation of a personality, higher and purer than their own.

In some such spirit we have come here today. Since our last meeting, one of our brightest and best loved, has passed into that low, green tent

OPEN MEETING

The Boston Political Club will hold an open social meeting at the residence of the club's treasurer, Mrs. James I. Wingate, 11 Oakridge road, Auburndale, near Lasell Seminary, next Wednesday, Jan. 14, at 2.30 P. M. Mr. George L. Warren, Harvard graduate, student of sociology and secretary of Charlestown Associated Charities, will speak on "Mothers' Pensions." Persons interested in this subject, even though they may not be members of the club, are invited to hear Mr. Warren. This address is one of many planned along the line of civics and good citizenship.

INVITATION DANCE

Mrs. Egerton Chichester of Brookline was the hostess at a delightful dancing party on Wednesday evening at the Brae Burn Club, the occasion being complimentary to her sister, Mrs. Claggett of Virginia.

The ballroom was attractively festooned with laurel and evergreens, and the gowns worn by the ladies were very elaborate and handsome.

Supper was served in the dining-room at 11 o'clock and there were about thirty-five couples present.

Guests of social prominence were present from Boston, Brookline and the Newtons.

At the Show Rooms of McKenney & Waterbury Co., Franklin street, corner Congress, until February 1st, Seventeen Hundred beautiful Electric, Gas and Oil Table and Floor Lamps will be marked down to the lowest possible prices, an opportunity to secure a practical gift seldom known.

MUST PROTESTANTISM ADOPT
CHRISTIAN SCIENCE?

By A. Churchman

In the December number of the North American Review is a striking article of twelve columns under the above title, by a clergyman of the Episcopal Church. Its appearance in this dignified and influential magazine was as unexpected by Christian Scientists as it will be to Episcopalians. It has occasioned wide spread editorial comment and those of our readers who may not see the article in its entirety, will be interested in some of the striking statements from it which we here quote.

"The writer would submit the proposition that Protestantism must substantially adopt the faith and practice of Christian Science if its churches are to fulfill their mission to the world. This conviction is the result of several years' critical and philosophical investigation of the doctrines and practice of Christian Science compared with the experiences and observation of many years as a priest of the Church.

The fact that such a proposition shocks the Church sense and meets with contempt is presumptive evidence of its truth. Men do not condemn a movement unless they feel its influence penetrating their prejudices and false positions and awakening them to unwelcome truth. The Church always has denounced and persecuted whatever has not accorded with its inherited traditions and formulated beliefs. The Church seems afraid to venture on the purely spiritual life which all people crave. It is as true of a church as of a man, 'If one have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His.' Christian Scientists the world over testify that having the mind of Christ is the goal toward which they are daily striving and which they could not find as the aim of the churches they left. It seems clear that Protestantism must adopt this purpose as its reason of being if it would hold and attract individuals of the same disposition as those who have left its communions. The writer by personal investigation and critical observation has found desiderata in Christian Science which do not obtain in our average churches. How desirable it would be if our churches, like theirs, could have ninety per cent. of their members regularly attend a midweek meeting, irrespective of unfavorable conditions! If this idealism which is so real produces better lives, healthier and purer living than Protestantism is producing, and its fruitage proves to be identical with that of primitive Christianity, the Church must adopt it as the true science of the Christian life. In a few decades these people have extended the knowledge of their faith to every part of the world. It seems to be the only power in religion to retard and return the tide that is setting away from God and the Church by revealing the God whom they in heart ignorantly worship and whom on their lower plane they desire but see not.

A Churchman.

It will be beautifully illustrated with stereopticon views. Dr. Bronson was in Oberammergau in 1896 and 1910. He is a world tourist, a German scholar, and an eloquent speaker. This is the first of a series of four lectures that will be given.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss Grace M. Burr, Editor.

The January General Federation Magazine is full of plans for the coming Biennial, which will open in Chicago on June 9, 1914. Mrs. Pennybacker in her President's letter urges the clubs and State Federations to exercise great care in the selection of delegates and makes the following suggestions: "Select a woman who has the spirit and the understanding to see what the Federation really means. Second, send a woman who can bring back much to the club. Third, make your delegate realize that she has a sacred duty to perform, that she must attend her part of the business meeting and conference, even if she neglects all social affairs. Fourth, have the report at your first meeting in the fall. Fifth, do not forget that in the election of the nation your state and town will be judged by the delegates you send."

The chairman of the membership committee of the General Federation announces that clubs wishing to join the General Federation before the Chicago biennial must have their applications in the hands of their General Federation secretaries by the first of April. At the last Biennial ten clubs "knocked after the door was closed."

On Saturday, Jan. 17, the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club will meet at the home of Mrs. E. J. Smith.

Local Happenings

On Thursday, Jan. 1st, the members of the Newton Centennial Woman's Club were entertained at Mrs. Marion A. Downes in her fascinating talk "Little Stories of North Africa," illustrated by native costumes, curios, and folk dancing. After the lecture ice cream and cake were served. The daughters of members were guests of the Club. Current Events lecture was given by Mr. Edward H. Chandler on Thursday, Jan. 8.

The Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands met at the home of Mrs. F. S. Keith on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. W. J. Bicknell had charge of the work for the afternoon and conducted the closing act of Cymbeline as a character study. Imogen, the heroine, was characterized as the most lovely and perfect of Shakespeare's women. The pattern of connubial love and chastity, her sensibility, tenderness, resignation and patient endurance of persecution seized upon our affections. Mrs. Bicknell also brought out that poetical justice has been strictly observed in this drama; the vicious characters meet the punishment due to their crimes, while virtue in all its various degrees is proportionately rewarded.

Mrs. Joseph N. Lovell of Otis street entertained the Newton Mothers' Club for its monthly meeting on Monday afternoon. After a business session Miss Ellen T. Emerson spoke briefly of the work of the Household Nursing Association. Mrs. Hubert L. Carter read a short paper and Mrs. Edward R. Speare spoke upon "Modern Dancing," which were followed by general discussion of the subject. A social hour closed an enjoyable afternoon.

This week's meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club was held with Mrs. R. W. Barnes. Mrs. M. S. Wallace sang "Just Before the Battle Mother," accompanied by Mrs. W. C. B. Robbins. Mrs. D. W. Eagles gave a paper upon "The Civil War," including in it many personal reminiscences. Mrs. E. H. Greenwood treated "General Grant" and Mrs. S. L. Eaton, "General Lee."

The study of Australia was begun by the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. under the direction of Miss Ayers at the home of Mrs. W. T. Logan on Monday afternoon, the history and geography being the special topics. Australia is the largest island in the world and is really a small continent. It extends 2500 miles from east to west and 1500 miles from north to south and is 25 times the size of Great Britain and Ireland. Its interior is low and barren. The island is divided into five sections, West Australia, South Australia, Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria. West Australia is the largest and New South Wales the most prosperous. It was discovered by the Portuguese and it was not until the latter part of the 17th century that the first Englishman set foot there. For many years sheep raising and the exportation of wool were the principal industries. In later years, however, gold was discovered and since then the developments have been very rapid.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. W. L. Hubbard spoke before the Newtonville Woman's Guild upon "Tales from Hoffman." Mr. Hubbard, who is being heard very generally by the clubs this season, is a former dramatic critic of the Chicago Tribune and a popular speaker. He is doing a distinct service in presenting and familiarizing people with the modern operas, which are being presented at the Boston Opera House. He was assisted by Mr. Baxter, who rendered selections from the opera upon the piano.

At the monthly business meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning the club voted to co-operate in putting the postal campaign against alcohol through the Newtons. Mrs. Rich reported upon the egg situation. Mrs. F. H. Tucker concerning conservation and certain bills relative to it. Mrs. Harry Lutz told of the work at the Technical High School and of a luncheon served there by the pupils to the members of the Newton Federation Education committee. Mrs. Woodbridge, acting chairman of the Stamp Savings committee, reported for her committee and Mrs. Alfred W. Fuller for the Moving Picture committee.

The first of Mr. W. L. Hubbard's "Opera Talks" before the Newton Centennial Woman's Club will be given on Thursday, Jan. 15, at 3 P. M. Non-club members may secure tickets either for single lectures or for the course of three, the dates being Jan. 15, Feb. 19 and March 19.

The ladies of the Newton Woman's Club were most hospitably entertained at the home of Mrs. George W. Robinson of Newton Centre, Monday afternoon, Jan. 5. The talk on "The Israelites" by Mrs. Everett S. Jones was instructive, entertaining and inspiring. The music furnished by Miss Shaw, pianist, and Mrs. Val Ackley, violinist, was of a high order. The Caratuna by Roff being especially enjoyed. The hostess and Mrs. Bailey, her daughter, served a dainty tea, which closed a most delightful afternoon.

LADIES NIGHT

Newton Royal Arch Chapter entertained its ladies and guests in a most enjoyable manner last night at Masonic Hall, Newtonville. A fine banquet was served at seven o'clock in Temple Hall, which was most effectively decorated with the scrolls of the Chapter, the electric lights being hidden in red Japanese lanterns and converging to a handsome electric star in the centre of the ceiling. An orchestra provided popular music during the banquet. Later a musical program of high order was given in the lodge room above by Mrs. Gertrude Holt, soprano; Mrs. Lillian Haynes Walker, cellist; and Mr. Albert L. Walker, baritone, assisted by Mr. John Thomas, the well-known humorist. Dancing followed in Temple Hall until midnight, Charles E. Fogg, the floor director, had as guests Alexander J. Buchanan, H. B. Nickerson and L. D. MacNutt.

In the party were Most Excellent Charles D. Burrage, PGHP, of the Grand R. A. Chapter of Massachusetts; Most Excellent Fayette Bennett, PGHP, of the Grand R. A. Chapter of Rhode Island; Rt. Excellent C. E. Chase, DDGHP, of the 13th District, and Rt. Emphatic Frank L. Nagle, PGHP, of the Grand Commandery, K. T. The chapter's past high priests in attendance were Lewis E. Binney, George G. Davidson, William O. Hunt, Austin H. Decatur, William L. Church, Horace A. Carter, C. Arthur Boutelle, Richard W. Vose and William H. Bliss.

The general committee comprised George A. Miller, MEHP; William H. Colgan, EK; Ernest C. Fisher, ES; Sidney Bryant, S; assisted by the other officers.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD

Mr. Charles S. Holbrook, an old resident of Newton, died Tuesday afternoon at his home on Arlington street, after a long illness. Mr. Holbrook was born at East Braintree and was 80 years of age. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Marion F. Holbrook, who made her home with him, and one son, Mr. Walter H. Holbrook of Waverley avenue. Funeral services were held from his late home yesterday afternoon. Rev. H. Grant Person of Eliot Church, officiating and the interment was at Newton Cemetery.

The Lauriat Company are now at work upon the general overhauling and re-arranging of their extensive stock, annually made necessary by the enormous business of December and the coming of the stock inventory, which takes place February first. One of the results is the picking out of many single books and sets that are to be sold out at whatever price is necessary during the next few weeks, and this means bargains for booklovers such as they get at no other season of the year.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving and affectionate remembrance of Mary Agnes McGauley, the dearly beloved daughter of Patrick and Annie McGauley, who died at her home on Emerald street, Newton, Massachusetts, in her eighteenth year, January 6, 1913.

On this earth no more we'll see her,
God has called her up above;
She is singing with the angels
In the land of peace and love.
Fond thoughts may linger round our hearts

And tears may often flow,
But to that sad and lonely grave,
Our thoughts will often go,
May the heavenly wind blow softly
O'er that sweet and hallowed spot,
Mid the changing scenes of life, dear,
You will never be forgot.

CRYSTAL LAKE COUNCIL

Crystal Lake Council, No. 1922, Royal Arcanum of Newton Highlands, held its annual public installation of officers in Lincoln Hall, Newton Highlands, on Monday evening. There was a large attendance of members and their families together with a good representation of Grand Council officers, among them being Edward J. Byron, GR; William L. Kelt, GS, and Joseph B. Robson, PGR.

The officers were installed by Charles A. Kellogg, SOGR, who was accompanied by a large suite of members of neighboring councils. George H. Wiley, PGR, served as grand guide. Those inducted into office were C. David Hall, Regent; George G. Sherman, Vice Regent; Hugh R. Newcomb, Orator; Henry W. Crowell, Past Regent; Edward F. Mella, Secretary; Thomas F. Green, Collector; W. R. K. Mick, Treasurer; William E. Hickey, Chaplain; Francis B. Coffin, Guide; Walter Winn, Warden; William G. Sawyer, Sentry.

The installing officers presented the newly elected regent for the Council on behalf of the Grand Council a gavel which was recently awarded in a contest for new members. Henry W. Crowell, PR, was presented by P. R. Everett C. Winslow for the Council. Address was made by Chas. A. Kellogg, SOGR, and the Grand Regent E. J. Byron. After the installation exercises there was dancing and a collation.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—When will Mary Young return to the Castle Square? That has been the question continually asked ever since the beginning of the season. And it is now answered to the satisfaction of thousands upon thousands of theatre-goers in Boston and suburbs. Mary Young will appear for the first time this season at the Castle Sq. next week. The play will be Sir Arthur Pinero's comedy, "The Mind the Paint Girl," and Miss Young will be seen in the leading role of Lily Parradell.

In addition to Miss Young, Walter Walker will rejoin the company, and others in the principal roles will be William F. Carleton, Frederick Ormonds, Al Roberts, Donald Meek, Alfred Lunt, George Ernst, Florence Shirley and Mabel Colcord.

casional child who is not enough interested to be on hand, in good time for every lesson, must yield his privilege to one of the number on the waiting-list. In turn that child declines his own future. It is the usual thing for the children to arrive early enough to hear the lessons preceding their own.

Prodigies are not expected. In fact, it is not the main idea of the school to develop exceptional talent but to nourish the love of music in the child of average ability and to carry the music itself into the homes, where it may mean so much. There are many stories of beautiful sacrifice on the parts of both parents and children, in the effort to afford not only the lessons but to manage the purchase of instruments.

One boy, who works all day and attends night school three nights a week, gives two of the other four nights to his music lessons. Another family where the number of children seems likely to round out a baker's dozen, is purchasing a piano for the lad who finds no practice period too long for the results he gets. His mother works out by the day in order to bring the family exchequer up to such a point that it will not be wiped out by the purchase of a second-hand piano. That boy will win from those who have attained chords of terrestrial perfection.

School Board Lends Instruments
To those children who have no opportunity for home practice, the school board of Newton (West Newton) is one of nine towns comprising
the city of Newton, where the use of all pianos available in the Pierce school at West Newton, where the Settlement has its headquarters; and those in the Technical high school at Newtonville, where the evening classes are held.

There are two scholarships of $50 each given by friendly women. The pupils pay, if possible, twenty-five cents a week for the two half-hour lessons. This compares well with the price set, for instance, in the New York City Settlement, for the average family in Newton is as well able to pay twenty-five cents as the New Yorker to meet the ten-cent charge.
In fact, there is a sliding scale of prices, for there are a number of children who pay more, and some of whom are willing to pay the price asked for private lesson, so eager are they to be connected with the Music School.

Perhaps no greater proof of the recognized importance and value of the work the school is doing can be found than in the unbounded approval given it by the public school board of Newton. So highly does the board rate the results, that it now gives credit for practice and lesson periods to those high school students who are members of the Settlement. These count regularly toward graduation points. So it seems not only a family affair, but a matter of public concern and teachers both in the homes and hearts of the school board.

Might not there be such a "family affair" in almost every town, city—nay, begin with the hamlets and villages of the United States, for where will you find one so small that it does not harbor, at least, one person who could teach a little to the one child at the least, who would be found eager to learn?—Boston Herald.

CANCELS B. & A. AGREEMENT

On Jan. 31 the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad will withdraw its trains from the Boston & Albany tracks. The track agreement between the two roads will be cancelled then.
The Boston & Albany makes the following announcement of the change:
"The agreement made in 1911 between the New York Central and the New Haven companies, providing for a measure of cooperation in the service to be rendered to the public upon the Boston & Albany Railroad, is to be cancelled as of Jan. 31, 1914, in accordance with the views of the Federal Government."

"Under this agreement trackage rights were granted to the New Haven Company to run certain trains over the Boston & Albany between Boston and Ashland, Boston and Newton Highlands, Boston and South Framingham, and Pittsfield and North Adams.
These trackage rights expire with the cancellation of the agreement, and the New Haven road will withdraw its trains from the Boston & Albany tracks, excepting the trains between Fitchburg
and Boston, via South Framingham, which have been operated for many years. These will be continued to be run with New Haven engines and crews over the Boston & Albany tracks between Boston and South Framingham."

"The cancellation of the agreement will make no difference in the organization of the Boston & Albany and the road will continue to be managed by the present official staff with headquarters in Boston."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE—One of the biggest attractions of the season at B. F. Keith's Theatre will be the first vaudeville appearance in Boston in several years of Bert Williams, the famous comedian. He will offer an entirely new repertoire of songs, stories, and dances, including his latest creation, the pantomimic tango dance and is described as being a scream from start to finish. The spectacular feature of the week will be the first vaudeville appearance of Eleanor Baldwin Cass, America's greatest woman fencer, and her troupe of eight fencing girls in a novel athletic drill and series of sensational fencing bouts. All the members of Miss Cass' company are Boston girls, and for this reason this feature possesses exceptional local interest. Joseph Jefferson, the popular legitimate comedian, will appear with his company in the farce, "Poor Old Jim," by W. C. DeMille; and other attractions will be Stepp, Goodrich & King in popular songs; Three Keatons,
with the inimitable "Buster"; Cleo Cascoigne, the little Parisian prima donna; Britt Wood, the boy with the mouth organ; Charles Pretey's Trained Dogs; Vandergriff & Louie in a European novelty; and the Pathe Weekly.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The standing of the bowling teams
for the next to the last week shows that the race is quite close and a great deal of interest has been taken in the tournament. The bowling committee have just announced a new tournament to begin on Jan. 19th, entries to close on the 12th. Those who enter this tournament have the right to decide whether they will use candle or Boston pins. The usual prizes will be given with the addition of a cup for the one who has the greatest increase in average during the tournament.
Another feature which the men who bowl will appreciate is that after each match the teams will be reaveraged, thus keeping the teams close together in average. Already the entries are coming in and a large number of teams will be enrolled. Sixty men took part in the last tournament. Later on in the season the committee is planning a scratch two man tournament.

Mr. S. M. Sayford gave the first lecture in his course on the New Testament at the Fellowship Club Monday evening. About thirty young men were present. The next lecture will be given on Jan. 12th at 7 o'clock at the Association Building. Those who wish to take supper are invited to meet at 6.20.

The usual meeting will be held Sunday afternoon at 3.30 around the open fire.

Next Thursday evening there will be a Mother and Son banquet in Association Hall.

During the week beginning Jan. 18th
Dr. C. E. Barker of Washington, D. C., formerly physical adviser to President Taft, will be at the Association. He will speak on Sunday afternoon, Jan.
18th, at the Association Building, on Monday evening at the Fellowship Club and at a meeting for young men at 8 o'clock. He will address a Mothers' Meeting on Monday evening, Jan.
19th, the Business Men on Tuesday noon at a luncheon in Boston and will speak at various clubs and churches in the city. Dr. Barker preaches the gospel of Health and Happiness. He will have a room in the Association building and will be glad to meet with many members of the Association as possible during his stay here.

Tomorrow evening Mr. Allen S. Williams, the noted Naturalist, will give an illustrated talk on his adventures thru the tropics, while after tea constructors for the Bronx Zoo. This lecture will be very instructive, as Mr.
Williams will tell "The Truth About Snakes," and will have several living specimens with him.

Next Friday evening Keith will present his annual voo-do-vill to parents and friends of the Boys' Division.
Newton Y. M. C. A. The Boys' Orchestra will furnish the music.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—On Monday, Jan. 12, Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman" will be repeated with no change from the previous cast, Vanni Marcoux in the four-fold role of Lin-dard, Coppellus, Dappertutto, and Miracle.

Charpentier's "Louise," one of the most justly popular operas in the repertoire will be given its season's premiere on Wednesday evening. The title role will be sung by Louise Edvina.

On Friday evening, Puccini's "La Boheme" will be given its third hearing of the season. Lucrezia Bori, will be heard as Mimì; and Mr. Lafitte will resume the part of Rodolfo in which he was received with such great favor
at the first performance of the opera
this season.

On Saturday afternoon, Saint-Saens'
"Samson et Delila" will be given for the fourth time, thus completing its round of subscription performances.
The remarkable popularity of this work during the present season is beyond doubt to be largely attributed to the extraordinary worth of the two artists who take the leading roles,
Mme. D'Alvarez as Delila, and Mr.
Ferrari-Fontana as Samson.

The offering at the usual scale of popular prices on Saturday night, will be Verdi's "Rigoletto," with Evelyn Scotney in the role of Gilda.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

The officers of Clan MacGillivray, No. 176, O. S. C., were publicly installed Monday evening in Workman Hall, Newton, by Grand Secretary, Thomas H. Gibb of Boston, and Grand Chaplain, William C. Stewart of Belmont. Many guests were present from Waltham, Natick and Watertown. After installing the new officers, Grand Secretary Gibb addressed the audience in a complimentary manner, after which retiring Chief C. L.
McLeod was presented with a Past Chief's jewel by Mr. Gibb, in behalf of the members of the Clan for his faithful service. Chief Angus McLean also spoke a few words of welcome. Refreshments were served and dancing followed until a late hour. Friday of this week the Clan will hold its fifth annual concert and dance.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—"Under Cover," the best play of its type that has ever visited Boston, has settled down to a prosperous run at Plymouth Theatre, where it is now in its third week. The mystery, suspense and surprise that fill the action of the play have caught the public fancy to the extent of making "Under Cover"
the most popular attraction current in Boston. How a young woman of a tender breeding is forced to act as a spy upon the man she loves in order that she may protect a younger sister, how she trails and traps him against her will until the plot reaches a denouement entirely unexpected but immensely pleasing, is the story of the play. In order that suburbanites may not miss the final ending the management announces that the first curtain will be raised at 2 o'clock for matinees and 8 o'clock nights.

MR. SAYFORD HONORED

At the annual meeting yesterday in Tremont Temple, Boston, of the Evangelistic Association of New England,
Mr. Samuel M. Sayford of Hyde avenue, was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Mr. Sayford has administered the trust of general secretary and treasurer of this organization for thirteen years with such success that the large majority of towns and cities in New England have been helped to higher estimates of the value of real religion. Six years ago, when the directors voted an increase in his salary of $500 he declined it, owing to the pressing need of funds for the extension of the work in small towns and now with the incoming New Year the executive committee reports his acceptance of a unanimous reelection, but makes a voluntary surrender of two-thirds of his salary in order that the budget for rural evangelism may be enlarged. The committee of which Frank Wood is chairman, recognizes the self-sacrificing spirit exhibited by Secretary Sayford, expresses the hope that his generous example may be an incentive to others of the friends of the Evangelistic Association of New England to enlarged giving even to the point of financial sacrifice to make a much-needed enlargement of this work for the moral and religious welfare of New England.

The committee also emphasizes the report of prosperity to the churchmen of rural communities which has come from pastors and people through the ministries of Lewis E. Smith, Reuben
S. Smith and other evangelists, that they have been the means of great blessing to the communities in starting many hundreds in lives of righteousness and service to God and man.

DINNER PARTY

Mr. Roger Wheeler gave a dinner party on Saturday evening at his residence on Mill street.
The table was attractively decorated with flowers and there were favors for the guests. The dinner was served at 9.30 and covers were laid for twelve.
Among the guests were the Misses Marjorie Chellis, Susan Page, Abby
Cady, Helen Baker, Margaret Wheeler of Newtonville, and Miss Marian Sweet of Providence, and Messrs. Richard Cooley, Sheldon Root, Miles Page, Perry
Page, and Perry Smith, of Newtonville.

Remarks of President Arthur W. Blakemore at Inauguration

President Blakemore said:—
I propose at the request of the Mayor-elect to say a few words to you concerning the condition of the city and the work of the Board the coming year. Those of you who were here a year ago will remember that I then suggested that our expenditures were running ahead of our receipts to an alarming extent and subsequent events proved the truth of what I said to you then. The tax rate did rise the past year very substantially and would anomalous in that we never hear from the defence, which is never represented before us, and which it is therefore our duty carefully to protect. All the pressure exerted on us is in favor of the individual, either for the spending of money or for special privileges, and no pressure is usually exerted upon us to protect the taxpayer and the general community. For this reason it takes some courage to be an alderman, and courage I believe to be the vital essential of the actions of this Board.

If this Board equals the record of the Board of 1913 it will do well. The Board of 1913 probably did more constructive work than has been done for many years at City Hall. Under the guidance of the License Committee it caused the city to follow in the steps of most well regulated cities in this State in its regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquors. At the suggestion of the Public Works Committee it formulated a definite policy in regard to the acceptance of new streets, which I believe will be of great benefit in the building up of the city. Under the guidance of the Committee on Finance it has installed a modern accounting system which will correct many abuses and give us more exact information of our financial condition. In addition, more work was done than in most previous years in acquiring a more thorough knowledge than ever before of the details of city business.

President ARTHUR W. BLAKEMORE

have been further increased had it not been for unusual increase in valuations. I believe we should at least once a year take account of stock and see in what direction we are drifting along various lines.

This Board has very important functions to perform. It stands in many instances in a judicial capacity, protecting not only the rights of the individual but the rights of the city, which consist in the great body of citizens, and our situation is further

POLICE HURT

Police Patrol and Automobile Collide On Commonwealth Avenue

The Newton auto police patrol was demolished and three police officers were injured as the result of a collision with an automobile owned by J. F. Kimball of East Kingston, N. H., at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Chestnut street, West Newton, about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

As the patrol was crossing Commonwealth avenue the Kimball automobile, outward bound on that thoroughfare, is said to have attempted to cut in ahead of it. The police could not stop in time and the Kimball machine, driven by Robert J. Kendall of Amesbury, crashed into it at full speed, smashing in the side, tearing off the front wheel and mudguard and shattering the windshield.

Kendall and special officer Forte, who was driving the patrol, were both flung violently to the ground and the two machines crashed into trolley poles. Forte was badly cut about the head and body but succeeded in rolling out of the way of the patrol barely in time to save himself from being run over.

Kendall, who was operating the Kimball machine, escaped with a severe shaking up, but Inspector Edward P. O'Holleran and patrolman William Mahoney who were riding inside the patrol, were flung to the ground, the former sustaining a sprained arm and hand and the latter was badly scratched and bruised. The injured men were all attended by Dr. Fred M. Lowe.

Street car traffic on Commonwealth avenue was tied up for more than an hour as a result of the accident, which occurred on the tracks of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE ORGANIZES

The school committee for 1914 organized last Monday night by the selection of Mr. William H. Rice of Newton Centre as chairman, and Miss Celia M. Chase as secretary.

Little business was transacted, the end of the present school session being fixed for June 19, with no holiday on June 17, as has been the custom in previous years.

THE CHRISTIAN FORUM

Professor Perry Speaks On International Peace At Eliot Church

The Christian Forum of Newton held its fourth meeting of the second year at the Eliot Church, Newton, on Sunday evening, January 11, 1914. Professor Bliss Perry of Harvard was the speaker of the evening, his subject being "International Peace."

Prof. Perry spoke as follows: "When Dr. Person asked me to talk to you to-night he suggested that I talk as if this was your first lesson in the subject of Peace. I think you have already learned the first lesson in the hope of 'International Peace' by your willingness to come together as neighbors and think over the question. The workers for International Peace are desirous above all to bring the question before the court of public opinion. Nothing is ever settled in this world until public opinion settles it. I happened to be reading yesterday an article written by Poe in 1836, an article on 'Domestic Slavery', and he remarks that slavery is the basis of American Institutions. He never doubted the truth of that remark, and the best parallel to the war system is the position of slavery in the United States from 1830 to 1860. Men accept the war system of the world now, or some men do, as some men then accepted slavery, namely as an institution necessary in the nature of things, embodied in human nature, designed by Divine Providence. Men said even here in Massachusetts thirty years ago, after Poe's article, that slavery seemed to be not the basis of American Institutions, not by a great deal.

I have had the privilege of talking about Peace before many kinds of audiences; working men and business men are the best audiences. Audiences in colleges and churches come last. There were no new arguments for war up to the date of 1861. Some of our good friends in the army and navy do not always use as much imagination as they might in forecasting human events. These men will tell you because there has always been war in the world there always must be war in the world. There are no new arguments for war, and if some of the arguments for war are losing their strength as time goes by it is also true that there are no arguments for peace. The condition of the world has rapidly shifted in our lifetime.

Pres. Faunce of Brown University said not long ago, that if the world had not had a new heart in it, it has at least a new nervous system. Some young Japanese boys in California want to go to school and become traders and farmers and raise crops at a less figure than the natives. That becomes an international incident and we cannot travel in the street cars of Boston without seeing headlines, I should say foot-prints of the Devil, warning us that war is imminent between great nations. Now to meet these instances, within (Continued on Page 4)

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

At the Fifth Annual Banquet of Newton Catholic Club

The Newton Catholic Club had some distinguished guests at its fifth annual banquet on Tuesday evening at the club house on Washington street, West Newton, including Lieut. Governor Edward P. Barry, and Mayor Edwin O. Childs.

Mr. James F. McInerney was the toastmaster and presided with dignity and grace.

Hon. Edward P. Barry brought the greetings of the Commonwealth, Mayor Childs spoke for the city of Newton, Rev. Edward J. Fitzgerald, of Clinton, pastor of Governor Walsh, spoke on the question of the church, Hon. John R. Murphy of Charlestown spoke on "Citizenship", Rev. John F. Keleher, pastor of St. Bernard's Church thanked the guests for their kind words and Mr. Joseph A. Hargedon responded for "Our Club."

The following members served as a reception committee: Messrs. Thomas C. Donovan, Robert M. Barry, Fred J. Cahill, Wm. Cahill, William Cahill, Jr., James R. Condrin, John P. Connors, George M. Cranitch, Joseph J. Curran, James Calne, E. M. D'Arcy, Thomas C. Davis, Joseph A. Edwards, Roy Early, Martin H. Garrity, John H. Gordon, Daniel F. Hannigan, Milo F. Hargedon, James Hart, Timothy C. Hickey, F. E. P. Levi, Daniel J. Linehan, F. J. Mague, W. H. Mague, William McBride, J. A. McCarthy, J. F. McInerney, Thomas J. Noone, Daniel O'Connell, T. F. Reynolds, J. F. Ryan, J. A. Rankin, T. J. Sullivan, D. P. Tenney and Thomas Waters.

PARISH CLERK RETIRES

Mr. William P. Morse has Served St. Mary's for Thirty Years

The annual meeting of St. Mary's Episcopal Church was held at the Church in Newton Lower Falls on Wednesday evening and the following officers were elected:

Wardens, Samuel H. Warren, Charles H. Spring.
Clerk, John S. Jenkins.
Treasurer, Chester C. Spring.
Vestrymen, Benj. S. Blake, John S. Jenkins, Edward Jennings, Frederick C. Leslie, Harold F. Leslie, Wm. C. Norcross, Wm. F. Seale, Chester C. Spring, Benj. L. Young.

Auditor, F. C. Leslie.

Delegates to Diocesan Convention, C. H. Spring, F. C. Leslie, J. S. Jenkins.

Delegates to Archdeaconry of Lowell, B. S. Blake, Edw. Jennings, B. L. Young.

Mr. William P. Morse who has served as clerk of the parish for the past thirty years, declined re-election, as he resides at West Newton. Mr. Morse has served longer than any person in that office, fifteen years having been the record until Mr. Morse was first elected in 1884.

A NEW MAYOR

Hon. Edwin O. Childs Becomes Chief Executive of Newton

The inauguration of Mr. Edwin O. Childs, Jr., as the nineteenth mayor of Newton, took place on Monday afternoon at the City Hall, before an audience which filled every seat and extended into the corridors.

The oath of office was administered by Hon. Alonzo R. Weed, ex-mayor of the city and Mayor Childs immediately delivered his inaugural address which had been the subject of considerable curiosity. The full address is printed in another column.

inaugural, President Arthur W. Blakemore was unanimously re-elected as the presiding officer of the board, and Mayor Childs and his party retired.

President Blakemore then gave an address to the board which will be found in full elsewhere.

Alderman Fred M. Blanchard was unanimously elected vice president of the board.

City Clerk Frank M. Grant was unanimously re-elected for a second term of three years, City Treasurer

HON. EDWIN O. CHILDS, JR., Mayor

The exercises began with the usual preliminary meeting of the board of aldermen-elect, called to order by City Clerk Grant, and at which the senior member, Alderman Walter H. Barker was chosen temporary chairman. Aldermen Murphy, Forkner, and Winslow were appointed a committee to notify the mayor that the board was ready for the inauguration, and Mayor Hatfield with Mayor elect Childs, ex-mayors Weed and Hutchinson, and Rev. Dr. Geo. S. Butters were escorted to the aldermanic chamber.

Rev. Dr. Butters offered prayer, and Mayor Childs was then sworn by Mr. Weed.

The new mayor then administered the oath of office to the aldermen-elect and to Mrs. Harriet A. Peabody and Mr. William H. Rice, members-elect of the school committee, who were also present.

After the mayor had concluded his

Francis Newhall was unanimously re-elected for the tenth year of service and Clerk of Committees John C. Brimblecom was similarly elected for the seventeenth year.

Mayor Childs submitted the appointments of Walter B. Randlett as Forest Warden for one year, of Charles I. Bucknam, as agent for suppression of the gypsy moth for one year, of Walter B. Randlett as inspector of petroleum for one year and of Lewis H. Bacon, as a member of the board of appeals for three years, and these appointments were unanimously confirmed.

Petitions for appointment of betterment assessments of E. B. Bishop, Bishopgate and The Ledges road, of Henriette Morris, Frederick Boudrot, Faxon street, of Maud V. Bray, The Ledges road, of Concezio DeVencentes, Los Angeles street, of Frances V. Lund, Edith L. Hyde, Oakwood road, of Bertha G. D. Hoxie and Edward C. Wyatt, Upland road, of Edward P. EDITORIAL

President Blakemore's address to the board of aldermen should be read by every taxpayer in the city. Mr.
Blakemore devotes the greater part of his address to the school appropriation and discusses it calmly and logically.
The school appropriation is already out of all proportion to other city expenses and as Mr. Blakemore points out, will, unless checked, practically prevent all growth of the city in other directions. The increase alone since 1906 in the maintenance account, has been over $125,000, having been $249,516.78 in 1906 and $374,389.86 in 1913.

I believe it is the province of the school committee to reduce this abnormal maintenance charge, first by absolutely refusing to add new studies to the curriculum, secondly, by eliminating all studies which have the smallest number of pupils, and by gradually reducing the curriculum to a point where only the most necessary studies are taught. The cost of education in Newton will always be above the average of other municipalities on account of the scattered nature of the city and because of our unusual attendance at the High Schools. The school committee have an important duty to perform and, to the man on the street, have apparently failed to even recognize that they are under any obligations to the taxpayers.

Mayor Childs' inaugural address was a remarkable document.

FIRST ANNUAL MEETING

The first annual meeting of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Newton, was held in Players' Hall, West Newton, last evening. This newest of the Newton churches, shows a strong, healthy organization, quietly taking an influential place among the other religious activities of the city. An-tagonizing no other religion, doing no proselyting, and having no propaganda except the educational one of studying and circulating its literature, this latest addition to the churches of our city seems to depend but little upon the customary aids to growth.

No one can fail to be impressed by the large attendance at its Sunday and week-day meetings of an earnest, cultured group of people comprising among their numbers many of our most substantial and representative citizens.

In connection with all Christian Science churches, is a Free Reading Room, where literature of the church
can be read or studied and questions answered regarding the teachings and work of the Cause.

The Reading Room of the Newton Church is at 297 Walnut street, Newtonville, opposite Masonic Building.
Adjoining it is a Distribution Room, where free literature is sent out. Many volunteers do this work and through its agency, individuals, as well as Hospitals, Libraries, Clubs, Fire and Police Stations, etc., are supplied with helpful literature.

AFTERNOON TEA

Mrs. Edward Webster Whoof was the hostess at a charming tea on Wednesday afternoon from 3 until 5, at her residence on Cross street, West Newton.

The occasion was complimentary to her guest, Miss Howard of St.
Louis. The reception rooms were most attractively decorated with jonquills, the decorative scheme being yellow.

The ladies who poured were Mrs.
Shirley K. Kerns of Newton, Mrs.
Ralph E. Hatch of West Newton and Mrs. Carleton W. Baxter of Newton Centre.

MEN'S CLUB

At the regular meeting of the Men's Club of Grace Church, Newton, which was held Monday evening in the parish house, the entertainment was furnished by the Varsity Glee Club of Harvard, thru the courtesy of Mr. Albert Pickernell, leader.

An excellent program was rendered with great spirit and dash, and the solos by Kipparick, 17, Pickernell 14, and specialties by Perkins 14, were greatly enjoyed.

There was a large attendance of members, and the pleasant evening closed with the serving of refreshments.

William H. Rand of 247 Austin street, West Newton, is the Newton representative of the Corporation which has recently taken over the Real Estate business of Henry W.
Savage, established 1840. Being a life long resident of Newton, and having had 12 years' experience in handling nothing but Newton Real Estate, Mr.
Rand is particularly well qualified to serve those who have property for sale or rent. List now for spring trade.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The proceedings of the Great and General Court will undoubtedly be interesting and possibly, spectacular the coming season, if subsequent events can be judged by what has already happened.

The election of a Republican Speaker, Mr. Grafton D. Cushing, by the refusal of a few Democrats to follow
Mr. Lomasney in voting for the Progressive candidate, subsequently followed by the votes of a few Progressives for Mr. Cushing, was the first event of importance. This was followed by a long delay in the inauguration of Governor Walsh, occasioned
by a lengthy debate in the House, opened by the Democrats, on the matter of committee appointments.

The coalition of Republicans and Progressives held on this matter, however, and Speaker Cushing and President Coolidge announced their committees on Monday. If anybody ever doubted the wisdom of continuing the service of good men at the State House, the committee appointments, and the consequent influence thereby obtained by our own excellent representatives, will point a moral. Mr.
Bothfield not only retains the important chairmanship of the committee on Metropolitan Affairs, a most vital committee for Newton interests, but he is also floor leader of the Republicans, by virtue of being ranking member of the committee on Rules, taking the place held by Mr. White last year. Mr. White is given the chairmanship of the dominating committee at the State House, that of ways and means, and will therefore take an important part in directing the financial policy of the state for the year. Mr. Ellis is reappointed chairman of the committee on Railroads, which undoubtedly will solve the great question of transportation, during the session, and also is reappointed on the committee on Social Welfare. In the Senate, Mr. Hixon of this district is appointed chairman of the committee on Legal Affairs and is also a member of the committee on Street Railways.

It is altogether too early to give an accurate list of matters affecting this city which will be considered during the year, but petitions have already been presented for an amendment to the city charter making the municipal year coincide with the calendar year,
to amend the city charter so that there shall be two ward aldermen from each ward instead of one, as at present, to allow the Newton Theological Institution to hold property to the value of $2,000,000 with $500,000 in real estate, instead of $1,200,000 with $400,000 in real estate as at present.
There is the usual amount of freak legislation requested possibly the most unique, being that of allowing a voter to vote anywhere in the state, by using his picture as a voucher, and with restrictions that he shall not cut his whiskers or hair after the picture has been taken.

The bills also to increase the pay of the Middlesex county commissioners, $500 each, to include Newton and other municipalities in the expense of maintenance of the bridges between Cambridge and Boston, to increase the appropriation for band concerts in the Metropolitan district from $25,000 to $35,000, and to make a driveaway on the south bank of the Charles River, between Brooks street in Brighton and Galen street in Watertown, at an expense of $35,000.
Governor Walsh has appointed Mr.
Philip Nichols of Saxon terrace, Newton Highlands, as a member of the commission to prepare a table of changes in general laws. Mr. Nichols is a graduate of the Harvard Law School and has been assistant corporation counsel for 11 years in the Boston Law Department.

The State Auditor has filed his estimates for expenses for the current year and if found correct, there will be a jump in the state tax from $8-000,000 to $10,000,000, and which will add some $40,000 to the state tax paid by Newton. It is to be hoped that the Legislature will make substantial reductions in the estimates of the various state departments, altho there is little to justify that rather forlorn faith in the wisdom of the Great and General Court.

Governor Walsh made two important recommendations in his inaugural address with which I am somewhat inclined to agree. He favors a constitutional convention to make changes in our organic law which the modern trend of thought seems to demand. There is no question, but that there should be a change in the methods of taxation and that it probably cannot be brought about in any other way than by a convention. There is also considerable sense in giving the Governor the right to veto specific items in appropriation bills,—a right already possessed by many mayors in matters of city appropriations, and I rather like his suggestion as to biennial elections.

When the Legislature begins to make steam there is every promise,
as I stated before, that the session will be of great interest to every citizen in the Commonwealth.

CITY HALL NOTES

Mayor Childs has fixed his office hour at nine o'clock daily, and remains as long as necessary.
Mayor Childs received some beautiful flowers on Monday, the Nonantum Business Men sent in a beautiful wreath on a floral standard, and the Nonantum A. A. a handsome basket of Jack roses. The mayor sent some of his flowers to Alderman Bernard Early,
who is quite ill.

Water Commissioner Whitney has sent out the yearly water bills this week.

The severe cold weather of Monday gave the water department considerable to do in the way of thawing out hydrants.

—Mr. Thomas F. Eddy has been appointed assistant in the office of the Comptroller of Accounts.
Among the audience present on inauguration day were Hon. G. Fred Simpson, ex-alderman Alliston Burt, Edward P. Bosson, William J. Doherty,
Thomas J. Lyons, Lewis H. Bacon,
Lewis E. Coffin, Henry Bailly, Alfred
E. Alvord, Chas. S. Ensign, Willis F.
Haddock, Thomas Weston, Jr., William
F. Harbach, and ex-councilman Henry
H. Read.

HON. WM. JACKSON

Through the enterprise of the Newtonville Improvement Association, one of the original lithographic portraits of Hon. William Jackson has been hung in the waiting room of the railroad station there.

This is especially fitting, as Mr.
Jackson was the Supt. of Construction of the Boston & Worcester, which afterwards was extended to Albany and became the Boston & Albany system.
All of this was built under his direction. Through his enthusiasm, the early agitation for steam railroads received a great impetus. He lectured and wrote upon the subject as far back as 1826, and in 1830 when chosen to represent Newton in the Massachusetts Legislature his knowledge of the subject was so extensive, that he was made chairman of the Committee on Railroads.

In 1834 under his superintendence the B. & W. R. R. was opened as far as Newton and on it was run what is said to be the first locomotive ever used in Massachusetts. This was an English locomotive built by the Ste-phensons, and imported for this purpose.

MT. IDA COUNCIL A. A.

Dennison Hall, Newtonville, was crowded by the members and friends of Mt. Ida Council, R. A., Tuesday evening, the occasion being the public installation of its newly elected officers, by James D. Moore, SDGR, and a large suite from Warren Council, Dorchester.

These officers were installed: Edward H. Taylor, regent; Charles H.
Milliken, vice regent; Charles E. Ry-
all, orator; C. Henry Goodwin, SPR; Charles D. Cabot, secretary; Charles A. Kellogg, collector; Joseph B. Robson, treasurer; David P. Webster, chaplain; Dr. D. F. McCabe, guide;
William P. Watson, warden; Archie A. Wilson, sentry; George E. B. Putnam, Edward W. Bailey and John D.
Rockefeller, trustees; C. Henry Goodwin, representative to the Grand Council; John D. Rockefeller, alternate.

During the exercises C. Henry Goodwin, the retiring regent, was presented with a handsome past regent's jewel
by the council, the presentation being made by William L. Kelt, GS, for the donors. After the installation, addresses were made by Joseph B. Robson, PGR; William L. Kelt, GS; and the newly elected officers. The affair was brought to a close with a collaborated dancing. A committee headed by Chas. E. Ryall was in charge of the program.

MR. BURRAGE LEAVES SHAWMUT BANK

Mr. Harry L. Burrage has resigned as vice-president of the National Shawmut Bank, in order to accept the office of president of the Connecticut Cotton Mills, Ltd., and chairman of the Connecticut Cotton Mills, Inc., one of the largest manufacturers of tire fabrics in America.

Mr. Burrage was formerly president of the Eliot National Bank, and became a director and vice-president of the National Shawmut when the former institution was consolidated with the latter. He will retain his position as director of the Shawmut Bank.

White's subject was "State Legislation" and in a most eloquent address gave a detailed account of the working at the State House, laying great stress on the reasons why Massachusetts did not need the initiative and referendum in comparison with other states. Ex-Alderman Sullivan's subject was "City Government," and in his usual forceful manner gave a detailed account of the duties of the mayor and aldermen of the city, paying particular attention to the school committee and the street department.
After the speaking a musical program was rendered and refreshments were served.

INVITATION DANCE

Notable among the social events of the week was the invitation dance on Wednesday evening at the Hunnewell Club by the members of the Newton dancing class.

It was without exception one of the prettiest parties ever given at the Club; the hall was most attractively decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and potted plants, and the chandeliers were festooned with southern smilax.

Half a hundred beautiful gowns of various colors worn by graceful dancers, gave a most brilliant picturesque effect.

Excellent music was furnished by a string orchestra of 6 pieces, the dancing continuing from 8.30 until 12, and the order included some of the most popular of the season's dances.

During the intermissions, coffee and ices were served in the club dining-room. The large table was decorated in a color scheme of pink and white, with pink carnations in artistic arrangement.

The ladies who poured were Mrs. Dana, Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Loveland, and Mrs. Hallett.

Guests of social prominence numbering about 100 were present from Boston, Brookline, Chestnut Hill, Newton Centre, Newton, West Newton, Auburndale and Weston.

The party was under the direction of the following committee: Messrs. Francis W. Dana, William F. Garcelon, Edward M. Hallett, Shirley K. Kerns, Fred H. Loveland, and Prescott Warren.

the memory of most of the men who are now facing me, several great international organizations have been formed so that peace rather than war may be the ultimate result.

It is nearly ninety-nine years since our Massachusetts Peace Society was formed. You remember perhaps what the Duke of Wellington said when he was asked how he won the Battle of Waterloo. He said "they pounced and we pounced, but we pounced longest." Now the Massachusetts Society is still pouncing. You cannot discourage these people. They are sure they are right and they are going to pound ahead if it takes a century.

Several organizations were mentioned which were doing good work in this line. He spoke of one society which believes that one reason we do not have peace is because there is so much jealousy; we do not know one another well enough.

"The first Hague Conference was more like a war conference than a peace conference. At that conference 23 countries were represented, and at the second conference were brought together 44 of the nations of the globe, representing nine-tenths of the people of the globe. The greatest question before the second Hague conference was that of the limitation of arms. 31 of the 44 nations represented, four-fifths of the population agreed to vote for a treaty of arbitration. That was blocked because Germany would not consent. The delegates of the United States brought forward a plan which nearly went through, namely a permanent court of arbitration. That broke down. It is asked why the United States did not take the lead in the limitation of arms. The hands of the United States were tied, because in the last thirty years we have increased our armament 331 per cent., only exceeded by Germany which has increased hers 335 per cent. That is one reason why our delegates could not say much at the second conference.

The time for the third conference is almost here. Our committee appointed a year and a half ago has just made its report. That program will have to be referred to an international committee and no man can yet tell whether there will be a third conference in 1915. The question of limitation of arms is on that program.

Gen. Porter of the U. S. Army at the close of the Hague Conference said that after the war he was detailed to a western mining camp and every miner had his gun strapped to his belt. He went from there to another fort and a year and a half later he came back to this same camp and no one carried a gun on his second visit. He asked why no one was carrying a gun, and the answer was "why, now we have a court house." They thought of the gun the first time, the second time they were thinking court house.

There are two or three things in the events of the last year that are extremely interesting. I think Mr. Bryan's idea of the appointment of a certain committee is certainly interesting. Of course I know that you have various opinions of Mr. Bryan and I think the political opposition of some people to the present Secretary of State has caused them to look with unfriendly eye upon the proposals of the man. Thirty-one nations have already accepted Mr. Bryan's proposal.

There is a phrase in the prayer book about vain glory and hypocrisy; that means you and me. A great many of us think that material power is more impressive than a moral ideal. I know plenty of men who stand on the sidewalk and see a man go by in a $6000 Ford car, and then a second man with a $6000 Packard; they have more respect for the second man, and perhaps some wonder where either man got the money for the car. Probably the man who has to walk is worthy of more respect than either of the men who have the cars. We used to be told that if a man minded his own business and if a nation minded its own business and paid its debts there would be no trouble. The better you are prepared for war the safer you sleep at night. The trouble is you do not sleep at night for you are thinking of ways to make the army and navy greater.

We paid 71 per cent. in the last thirty years, of our annual income for our army and navy; they call that insurance. We are paying $10,000,000 a day for smokeless powder. During 1914 it will cost our army and navy three-fourths of a million. Wouldn't you who are working for some good cause like to get hold of some of that money to fight tuberculosis?

I have sat in the chapels of Maine and Virginia and read the names of those who left in '61 and never came back. They ought to have been the fathers of many citizens. The 500,000 Bulgarians, who is going to bring them back? They are the men who are needed to sow the fields and raise families.

John Greenleaf Whittier wrote a poem in 1848, when war was breaking out all over the country, the last three lines of which are these:

The great hope resting on the truth of God,
 Evil shall cease and Violence pass away,
 And the tired world breathe free through a long Sabbath day.

How did he know? How do I know that six months from to-night roses will be blooming in my yard? When Whittier says evil shall cease he speaks as a man who knows. There is yet hope for International Peace." Prof. Perry was asked numerous questions, some of which are as follows:

What does the speaker believe is a moral substitute for war? The educational, industrial and commercial every day life should give us courage. If we had more men like those with the Volturro and in the Dayton flood we would be better off.

What is meant by a naval holiday? England proposed to Germany that each agree not to manufacture anything to be used in naval warfare for one year. Germany would not agree to this and said whatever action England took in this regard would have no effect on Germany.

Do you believe we shall have trouble with the eastern countries?

I think Pres. Elliot just back from a long stay in China and Japan, who is in the habit of talking with intelligent people has answered that question when he says Japan has no conceivable motive for making war with the United States, nor has the United States any conceivable motive for making war with Japan.

What is your opinion of airships as to their effect on the present status of war affairs?

I do not think that the airship has gone far enough to make it possible to answer that question. What can we do as individuals to further peace? Send $1.00 to the Mass. Peace Society and get the "Advocate of Peace" and find out what is going on in the world.

Do you consider that the Monroe Doctrine should be modified? I think the Monroe Doctrine needs to be changed completely in many ways.

THE LARGER CHARITY

Sunday Evening Lecture at the New Church
 Newtonville

"The Larger Charity" was the subject of a lecture last Sunday evening in the Church of the New Jerusalem at Newtonville by Dr. Horatio W. Dresser of Cambridge.

The text was taken from the scene at the cross in which Jesus uttered the unexpected words, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." The lecturer pointed out that all through the Lord's ministry there were opportunities for condemnation, for refusal to associate with those whom the world had adversely judged, yet He who best "knew what was in man" was the most ready to pardon and to serve. The example thus set mankind has remained an ideal throughout the ages, but in our day there are signs that we are beginning to appreciate this true charity. In accordance with this standard we should first consider what it is truly to know a man, and what righteous judgment truly is.

To know a man we must gain an insight into his inner life, in accordance with the highest wisdom of our command. To judge rightly, we must be guided by the divine spirit of charity. The larger charity is manifested by the good works that follow, works that spring from a desire to do that which is for another's greatest good in the long run. We cannot ignore the darker facts of life, but our judgments should take a man's ideal nature into account, and we should look far beyond the present. Placed in similar circumstances, we might not have done any better than our neighbor. We know the facts of our own life so well that we are ready to explain, even to excuse our own conduct, when others would condemn. Why should we not be at least as considerate of others?

True charity means upon insight into the quality of a man's goodness. If we discern this we ought to be able to avoid all foolish and promiscuous giving. Serious thought is required that we may do and give what is wisest for a man's character. Modern science with its more definite knowledge and skilful methods has enabled us to understand man in a new way. We now know a great deal about heredity, environment, and the intimate workings of the human mind. We have traced many crimes to disordered social and other unfortunate conditions, conditions such that it has become progressively difficult to put the blame upon a single individual.

The social settlement workers have shown how to deal with men as individuals, rather than in mere groups. The campaign of exposure has been showing us how the other half live. We are learning to sympathize with the laborer and with all others who are stirred by the modern discontent.

In the educational world, also, there has been a change from mere generalization to the individual. We are not able as yet to combine all this new knowledge so as to proceed with entire consistency, but we are moving towards the goal. It is probable that many of us do as well as we can under the conditions. We should dwell more frequently on the important truth and realize that with honest effort, encouragement, instead of condemning them. We are too greatly inclined to dwell on the one-sided truth that no man can accomplish anything alone. We try to make people over. The attempt is useless. We should recollect that each has his place in the world, and endeavor to help every man to do his best, tolerant of differences of opinion and various vocations. We are too often condemned because of our limitations, whereas in truth we are necessarily and rightfully limited that we may do our work in the world.

The best work in the world is creative. There are many types of creative work. Yet all these are interrelated, and the important consideration is for each to know his gift and to reverse it, helping other men to know and manifest their gifts. Each of us can foster true work of creation by endeavoring to discern the aspirations of men and women, and sympathetically aid them to achieve the type. Every one needs help and encouragement. By thus endeavoring to be true to the best in people we put ourselves into the right attitude to realize the larger charity taught by the Gospel. We need not look for opportunities to begin.

True charity still begins at home, and should be manifested towards those whom we know well, and towards the prophets ordinarily without honor in their own country. We must learn to put ourselves in our neighbor's place, to see his life as nearly as possible in the way he sees it, instead of imposing our views on him. This means making an effort to see what he most truly loves, and trying to aid him as we would be aided under like circumstances. Thus we shall often speak and act more better than we know, for we shall be more or less open to the divine wisdom which sees beyond the present, and to the divine love which works through men for the best good of humanity.

A pleasing planal recital was given last Friday night by Mrs. Joyce Barrington Waters, the Australian pianist, assisted by Mrs. Ralph C. Emery, soprano.

On Saturday evening the bowling prizes were won by Mr. F. E. Belden, three string and Mr. O. W. Holmes, high single.

Mr. Frederic F. Cutler, publisher of the Boot & Shoe Recorder, gave an interesting account, last Saturday night, of the recent trip of members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, to South America. Mr. Cutler was chairman of the committee in charge. Tomorrow night Mayor Edwin O. Childs will be the speaker.

There were two plays Monday night at the auction bridge for ladies and gentlemen, the prizes being won by Mrs. C. E. Conant, Mrs. Mason H. Stone, Mrs. H. P. Curtiss and Mrs. A. C. Cummings. Mrs. O. W. Holmes and Mrs. Edward Mellus were the pourers at the social hour which followed the play.

HARVARD SCHOLARSHIP

In Memory of Francis Haddon Burr of Chestnut Hill

Harvard University has received a gift of $7500 to establish a scholarship in memory of the late Francis Haddon Burr, '09 who died on Dec. 4, 1910. Mr. Burr was a son of ex-mayor Heman M. Burr and resided at Chestnut Hill.

He was a leader in scholarship, social affairs and other college activities. He was successful in almost every kind of athletics, but particularly in football and baseball; he won his "H" in both these sports in his freshman year and played on the football eleven all through his college course.

In the Fall of 1908 he was captain of the Harvard eleven which defeated Yale 4 to 0 at New Haven, but an injury received earlier in the season made it seem wise that he should not play in that game and, therefore, he watched it from the side lines.

He was president of his class in his freshman year and first marshal on its class day. He was the first president of the Varsity Club. It has often been said no Harvard undergraduate of recent years had a wider influence for good on student life at that University.

The yearly income from the fund will be used in helping deserving undergraduates who combine as nearly as possible Burr's remarkable qualities of character, leadership and athletic ability. The recipient must be in need of financial assistance. He shall be chosen in the middle of his third year by the dean of the college and the chairman of the athletic committee. Announcement of the award is to be made at that time and the gift is to be applied in his senior year.

The fund was raised principally from the members of Burr's class in college, some of his older friends also contributed. The committee in charge of the project was made up of three classmates: John W. Cutler, Lawrence K. Lumt and Nathaniel Simpkins, Jr.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—The forthcoming week at the Boston Opera House will be a noteworthy one, since it will bring forth not only the eagerly expected premiere of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg," but also other bills notable in themselves. The week will be opened with a production of "Aida" on Monday night which will long be remembered. The cast will include Carolina White as Aida, Margarita D'Alvarez as Amneris, Giovanni Martelli as Radames, Paolo Ludjak as Ramfis, and Pasquale Amato as Annasno. On Wednesday evening Puccini's "La Tosca" will be given its third hearing of the season. Mme. Edvina will repeat her impersonation of Floria Tosca, which won her so much praise earlier in the year, and Mr. Laiffie will again be heard as Cavaradossi. On Friday evening, at 7:20, the curtain will rise on the Boston Opera Company's first performance of "Die Meistersinger." This is one of the most difficult of all operas to produce, and is sure to score a triumph for the management, as a tremendous amount of care and pains has gone to making it a worthy production in every detail. The cast will include Mme. Gadski, and Mr. Carl Jörn, Albert Reiss, Robert Leonhardt and Carl Braun. On Saturday afternoon, "Louise" will be repeated, with Mme. Edvina in the title part, which is so admirably suited to her. On Saturday evening, "The Tales of Hoffman" will be presented for the first time at the Saturday night scale of popular prices.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE—One of the most important of Mr. B. F. Keith's captures for his big vaudeville circuit is the engagement of George Copeland, the celebrated American pianist, to appear at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. Mr. Copeland is without question the greatest exponent of Debussy's music in the whole wide world. Mr. Copeland will be heard in a brilliant repertoire, arranged to appeal to every taste, and particularly to those who love to hear good music. This brilliant virtuoso will be only one star on a great bill. G. Molasso's wordless play with music, "The Darling of Paris," will be presented by Mario Molasso, Anna Kremser, and a company of sixteen dancers, mimos, and models, including a handsome beauty chorus of eight girls. Homer Miles, the well-known character actor, will appear in his original creation, "Packy Clancy," the janitor, in "On the Edge of Things." Gus Van and the famous "Mack" known as the pennant winning battery of song land, will be on hand and other features are Hubert, Byer & Co.; Ray Conlin; Dorothy Kenton; The Evans; and the Pathe Weekly.

PARK THEATRE—Robert Hillard brings to the Park Theatre, Boston, Monday evening, January 19, the original and only company presenting that remarkable New York success of last season, "The Argyle Case" which ran for seven months to capacity at the Criterion. Mr. Hillard will have a cordial greeting for he enjoys popularity with Boston playgoers. He has the best part in his career as Asche Kayton, the resourceful, well-poised detective who solves the two tense and thrilling mysteries of "The Argyle Case."

This is not a crime, crook nor white slave drama, but the first real detective play since "Sherlock Holmes." It is wholesome, ingenious, fascinating, and its suspense is sustained until the last moment.

Mr. Hillard brings the distinguished original company of thirty people associated with him in the New York run.

FAELTEN GRADUATES MARRIED
 A complete surprise was given the many friends of Mr. Malcolm W. Sears, "Faeltan '11" and Miss Annie A. MacKay, "Faeltan '13," when they were quietly married in Dorchester January 12. Mr. Sears has been an instructor at the Faeltan Planoforte School ever since his graduation, and it was while Miss MacKay was a student there that the attachment was formed which culminated so happily early this week. Mr. and Mrs. Sears will reside in Dorchester.

THE MAYOR'S INAUGURAL

Address of Mayor Childs To Board of Aldermen
For 1914

"On the ninth day of last December something happened in the City of Newton. Some call it an accident; others a miracle. Still others, there are, who do not attempt to give it a name but who rest contented with a recital of the simple fact that after a brief but interesting campaign during which most of our so-called influential citizens, most of those who have ever held political office here, the newspapers and the leaders of both the Republican and Progressive Parties were working zealously for the election of a better man the larger number of those who voted on that day recorded their ballots in favor of me.

To have been elected to the highest office in the city where one was born, has always lived and hopes to die, is a great honor. To have been elected in spite of the high character and tremendous influence of the opposition is a greater honor. But to have been elected by the plain, everyday people of a city like this is the highest honor, in my judgment, which can come to any man.

I appreciate fully both the honor and the responsibility which goes with this important office, and I want to thank at this time all of those who supported me and especially the newspaper editors, as well as my other good but misguided friends who by their violent opposition made votes for me every time they took their pen in hand or spoke.

A great many things both unkind and untrue were said against me and my candidacy, while the campaign was waxing warmest, to all of which I made no reply.

I figured this way that my friends wouldn't believe the misstatements and that those who were against me wouldn't believe the correction. Moreover, I decided at the outset to so conduct myself during the campaign that win or lose I should still have the respect of those who thought enough of me to offer me the nomination.

Many candidates for political office today and in the past have been defeated because they talked too much. Few suffer defeat because they keep silent.

Those who are fond of political post mortems tell me that the election was due to the fact that the vote of the city did not come out, but if their diagnosis of the feelings of those who did not vote is no more accurate than it was of those who did, there is some ground for the assumption that the stay-at-homes at least were not hostile to my candidacy.

There appears to be some doubt in the minds of many as to just where the credit for victory belongs. Some Republicans claim that they did it. Some Independents that the victory is theirs. A few Democrats are a bit puffed up over the outcome, and a Progressive leader confided to me the other day that although his colleagues were all against me he, nevertheless, looked upon the result as a victory for the Progressives.

Gentlemen, the glory may be shared, but whatever view one takes, the Democratic leaders must have the credit of having discovered the candidate in a remote but interesting corner of this city, and of having brought him to light.

The fact is that it was a non-partisan campaign, a non-partisan victory, and will be a non-partisan administration. I am glad that so many people are satisfied with the result, but their rejoicing and applause does not disturb me.

The victory sobers rather than elates. I have never allowed any temporal success to interfere with my equilibrium for I realize all too well that those who shout "Hosanna" the loudest today may shout "Crucify him—Crucify him" before my term of office is ended.

It is the custom, gentlemen, upon an occasion like this for the newly elected Mayor to review municipal affairs, outline policies and make specific recommendations.

From this old time custom the present incumbent will depart, for several reasons. In the first place all that needs to be said has probably been covered by Mayor Hatfield's valedictory or will be covered by the customary address of our new President. Again, such an address coming from a new Mayor accomplishes little. Furthermore all but four of your number have served long and faithfully in this Board and are wholly familiar with the situation as it is and it is contrary to my principles to waste time telling men what they already know. Last, but not least, a new man coming from a new town ought to look the ground over carefully before being too profuse with specific recommendations.

Later on from time to time I may make such recommendations as my judgment warrants, after having all the facts before me.

So much talk and gossip however, as to what the new Mayor proposes to do has been scattered broadcast in this city, that I feel that I ought to let you know where I stand on certain matters, and to at least suggest the spirit in which I come among you.

As you all know, I have never before held, and have never sought, political office. I have always had the notion that a young man should not seek office. That if the people really want him, they will come after him, and if they do come in the right manner it is his duty to accept.

Accordingly when, to my surprise, a committee representing the Newton Democratic City Committee invited me to move early in November and urged me to become a candidate for Mayor, I pledged my support saying that they asked no promises and wanted no favors, and furthermore, that I was the only registered Republican whom they would support. It seemed to me quite clear that if that was not a call for service it, at least, was a call to get ready for service. I did so and the voters of Newton did the rest.

Having made no promises to the Committee, I resolved to make none to any man or group of men, and others a miracle. Still others, there are, who do not attempt to give it a name but who rest contented with a recital of the simple fact that after a brief but interesting campaign during which most of our so-called influential citizens, most of those who have ever held political office here, the newspapers and the leaders of both the Republican and Progressive Parties were working zealously for the election of a better man the larger number of those who voted on that day recorded their ballots in favor of me.

I come, therefore, into this office with no promises to fulfill save that I would try to accomplish the greatest good for the largest number of our people.

That I still intend to do, gentlemen, with your help.

It has been urged in some quarters that my election is a calamity on account of the "gang" behind me.

I don't know whether by the "gang" they mean my 568 friends and neighbors in Nonantum, who voted for me, or whether they refer to the 260 aristocrats who stood by me in Ward 7.

At any rate, I needed the votes of both groups, and without either I could not have been elected.

I venture to think that by "gang" they mean a large number of our citizens who supported me whose ancestors happened to come over in a little boat rather than did mine. With that kind of talk I have no sympathy, and for American citizens who thus characterize their fellow citizens, I have no respect.

And right here let me venture a bit of prophecy that the man or men who run for Mayor in the future will have to reckon with that "gang" and that fifteen years from now, and sooner, they will be the men who will have the votes to elect not only Mayors, but Aldermen in the city of Newton.

I make this statement that any who may have political aspirations may ponder this saying in their hearts.

My part I prefer the group who stood by me to that other group referred to by a Newton man who has held, and still holds, high office, when he wrote me not long since saying

"You will assume office untrammelled by those associations or political ties which have in the minds of many as to just where the credit for victory belongs. Some Republicans claim that they did it. Some Independents that the victory is theirs. A few Democrats are a bit puffed up over the outcome, and a Progressive leader confided to me the other day that although his colleagues were all against me he, nevertheless, looked upon the result as a victory for the Progressives."

Some men who ought to have known better took the trouble to go through City Hall before election telling heads of departments and employees that if I were elected City Hall would be turned upside down.

That, gentlemen, is not a fact. How any head of a department voted at the last election doesn't interest me in the least. The right to vote as one pleases is the privilege of every American citizen, and the man who tries to coerce his fellow citizens on the question of voting ought to be disfranchised himself.

So long as I am Mayor of Newton, the employees of the city may vote as they please, may attend any political meetings they see fit, may even change their political enrollment, and the Mayor will see to it that they are not discharged for doing what they have a perfect right to do.

I am unfamiliar with the details of all but one Department here, and until the contrary appears I shall try to assume that every other department is as efficient as the one with which I am familiar, and has as competent a head.

Inizing up an office holder or in making appointments, which I may be called upon to make, I shall always bear in mind the fact that the final test of a man's fitness for any particular office, is his ability to handle for the good of the entire community the position entrusted him, regardless of who his ancestors were, or what his political affiliation may happen to be. How he voted for Mayor, or any other elective office at the last election, or at any other time, will not influence me, in the least.

No appointment which I may make will be satisfactory to all, but I expect to be criticised for anything which I may do. But let me say gentlemen right here and now that I have no political aspirations. That what I do will be done with the end in view of benefitting the city, and not of helping myself.

My attitude towards heads of departments is this. If a man is competent and the city is being well served, he ought not to be removed from office simply because a new Mayor comes along. On the other hand, if a head is incompetent, he not only ought to be relieved but, if he is in his right mind, he ought to want to be.

The City of Newton is not an Eleemosynary Institution. It is not even a business corporation. It is a municipal corporation. It differs from a business corporation in this particular that the ordinary business corporation is run for the benefit of the majority of the stockholders, and a municipal corporation ought to be run for the benefit of all the stockholders, and I take it that the stockholders are the people who live here and who therefore pay taxes either directly or indirectly. Their interests require the greatest efficiency for the least expense.

In facing the future, improvement not criticism will be my watchword, and I shall try to guard against extravagance and waste. By that I do not mean that I shall adopt an economy plan which in the long run is foolish.

Ours is a unique city—unique in its divisions into villages—unique as to the character of its people.

Our people demand the best, and if they do they ought to pay for it. And I have yet to find the man who finds fault with his tax bill when he thinks that he is getting full value in return and that his money is being accounted for in a satisfactory manner. I don't promise to reduce the tax rate. It may increase.

Our people demand much and then too we of today inherit a big financial burden, and a system handed down to us by able men who have served the city in the past.

Under the Acts of 1913, Chapter 719, the Mayor for the first time makes up the budget for the year.

This seems a big task for a new Mayor.

The 1913 Board of Aldermen, most of whom are still here have already made up a budget which ought at least to serve as a guide. I assume that that budget was honestly and carefully made up, and that the very best judgment of those who made it is represented therein.

If for any reason any of you have changed your mind in regard to any particular appropriation, and now see with clearer vision wherein any appropriation for which you formerly voted should be increased or reduced, I would thank you to talk with me at your earliest convenience for I certainly want all the light in this matter that I can get, and from all sources.

And now gentlemen as we take up our work together I shall continually bear in mind the fact that the Executive Department is not the Legislative department, and I will endeavor to attend, and to attend well, to my own business.

I want you to understand that I have but one desire, namely, that of giving the best that is in me to all of our citizens, regardless of the kind of clothes they wear on their backs, the sort of blood they have in their veins, or the amount of money they carry in their pockets. No man can do more than that. No man is fit for political office who is willing to do less.

Let us realize that we are sent here to help the people, to do some thing for them, not to tell them what they must do for us.

Let us bear in mind that real service is what we are called upon to render; that no department of city government and no particular method of conducting city affairs, in so important as real service to the citizens, that service, which is primarily the object for which departments and methods are created.

Let us further understand that the City of Newton doesn't revolve around City Hall; that we the members of the City Government, heads of departments and all others connected with Municipal government are the servants of the people, and that the people, that the people are not and ought not to be the servants of us.

Taking to heart then these principles, let us earnestly and hopefully strive to pattern this city, the management of which has for a time been entrusted to our care and keeping, after that other city which is all about us and yet which is out of our sight—that city which has on the East three gates, on the North three gates, on the South three gates and on the West three gates where all men receive their just dues and ask no more—that city which lieth four square, where the length and the breadth and the height of it are equal, and where His servants shall serve Him."

SUCCESSFUL DANCE

A very successful dancing party was given Saturday evening at the Northgate Club, West Newton, under the auspices of the Young Women's Club of St. John's Church.

Artistic decorations with yellow crepe paper, made the hall look most attractive, and dancing was enjoyed by about forty couples.

The well arranged order included some of the most popular of the season's dances, and the Crescent Orchestra of Waltham was in attendance, and furnished an excellent program of music.

The matrons were Mrs. Richard T. Loring, Mrs. Cheney L. Hatch, and Mrs. Edward P. Hendrick, and the young ladies serving on the committee included the Misses Grace Clark, Eleanor West, and Helen Cunningham. The proceeds are for the benefit of the parish house fund.

EUGENE YSAIE

This is almost as much a year of violinists as last season. Kreisler, Heubaud and Elman have all been heard here and next Sunday afternoon the starling Ysaie who is returning to America for a brief tour will give his first recital of the season in Symphony Hall. Last year Ysaie played in Boston a number of times and fully re-established his favor with the public. He showed that his skill and musicianship are as perfect as ever. This year, as last, he will have the valuable assistance of Camille Decres, the very accomplished Belgian pianist.

DEATH OF MRS. MILLER

Mrs. Olive S. Miller, widow of the late Edward F. Miller, and one of the oldest residents of Abundant, died last Monday at the home of her son, Mr. Franklin T. Miller on Grove street after an illness of about two months.

Mrs. Miller has been a resident of Abundant for forty-four years and has been active in the social and religious affairs of that village. She was a member of Centenary Methodist Church and of the Abundant Review Club and took a deep interest in both. Mrs. Miller was twice married and is survived by one son by each marriage, Mr. Frederick W. Dodge of New York and Mr. Franklin T. Miller of Abundant. Funeral services were held from her late home Wednesday afternoon in charge of Rev. George S. Butters, D.D., pastor of the Centenary Church. The duets, "Crossing the Barr," and "It is Well With My Soul," were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Spaulding. There was a large attendance, and the floral tributes were very beautiful. The burial was in the family lot in the Newton Cemetery.

DANCING PARTY

The members of the Newton Lower Falls Athletic Association entertained several hundred guests Friday night at their annual dancing party in Early Hall, Lower Falls. Among the guests were a large number from the various athletic teams, which have played the local organization during the past few seasons.

The affair proved very successful and a part of the proceeds will be devoted to making further improvements in their headquarters, which are located just over the Newton line in Wellesley.

The floor was in charge of Thomas J. Armitage, assisted by Lewis E. Connolly and the following aids: John S. Higgins, William J. Delaney, Frank Kane and John N. Cunningham.

CRESSY-McCLARY

The wedding of Miss Susan Stark McClary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. McClary of Abundale, and Mr. Walter Sylvester Cressy of Beverly took place Wednesday evening at the bride's home on Staniford street.

The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock by Rev. John Matteson, rector of the Church of the Messiah, the bride standing in a bower of evergreens and pines in the reception room.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was beautifully gowned in white silk. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her attendant was Miss Lu Hoogerziel of Beverly, as maid of honor, who wore yellow silk, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The best man was Mr. Alfred Cressy of Beverly, a brother of the bridegroom. A reception was held immediately after the ceremony, the young couple being assisted in receiving by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. McClary and Mr. and Mrs. Cressy.

Guests numbering about 75 were present from Boston, Beverly, and the Newtons. On their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Cressy will reside at 6 Myrtle street, Waltham.

ALUMNI DANCE

Members of the Newton High School Alumni Association gave the fourth annual dance on Saturday evening in Bray Hall, Newton Centre.

The hall was attractively festooned with evergreen, and one hundred couples participated in a well arranged order of 20 dances. Ryan's Orchestra of 7 pieces was in attendance and furnished a program of popular music. Two special novelty dances were introduced during the evening, which were greatly enjoyed by the dancers. The patronesses were Mrs. H. E. Hagan and Miss Kate Wiley. Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Maxim. Mr. Eardley F. Nowers directed the dancing and was assisted by the Misses Beatrice A. Slattery, May A. Foley, Mary H. Hagerty, Frances A. Ireland, Marie A. Nolan, Gertrude J. Quilty, Mary Maguire, and Messrs. Frank Avantiago, Algernon McCarthy, Edward O'Neill, John E. Kelley, Arthur E. Quilty and Lawrence M. Barry.

MRS. LEE DEAD

Mrs. Caroline H. Lee widow of George C. Lee, died Wednesday in her 80th year at her home, 100 Essex road, Chestnut Hill.

As Miss Caroline Haskell of New Bedford, was married to Mr. Lee, Dec. 10, 1857. In 1907 they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Her surviving children are George C. Lee of the Boston banking house of Lee, Higginson & Co., Mrs. Reginald Gray of 19 Marlboro street, Mrs. Charles Milfin Hammon of Upper Lake, Calif., Mrs. George S. Mumford of 24 Essex road, Chestnut Hill, and Mrs. Sewell Fessenden of 1 Raleigh street. Another daughter, Miss Alice Lee, was the first wife of Col. Theodore Roosevelt and the mother of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Funeral services were held at the First Unitarian Church, Chestnut Hill, this morning.

WARBERG-SHERMAN

The wedding of Miss Sarah Lydia Sherman, the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Sherman of West Newton, and Mr. Sofus Johan Peter Warberg of Whitteville, Conn., took place last Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents on Fairview terrace, which was attractively decorated in Christmas greens and red and white flowers, the latter colors being the national colors of Denmark, the home of the groom.

The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of the Unitarian Church.

The bride was gowned in ivory white satin and charmingly lace with a tulle veil fastened with lilies of the valley. Miss Julia E. Lancaster of Newton, the maid of honor, was dressed in pale blue chiffon and carried a bouquet of red and white flowers. The best man was Mr. Frank M. Sherman, Jr., of Dartmouth, Mass., brother of the bride, and the ushers were Messrs. Edward Clarton Sherman of Brookline, Edward Chase Tolman and Channing Newell of West Newton and Max C. Sherman of Pittsburgh, Pa.

A reception followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Warberg being assisted in receiving their friends by Dr. and Mrs. Sherman and Mrs. Lydia A. Sisson, grandmother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of the Misses Allen School of West Newton and the Garland Training School of Boston, and the groom is a graduate of the University of Copenhagen, Denmark, and at the present time is a civil engineer at New Haven.

DANCING PARTY

The La Coterie Club comprising young ladies residents of Watertown, Newton, Brookline and Roslindale will give their annual party January 20, at Whitney hall, Brookline.

A surprise is in store for the guests regarding favors and order of dances, and as usual this event is looked forward to by the younger set as the event of the season. The young ladies of the club, Misses Cannon, Devine, Flynn, Maguire, McCardle, Sheridan and Spillane will endeavor to have this party the best yet held by the club.

ANNUAL MEETING

The West Newton Day Nursery, Inc. will hold its seventh annual meeting at the Nursery 89 Elm street, on Tuesday, January 20th, at 10.30, to hear the annual reports and to elect officers. Miss Emily Babb, Secretary of the Boston Social Union will speak on "The Building-Up of Club and Class Work."

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Moulton, lately engaged to take charge of the Club and Class work for the Nursery, will say a few words about her plans for the winter.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The General Federation Endowment Fund is coming on. The last official announcement that it has nearly reached $50,000 in cash paid in with pledges of $775 in addition. Eighteen states have sent in their full quota, three more are credited with 75 per cent or more and Massachusetts stands at the head of the list of those having paid 50 per cent or more. The latest statement from the Massachusetts Field Agent says that a little more than $7100 has been received. This is the largest amount given by any state and California stands second with a gift of more than $3800. The Massachusetts State Board is very anxious that the full amount may be secured before the Chicago Biennial and therefore the matter may be closed; but the report recently received from the clubs do not look very encouraging and it would seem as if there must be some large individual gifts to complete the sum. Five hundred $5 gifts would do it. Surely there must be 500 club women in the state who could give that sum, if the matter was called to their attention.

Social Service Conference

By invitation of the Centabrigia Club of Cambridge a Social Service Conference will be held in the 40 Brattle street, Cambridge, on Friday, January 23, at 2 P. M. The general subject will be "Recreation." Mrs. Esther M. Andrews will speak of it in Relation to Wage Earners, Judge Harvey H. Baker in Relation to Delinquency, Mrs. James J. Storow will speak of "The Value of Folk Dancing" and Joseph Lee on "The Philosophy of Recreation." Every one is urged to take part in the discussion. Admission as usual by visiting card with name of club. Informal tea will be served by the hostess club. Club members going from Newton should leave the Harvard Square car just before entering the Cambridge Subway. Because of the efficient service rendered to that Association and to the city through his lecture work, Mr. Cooper has recommended him for a wider service to the Association movement and the Physical Department of the International Committee is undertaking his appointments.

Dr. Barker was the physical adviser of President Taft during the four years of his administration and before that when he was Secretary of War. He has also directed a physical exercise of other men prominent in political and financial circles.

Mrs. Samuel L. Eaton will speak before the West Newton Women's Educational Club on "The Life and Work of Alice Freeman Palmer" at its meeting on Jan. 23 at 2.30.

The Current Events class of the Brightelmstone Club meets on Jan. 23, at 2.30, Mrs. Mabel S. Crawford, leader.

Local Happenings

The West Newton Women's Educational Club held its regular meeting on Jan. 9. Mrs. Arthur W. Lane, chairman of Education, was in charge of the program, introducing as speaker, Mrs. Anna Sturgis Dureya of the World Peace Foundation. Mrs. Dureya spoke on "The International Consciousness" and said in part, that the peace societies all over the world are working for the gradual abolition of war, for the settling of international questions by arbitration instead of by war, for brotherhood and co-operation between the nations of the earth, recognizing their likenesses, not their differences, and in this way upbuilding and reconstructing the attitude of this great world of ours.

Miss Ellen T. Emerson of the Women's Municipal League gave a brief talk on the work of the Household Nursing Association. Mrs. Gertrude F. Snow rendered two vocal selections acceptably accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy A. Sprague. Tea was served under the direction of Mrs. F. E. Nowers. Mrs. Parlin and Mrs. Youker pouring.

On Jan. 6, the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club's Twelfth Night festivities were observed at the home of Mrs. W. E. Moore of Hillsdale road. A very instructive and entertaining address on "Panama and the Barbados" illustrated with stereopticon views was given by Mrs. Edw. W. Old Crosby of Boston. This was followed with a social hour and tea. Mrs. Herbert Drew poured assisted by Miss Adele Gilbert and Miss Virginia Drew.

Mrs. Frank Frost was hostess for the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club on Jan. 12. Mrs. C. D. Miller considered "The Authors and Poets of the South," treating especially Sidney Lanier, George W. Cable, Charles Egbert Craddock and Thomas Nelson Page. Mrs. M. M. Griswold read Lanier's "Marshes of Glynn" and "The Charge of Balaklava." Mrs. C. H. Keeler read one of the Uncle Remus stories, "Little Giffen of Tennessee" and "The Mask of the Red Death" by Poe were read by Mrs. Miller. Mrs. M. S. Wallace followed with a paper upon "The Music of the South," dwelling particularly upon negro melodies. She illustrated by playing two of Coleridge-Taylor's compositions. Mrs. F. S. Fairchild sang "Dixie."

The members of the Abundale Review Club are saddened this week by the death of their loyal member and former president, Mrs. Edward F. Miller. She was devoted to the club and to each member and never missed a meeting except when too ill to attend. She served as president during the years, 1910-1911 and 1911-1912, and although a frail woman went about much among the clubs and was a faithful attendant upon Federation meetings as the representative of her own club. She will be greatly missed, but will always be remembered and loved for her loyalty. The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon to which the Review Club sent a mass of pink roses her favorite flower. On account of Mrs. Miller's death the program for the meeting of the club on January 27, which was to have been her meeting, will be changed. The work of the Massachusetts State Federation will be presented and a memorial to Mrs. Miller, when several members will pay tribute to her.

The Newton Parliamentary Law Club met with Mrs. Tripp on Tuesday morning when Mrs. E. M. Sherman of Boston conducted the usual drill in the practice and rules of Parliamentary Law. Miss Ellen Emerson presented the topic of Home Nursing, mentioning the opportunity of securing household attendants and nurses afforded by the recent action of the Women's Municipal League.

Some of the members remained to enjoy a luncheon and a social hour when opportunity was afforded to greet several guests of the house. The next meeting will be on January 27, at 10.15 A. M. when a limited number of persons interested in the study of parliamentary law may attend on payment of a nominal fee.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. continued its study of Australia at the home of Miss Hyde on Monday afternoon, Mrs. Boyd being in charge of the work. The special topics were the Industries and Government. Mrs. Boyd dwelt particularly upon the loyalty of the present inhabitants to the mother country, Great Britain. In 1893 it was agreed that the island should have a Federal Government, but it was not until 1900 that Queen Victoria signed the document which made Australia independent. In form the government is very like that of this country with the exception that the Governor General is appointed by the King of England.

The capital at Canberra and the plans for its development were described at length. The system of education is very fine, education being compulsory as is also military training. It is a land of problems as are other countries which have developed rapidly. The system of taxation and of pensions were touched upon.

The meeting on Monday the 19th of the Newton Woman's Club will be an open one to which ladies of all the Newtons will be most welcome. An address on "Common Fallacies in Peace and War," by Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead will be followed with songs by William Brown. The meeting will be called at 2.30 P. M. at the Newton Club, Newtonville.

On Wednesday morning Mrs. F. B. Hornbrooke presented a paper upon "Alexander Hamilton" at the meeting of the Social Science Club. Mrs. Hornbrooke had made an exhaustive study of the material available upon this interesting character and presented her results in a concise and entertaining manner. Hamilton, she said, was born in the West Indies in 1757 of mixed Scotch and Huguenot blood. As a young boy, he read, wrote and spoke French as well as he did English. By aid of some relatives he was able to come to New York and entered King's College, now Columbia, and completed the course in three years at the age of nineteen, a remarkable feat since he had very inadequate preparation.

At the beginning of the Revolution he threw himself heart and soul into the cause of the colonies. He wrote brilliant pamphlets vindicating their cause and made a thorough study of military tactics, and at the end of six months when only twenty years old, became an aid to General Washington and his virtual private secretary. Washington owed much to his ability and entrusted him with many military errands of importance. His whole military experience was honorable and noble. Later when the Constitutional Convention was called, Hamilton was one of the three representatives from New York. He had a genius for finance and to him this country owes a debt of gratitude for his wise counsel in the formation of national banks and for working out the financial policy of the country. He became the first secretary of the treasury. In closing Mrs. Hornbrooke discussed the affairs leading up to the duel in which Hamilton was mortally wounded by Aaron Burr.

The Pierian Club observed guest day on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Cora S. Cobb gave a most interesting talk upon "Peru and the Incas." Miss Phyllis Mills sang two songs, after which the members and guests enjoyed a social hour with refreshments.

"LAST DAYS OF POMPEII"

Under the auspices of the Newton Y. M. C. A. there will be a meeting for women on Wednesday, Jan. 21, at 3 o'clock, when Dr. C. E. Barker will speak upon "A Mother's Relation to her Daughter."

Dr. Barker is a member of the Physical Department Committee of the Washington, D. C., Young Men's Christian Association, and a personal friend of Mr. Wm. Knowles Cooper, General Secretary of that Association.

On Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 20, the Newtonville Woman's Guild will observe "Presidents' Day". There will be a short reception at 2.45 after which Mr. Herbert W. Gleason will lecture upon "Luther Burbank."

The Waban Woman's Club listened with great pleasure to a very interesting and finely illustrated lecture on Luther Burbank and His Wonderful Plant Productions by Mr. Herbert W. Gleason last Monday afternoon in the Union Church vestry. Mr. Burbank was born in Lancaster, Mass., but now lives with his sister in Santa Rosa, California, where he is continually striving for something new and of permanent value in flowers, fruits, trees or vegetables.

He is a scientific worker and a genius in plant-breeding because of his wonderful knowledge and great skill, but not a wizard; a man who is very fond of children, genial and kind, but rather shy according to Mr. Gleason. The pictures showed flowers of the rarest colorings and unusual size, the most delicious fruits, his home in Massachusetts and his present one in California, and how different hybrids were developed. Mr. Gleason said that the thornless blackberry and spineless cactus were among Mr. Burbank's most recent productions and at present he is working to obtain a blue poppy.

TRAVEL CLASS

On January 8, at 2 P. M., the Travel Class of the West Newton Woman's Educational Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. Youker of West Newton. After a short business meeting, four papers were read and discussed. The first, by Mrs. C. Edwin Quinn was a very complete treatise on "Caste" from its inception, and development thro the ages to the present time, when, thro the influence of Christianity, a perceptible change is taking place in India.

Brahmins and priests, and the warriors, representing the highest grades, comprised the subject of Mrs. Emma Dimond's paper.

Owing to the absence of Mrs. Southwick, her paper on "Agricultural Settlers and sudras or serfs," was given by Mrs. Dimond.

"The Pariahs or Outcasts" by Mrs. Darling closed the study of class distinctions in India.

As usual a social half hour followed.

McKenney & Waterbury Co., No. 181 Franklin St., corner Congress, have marked over 1,700 Electric Gas and Oil Table and Floor Lamps, at wholesale prices, to continue during the month of January, an opportunity seldom offered to purchase practical and high grade lamps.

WEST NEWTON DAY NURSERY

An Account of Its Accomplishments and Hopes for the Future

The West Newton Day Nursery is entering upon its eighth year of service in uplifting, strengthening and helping mothers, who for one reason or another find it difficult, and at times well nigh impossible to support their children. An important feature of its work is in caring for the younger children, so that the mothers may go out to work—conscious that their little ones are safe.

During the last year the Nursery has had an average attendance of 23 children per day, and an aggregate attendance of 4624. 53 families have been represented and of these, 23 are cases where the mother is a widow, with from two to five children, and six are cases of deserted wives. In the other 21 cases, both parents are living, and special care is used in investigating these, before aid is given. Many times, however, it is found that the father cannot earn enough to support his family, or that he is an invalid, and in other instances the helping hand is extended temporarily on account of illness, or some misfortune.

To really know what is being done for the little children, one should drop into the Nursery some day, say about twelve o'clock, and see them sitting at table, with their happy shining faces, enjoying a good wholesome dinner; or at another hour, when perhaps a half dozen or more babies, some white and others black, are asleep in their clean white cribs.

Much more of interest could be said about this Nursery end of the work, which is in the hands of our able and efficient matron, Miss Elizabeth Frunde.

Now about the older brothers and sisters, what is the Nursery, or Neighborhood House, as we hope to call it, doing for them? It is inviting them in to join classes and to form Clubs of all kinds, and here is where we want to make a special appeal for interest and support, for this enlarging of social work, which we find is much needed, and appreciated.

We have improved and increased the size of our plant, to meet the demands of this broader work—and now have classes in cooking, sewing, cane-sewing and cobbling—but we need more classes and clubs.

We want the house open Sunday afternoons, so that the young people may read, or listen to music, instead of standing about on the street, but we must have the support of a generous public, to carry on this splendid work, for which we have just engaged the services of a trained social worker, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Moulton.

We are trying to develop better boys and girls; better homes, and so better wage earners and future citizens.

Will you co-operate with us? Our annual subscriptions are about due. If your name is not on our list may we add it, and will you give us what help and encouragement you can?

THE NEWTON FORUM

The second of the series of free educational meetings, held under the auspices of the Newton Social Forum, will be held next Sunday, Jan. 25th, in Workmen's Hall, Nonantum Building, Newton, at 3.30 P. M. Mr. Louis Marcus will speak on "Economic Forces as Makers of History." Those who had the pleasure and profit of hearing Prof. Ellen Hayes last Sunday should avail themselves of this opportunity to further investigate and aid in the solution of the modern Sphinx-riddle. All are invited. Admission is free. Good music will be provided by Miss Viola Doyle. If one fears being bored by a set lecture he may take courage from the fact that he will be given an opportunity to ask questions and to participate in the debate. Half of the attendance last Sunday were women, who seemed quite as eager to learn and to dissent as were the men. These meetings are purely educational along the lines of civic and economic polity.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Newton Cemetery Corporation will be held in the Chapel at the Cemetery on Wednesday, Feb. 4th, 1914, at four o'clock P. M. for the election of trustees for the year ensuing, to hear reports of committees, and to transact any other business that may legally come before them. All lot owners are earnestly requested to be present.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE TEA

The Social Service League of the Newton Hospital Aid Association gave a most entertaining and instructive tea, at the home of Mrs. William H. Lucas, Kirkstall road, Newtonville, last week.

The first part of the afternoon was devoted to a lecture on Prison and Parole work, by John B. Hebbard, Massachusetts Deputy Prison Commissioner and Secretary of the Board of Parole. The main part of his talk dwelling upon the more humane and advanced methods, with which they are now treating those persons, which happen to be less fortunate than others.

The lecture was followed by an enjoyable social hour. The pourers, Mrs. Geo. H. Colyer and Mrs. George H. Talbot, were assisted by various members of the League.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC CLUB

Mrs. Thomas F. Baxter of Bristol road, West Newton, entertained the West Newton Music Club on Monday evening, a most enjoyable program being rendered, including trios by Miss Alice McLaughlin, flute; Miss Adeline Packard, violin; Miss Beatrice Spaulding, piano, and Miss Packard, violin; Mrs. Lillian Haynes Walker, cello, and Miss Ethel Harding, piano; with solos by Miss Dal Buell, and Miss Harding on the piano, by Mrs. Walker on the cello, and songs by Miss M. Edith Blake and Mr. Albert L. Walker.

MASQUERADE PARTY

Newton Club Members Enjoy Themselves in Gossamer

The regular annual masquerade party of the Newton Club was held in the large assembly room of the club house, on Tuesday, January 20. Nearly 200 club members and guests gathered, in spite of the old fashioned New England snow storm which struck this part of the country on that evening, and both masked dancers and unmasked lookers-on proclaimed it equally as successful as a year ago, and a notable event of the season. From 8.30 until 10, the maskers revelled in their lack of identity, and both grotesque and beautiful costumes vied with one another in lending variety to the scene. The opening march filled the entire circle of the room, and a motley crowd, in that function, seemed eager to enter into their antics in the dance. The castle walk, the Boston, and the waltz, were the only dances entered into, but there were few couples who remained seated during the fine dance music. At 10, after the awarding of the first ladies' prize to Mrs. Walter H. Marsh, who was attired as Joan of Arc, and the first gentlemen's prize to Mr. "Mark" Hanna, who was dressed (partially) as a Fiji Islander, the order came to unmask, when, with many painted faces and grotesque makeups, there still remained a large percentage of unidentified guests and friends. The sport continued until long after supper, and those who were costumed were augmented by the guests and members in evening dress. Several times during the evening, it was necessary to sweep up Mr. Hanna's costume, which in the activities of the dance, became strewn upon the floor.

Among the members present were Mr. Hubert G. Ripley, attired as a clown, and Mrs. Ripley, who was in Spanish costume; Messrs. Warner Marshall and Fred E. Mann, attired as twin French chefs; Mrs. Mann as a red cross nurse, and Mrs. Marshall as a dainty soubrette; Mrs. Louis I. Shreiner, of Newton Highlands, and a party of six, all attired as blue and red clowns; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bambridge as a Chinese mandarin and wife; Mrs. Henry J. Nichols and Miss Bankhart as red riding hood girls; Mr. Follett as a very large, petulant baby boy; Mr. W. J. Tansey as a Chinese coolie, and the Misses Bambridge as a black witch and a gelsa girl, respectively, and many others, variously representing nearly all of the oddities of ancient and modern costume.

The social life at the Newton Club, this winter, together with the many brilliant exhibitions of bowling, the interest taken in billiards and pool, the large attendances at the bridge parties, the great devotion of a large percentage of the members to both the formal and informal dances in the assembly room, and the comfortable men's Saturday nights, have made the club the center of notable activity in Newtonville circles, and also a center toward which nearly all the members radiate at some time during the week. There is a fine freedom of social spirit in the many events, which should help to constantly increase the membership and far-reaching social value of the organization.

NEW RECTOR

Rev. Louis A. Parsons Accepts Call To St. Paul's Episcopal Church

Rev. Louis A. Parsons, who has recently been chosen rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Newton Highlands, will begin his services in this city on Sunday, February 22nd.

Mr. Parsons was born at New Haven, Conn., on Feb. 26, 1873, and was educated in that city, studying at Yale University and Berkeley Divinity School, graduating from the latter institution in 1897. He was ordained a deacon in that year and a priest in 1898.

REV. LOUIS A. PARSONS
The New Rector at St. Paul's Church, Newton Highlands

Mr. Parsons was curate at St. John's at Stamford, Conn., in 1897-98 and then served for five years as rector at St. John's at North Haven, Conn. From 1904-07 he was the senior curate at St. James' Church in Philadelphia and was then rector of St. Paul's Church at Brunswick, Me., until 1912 when he became rector at his present church, St. James of Amesbury, Mass.

In 1907 Mr. Parsons married Miss Elizabeth A. Brooks of Brookline and Reading. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons will occupy the rectory, No. 60 Columbus street.

The present officers of St. Paul's are Mr. Stephen A. Smith, senior warden; Mr. John R. Sweeney, junior warden; Mr. Edward R. Cogswell, Jr., clerk; Mr. Albert H. Norton, treasurer, and Messrs. Edgar B. Sampson, Arthur G. Wellman, Howard Whitmore, Maurice Wrigley, Arthur S. Williams, and Robert P. Smith, vestrymen.

The Middlesex County Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the Methodist Church, Newton, on Thursday, January 22. Sessions will be held at 10 A. M. and 2 P. M. The public is invited.

BOARD OF

Newton Business Men City Wide Organized

A Newton Board of Business Men organized on Monday night, meeting held in the room of the Newton Board of Trade, under the auspices of the New Men's Association. Fred A. Hubbard presided. Walter B. Moore gave the growth of cities and social organizations, paying attention to "knockers" whom he believed overroaded out of town.

On the favorable recommendation of the committee appointed at the meeting of the Newton Association that body was organized as a Newton Board of Business Men, which will include the entire city, and were unanimously elected: Fred A. Hubbard; vice, Clarence W. Sanders; Cozenes, Horace W. Orin; Thompson, Thomas W. Brimblecom; secretary, Iard L. Sampson; director, Astor, Max H. Hase, A. man, Charles F. Jones, and Chas. G. Newcomb.

After a lively discussion of objects to be accomplished by the organization, an excellent plan was served.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CATHERINE DORNEY

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Dorney, widow of the late James Dorney, who died suddenly Wednesday morning, took place from her late residence, Bowers street, Newton, last Saturday morning.

A solemn mass of Requiem was celebrated at the Church of Our Saviour, 9 o'clock. Rev. James F. Keane, celebrant, Rev. George Reardon, con, and Rev. A. S. Malone, sacristan.

The services were largely attended and there were many beautiful tributes.

Mrs. Dorney was a resident of Newtonville for many years and survived by three daughters.

STONE INSTITUTE AND HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the above-named corporation will be held at the Newton Club, Newtonville, on Saturday, January 7, 1914, at 3 o'clock P. M. for the following purposes:

1. To fix the number of Directors and the quorum thereof for the ensuing year.
2. To elect Officers and Directors for the ensuing year.
3. To hear, discuss, and act on report of the Building Committee.
4. To transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

Natural Ice vs Artificial Ice

Communication signed by "Citizen" in a recent issue of the Newton Graphic, has been a supply of Newton. We are mainly interested because of the fact that the supply of ice is not harvested in Newton. His phrase is "doubtful sources." It is a matter of record that all the ice harvested in Newton is from the same source, the Lake Umbagog at Brookline, N. H. This is a spring owned by the company harvesting the ice. If there is a quality, than this, we are not familiar with it.

On the subject of Natural Ice, he would not be inclined to view it as a healthful food. Let us quote the opinion of some scientists, well known to the public. William T. Sedgwick, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says: "The combined effects of storage and freezing of ice is of trifling importance. I am often asked while thousands of tons of Natural Ice have now for years and conditions of people, not a single epidemic of illness fastened upon Natural Ice. Taken by and large, Natural Ice is a healthful food."

Professor of Sanitary Engineering, Harvard College, says: "Under what circumstances may natural ice produce disease, as well as experience, is 'almost never,' or so infrequently, that it is not worth the trouble of considering it as a perishable goods."

Scientists who have testified to the innate purity of ice, to authorities, but endeavors to convey the impression to the public health and that consumers of it should be careful. It is unfair and that if "Citizen" has any facts to present before the public and if not that he should leave his own sanitary science on the matter of infection by ice, he should not have written the article. This is a matter of record, that ice, which is considered a source of danger, has been sold today or tomorrow, almost always, thus leaving an impression, if through carelessness, the water is not of good quality. Newton will not get better ice if it is furnished by the first time in the city's history, it will be necessary to pay more attention to the ice served its citizens in order to manufacture, that cleanliness is maintained which is essential and observed by those responsible for it.

That if he have any further statements to make, make them like the citizens of Newton, and not to hide under the name of "Citizen."

Called to the attention of the public, is certainly worth "backing" the method adopted by "Citizen."

HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT

Increasing cost of municipal, county and federal government is a national problem. The cost is growing out of all proportion to the increase in population.

The United States Census Bureau has issued a volume on the cost of governing American cities. The report shows, for instance, that 184 cities in 1910 the tremendous sum of $759,942,445 by taxation. Taking a group of 146 cities for comparison of 1902 with 1910, it shows that the cost in these eight years over 71 per cent. The money raised by taxation in these 146 cities in 1902 was $419,891,091, and in 1910 was $717,882,232. Taking all these cities we find that the increased cost of municipal government alone was over $300,000,000 in the eight-year period, and the total cost per family per year for 1910, for city government, was $153.70.

The cost for state and municipal government is higher in the states of Massachusetts and Washington than anywhere else, and it is due in both states to the multiplicity of commissions, the interference of the government in so many affairs of the citizens, and the fact for "regulating" about everything that the citizens wish to do. In both of these states we have numerous commissions for about everything under the sun, except possibly the regulation of the birth-rate and the care of ingrowing toenails. Social legislation, too, plays its part; and if we are to "dance" to this kind of "music" we must "pay the fiddler."

Boston is at the top notch for high-cost government, with a record of $48.82 for each of its inhabitants, or $243.10 per family each year, as against $122 in Baltimore and Philadelphia, $130 in Cleveland, $110 in Milwaukee and $126 in Buffalo. The cost in Worcester is $121, against $90 in New Haven; $136 in Cambridge, against $91 in Atlanta, Ga.; $140 in Springfield, against $75 in Manchester, N. H. In Tacoma, Wash., the cost is $228, in Seattle $244, and in Spokane $169. Compare this with the $120 in Providence, R. I., $93 in Indianapolis and $115 in St. Paul, Minn.

Again take the specified classes of special property taxes which are almost identical in both Massachusetts and New York. We find that this tax amounted in 1910 in all the cities of New York, with a total population of 6,125,000, to $5,420,959, while in all the cities of Massachusetts having a total population of only 1,853,000, this tax was $4,794,929. In other words our taxes are three times higher than in New York for this form of taxation.

The entire cost for municipal government in this nation is over $1,000,000,000 a year. To this we must add the cost of state and county government, $600,000,000, and lastly the cost of the Federal government, a billion dollars more, and we have the stupendous total of $2,600,000,000 a year as the price we pay for being governed almost to death. This figures up to just about $283 a year for every family in the United States. Think of it! A cost of more than five dollars a week, on the average, for every family in America! The price of steak, the cost of your rents, the price you pay for the education of your children, and, indeed, the cost of everything you purchase, is reflected and increased in price because of our being "governed to death."

The public extravagance and woe of incompetence, heard most heavily upon the middle and working classes, and especially the latter. You ask who is to blame? Why, every professional Socialist, and every "crank" who is a Socialist and don't know it; every wild-eyed agitator, every "up-lifter" in general and the radical labor organizations in this state, who are working overtime to place upon the statute books every kind of a law that will increase salaries, increase the wages of the public employees, pay pensions to widows, increase the already too numerous commissions, whose chief good to themselves is to draw a big salary, reduce the hours of labor of everyone who works for city, state or county, for investigations of anything and everything that the human mind can conjure up, and they do it all for the dear, dear "peepul." Every new commission starts out with a declaration that it will never cost the state over $50,000, and the second legislature raises the cost to $100,000, and so on. Every kind of freak and fad legislation has a costly commission to carry it out. That is the rule.

This "high cost of government" is a big factor in the "high cost of living." It is high time that the sane and sober citizenship of the state was aroused to the danger of this high-cost-government. It is time a halt was called against this emotional hysteria of paternalistic, crank legislation. The danger is becoming more menacing every year.

Gov. Walsh has called attention to the over-commissioned, over-burdened state, and his recommendation of retrenchment and reduction are among the best of his inauguration thoughts. It is time to stop this increasing cost of government. Will the "servants of the people" on Beacon Hill back up the governor; or will they continue to believe that the demand of certain "interests" is the "voice of the people?"—Haverhill Record.

POLITICAL NOTES

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Progressive City Committee was held Wednesday night in Odd Fellows' Hall, Newtonville. Norman Marshall of West Newton was re-elected chairman. The other officers are J. William Blaisdell, vice chairman; Charles E. Reed, secretary; Mrs. Jessie F. Atwater, assistant secretary; and William B. Arnold, treasurer. The following committee was chosen to make arrangements for a banquet, which will be held in the near future: Dr. John F. Brant, Alexis J. Benoit, William B. Arnold, Philip W. Carter, R. A. Robbins, M. W. Melcher, J. Albert Cole and Otis W. Holmes.

BRAE BURN CLUB

More than one hundred guests were entertained at dinnerparties at the Club Friday evening before the carnival. Among those who entertained at the dinner parties at the Club were Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mr. Mayo, Mr. E. H. Kimball of West Newton, Mr. George M. Coss, and Mr. F. R. Schirmer, Newton Centre. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clifford, Mrs. Batchelder, and Captain Kellogg, of Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Willis R. Fisher of Waban, Mr. William A. Quigley and Mr. Mansfield.

GETHSEMANE COMMANDERY

Entertains Many Sir Knights and Guests at Pop Concert

The series of entertainments given the past few winters by Gethsemane Commandery, Knights Templar, for the purpose of raising funds for the pilgrimage taken last summer to the Triennial Conclave at Denver, Col., proved so popular that the Commandery determined to continue them another season, notwithstanding the fact that the original reason had ceased to exist.

That the entertainments will be well patronized was indicated last evening, when the first in the series, a pop concert, with dancing and cards as additional attractions, was attended by nearly three hundred Sir Knights and ladies. The hall was beautifully decorated with festoons of electric lights inside red Japanese lanterns with a red star at the centre of the ceiling. While popular music was rendered by the orchestra, with singing of all the popular songs demanded by the most enthusiastic of those present, refreshments were served, the Sir Knights acting as waiters. Grand Lecturer Asa C. Jewett was in charge of the music and did just as he pleased, as usual.

An enjoyable program was given later in the asylum, under direction of Eminent Commander, Charles J. Shepard, consisting of some excellent dancing in costume by Miss Nellie McMath Whitten of Waltham and contralto solos by Caroline Asbram Jones, all of which were heartily enjoyed.

The grand march to Temple Hall was headed by Eminent Commander and Mrs. Shepard and was followed by dancing. There were a dozen or more tables at which the prizes of cut glass and umbrellas being won by Mrs. R. C. Bridgman, Mrs. J. C. Brimblecom and Messrs. J. L. Atwood and J. C. Brimblecom.

The general committee was made up of Eminent Commander Charles J. Shepard, Grand Lecturer Asa C. Jewett and A. Sidney Bryant. Those assigned as the reception committee were Past Commanders Frank L. Nagle, George Breeden, William F. Jarvis, E. G. Pond, Samuel Shaw, W. E. Peterson, J. B. Fuller, Lewis E. Binney, A. L. Harwood with A. H. Deane, T. E. Hicks, George L. Steeper, W. J. Follett, Charles E. Riley, E. E. Snyder, C. W. Henderson, Jr., W. H. Colgan, R. A. Hovel, H. A. Carter, A. M. Miller, E. H. Bell and Mitchell Wing.

Other duties were entrusted to the following: Music, A. E. Billings; refreshments, Past Commanders W. E. Peterson and A. C. Jewett; E. H. Bell, C. F. Ward, G. A. B. Bacon, A. M. Miller, E. E. DANCE AT THE COPLEY-PLAZA

Mrs. George Napier Towle and Mrs. George Walker of Newton Centre, were the hostesses at a delightful dance on Wednesday evening at the Copley Plaza, where Mr. and Mrs. Towle are spending the winter.

It was one of the most brilliant social functions of the season, and Newton society was well represented among the guests. There were several dinners before the dance, which began about 9 o'clock continuing until midnight. The decorations in the ball room were most elaborate and artistic and the music was furnished by Teale's Orchestra. The ushers included Messrs. Robert Cushman, Benton Bradshaw, Frank A. Russell, Joseph B. Henderson of Brookline, Prescott Warren of Newton, Harry L. Ayer of West Newton, Harry D. Priest of Auburndale, Charles Davis of Lexington, William B. Merrill, William M. Flauders, A. Dudley Dowd, Morton E. Cobb and Charles L. Smith of Newton Centre and William E. Bright of Waltham.

Guests numbering about 400 were present from Boston, Brookline, Lexington, Waltham and the Newtons. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Morton E. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dudley Dowd, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic F. Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crampton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus T. Beatey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kelsey, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hubbard of Newton Centre; Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, of West Newton; Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Priest of Auburndale; Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Dana, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Loveland, Miss Lucy Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Warren and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Dillingham of Newton, and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Bright of Waltham.

POLICE NOTE

In the Police Court yesterday morning a fine of $15 was imposed upon Harry Shakerian, 29 years of age, of 353 Washington street, Newton, who was charged with disturbing the peace for disturbance, and Eden was also sentenced to the Concord Reformatory for assault upon an officer. The two young men were attending the Newton Opera House Wednesday night, when because of the noise they made they were ejected. Eden was put out of the building, but Coakley, who refused to leave, was arrested by patrolman Frank Dow. When officer Dow came back to Nonantum square, after placing Coakley under arrest, Eden accosted him, and after arguing with the officer for arresting his chum, during which time the officer warned him to go home, Eden struck him in the eye, which was badly discolored. Eden put up such a hard fight with the officer that he was obliged to put the twisters on before he could take him to the Police Station. Coakley was given time to pay his fine, but Eden appealed from both fine and sentence.

For threatening to kill his aunt, who had many times refused to marry him, Harry Shakerian, 29 years of age, of 353 Washington street, Newton, was in court Wednesday morning on the charge of threatening. A fine of $50 was imposed by Judge Bacon, and he was also held in $300 bonds to keep the peace for a year. Being unable to furnish the necessary amount he was taken to the East Cambridge Jail. Shakerian went to the home of his aunt, Mary Shakerian, at Clarendon avenue, Newtonville, last Sunday, and on refusal to marry him pulled a gun from his pocket and pressed it against her body.

PHILIP P. PRETTO, Manager

This quiet, refined old hotel has been thoroughly renovated and special attention given to make it an attractive eating place. The menu has a variety of excellent good food in the Boston and New York market. Prices are within the reach of all. Theatre parties can get cars going out of town at the door every few minutes. You are cordially invited to try our excellent cooking. Telephone 910 Back Bay for reservations.

The efforts of the Newton Improvement Association to obtain a reduction in the price of gas should also be directed towards securing a better quality, as well. While tests of the gas now being furnished, show that the Company is not below that standard set by the Gas and Electric Light Commission, it is so close to the danger mark, as to cause considerable complaint. It might be well to petition the Commission to raise the standard of quality as well as to lower the price to be paid.

The Newton Board of Trade, which is the result of the formation of the Newton Business Men's Association of last year, begins its work with a strong board of officers and should be able to accomplish considerable good for the city. Work along the lines of increasing the number of desirable residents in this city and to retain the trade among the business men of Newton are the chief aims of the new organization.

Newton Centre

Miss Susan Risteen of Lake avenue is visiting in Washington, D. C.

The Commonwealth Golf Links, near Lake Street, afford fine coasting and tobogganing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Dwinell of Indianapolis are visiting Mrs. Bostock of Sumner street.

Mr. R. M. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill has been elected a director in the Safe Roads Automobile Association.

Mrs. Henry Genaski of 266 Commonwealth avenue spent the week end in Portland with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pool of that city.

Mrs. Norman Frances Pratt has sent out cards for an "Opera Talk" on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at her residence on Grant avenue.

Mr. George C. Warren of Dunster road, Chestnut Hill has been elected a member of the board of managers of the Sons of Revolution of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Edwin P. Wells of Institution avenue entertained her friends Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Eudora S. Utley giving an illustrated talk on Mexico.

Rev. M. A. Levy will speak on "The Divine Supply," at the evening service of the First Baptist Church, next Sunday. The service will be preceded by organ selections at 7.15, and include a song service of minutes.

The Furbur Society of the First Church will meet at the home of Miss Madeline Abbot, 36 Crescent avenue, on Wednesday evening, for more than fifty years Mrs. Levi was a bookkeeper for the firm of Chapin, Trull & Co. of Boston. He is survived by a widow, a son, Mr. Charles W. Levi, and a daughter, Miss Ida J. Levi of this place. Funeral services were held from his late residence on Wednesday afternoon and Rev. George H. Parkinson officiated, the burial being at the Newton Cemetery.

The Parish Gathering of the First Baptist Church was held last Wednesday evening. More than three hundred sat down to an excellent supper prepared by a committee under the leadership of Mrs. E. R. Benton. The after-supper hour was devoted to good fellowship and a program which included stirring addresses by Prof. Richard M. Vaughn, D. D., Mrs. G. D. Pepper, and Mr. William H. Bond. The addresses were interspersed with piano selections by Mr. John Hermann Loud, F. A. G. O., and bass solos by Mr. J. Wesley White. The occasion will be remembered as one of the happiest of recent years.

At the Bible School of the First Church last Sunday, Mr. Charles E. Kelsey paid a feeling tribute to the memory of the late Frank A. Day, stating that it was Mr. Day's generosity which determined the building of a stone instead of a wooden church edifice. Mr. Kelsey also said, "that I have never known a man of more gentle, simple nature, with a passion to use his life, his abundant means and his time for the betterment of all good causes. Few men have had as close connection with all the interests of Newton as Mr. Day, and all Newton will sincerely mourn the loss of one of her really great, really generous, really patriotic citizens."

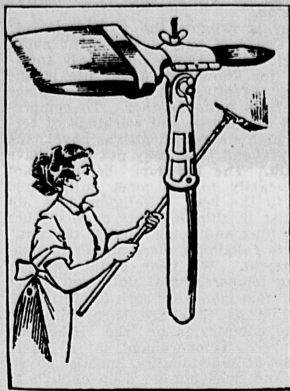

Juvenile Literature.

"What's the trouble with the children's books we issued last year?" asked the publisher. "We made a mistake," said the manager. "In trying too hard to please the children. The way to sell children's books is to get them into a style that will amuse the grown-ups who are spending the money."

BRUSH HOLDER MADE USEFUL

Most Convenient Article, Invented by Illinois Man. Enables Painter to Reach Long Distance.

Painters, janitors, porters, house-maids and heads of families who like to do the painting themselves will find the extension brush holder invented by an Illinois man a most convenient article. It will enable them to reach points that otherwise could be reached only by means of a ladder or by more or less dangerous climbing, and will thus not only save the user trouble, but will eliminate an element of danger. A metal head is made to fit over the end of a pole, which can be as long as is needed for the work to be done. The upper part of the head has a hinged-holding device in which the handle of the brush is placed and held firm by a thumb screw. This holding portion is also hinged to the lower part of the head and adjustable upon it, so that it may be turned at any angle at which it is desired to use the brush and held there by a screw.

NEW TRADES ARE TAKEN UP

Advent of Steel Sleeping Cars Threw Many Wood Workers Out of Jobs at Pullman Shops.

An apt illustration of reduction in the premium on skill required of the industrial worker is found at Pullman by Graham Romeyn Taylor, who writes in the Survey:

"The advent of the steel car threw wood carving, cabinetmaking and many other skilled crafts on the scrap heap and substituted metal work, demanding distinctly shorter training. Steel sleepers were first made about 1907. This year not a single one of wood is being manufactured. Of the ordinary coaches built on contract for railroads about 75 per cent. are steel body and wooden interior finish, 15 per cent. are of steel and only 10 per cent. are of wood. More would probably be made entirely of steel but for the difficulty experienced in heating them.

"When the steel construction began all the older and skilled employees were encouraged to learn the newer trades, and officials say that many of the cabinetmakers readily adapted themselves to the changed conditions, utilizing much of their old skill in the steel cabinet work. But they frankly admit that the great amount of semi-skilled work, such as the assembling, erecting and riveting of the steel cars, has borne hard on the older employees, who cannot 'stand the racket.' Slaves, who 'don't seem to have any nerves,' take these jobs. What this means for the older employees was vividly pointed out by a Dutch tradesman in Roseland, who said that when the steel car work came in about 200 members of the Dutch church he attended left, saying that the change of trades was too much for them."

NOTES OF INDUSTRY AND MECHANICS

It takes the constant labor of 60,000 persons to make matches for the world.

Birmingham is the greatest jewelry manufacturing center of the United Kingdom.

Gas Pipes are being made in France from paper, compressed, dried and varnished.

The largest gold mines in the United States east of the Black Hills are in North Carolina.

The world's silk crop last year, according to French estimates, was the largest ever produced.

A new type of vacuum bottle is so constructed that it can be taken entirely apart for cleaning.

South Dakota broke all previous records for the production of gold, silver and lead last year.

Wood is cut thin enough to be used as a substitute for wall paper by a recently patented process.

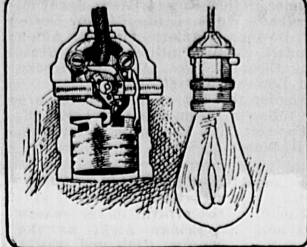

Missouri's coal supply will last 9,000 years, it is estimated, if mining goes on at the present rate of 4,000,000 tons yearly.

An attachment to enable a T-square to be used as a compass to draw circles has been patented by a Connecticut inventor.

ALL PORCELAIN C-H SOCKET

Device is Especially Adapted to Lamp Locations, Such as Basements—Is Readily Installed.

The accompanying cut shows a newly designed, all porcelain, C-H socket constructed for service with heating, cooking and motor driven devices. In fact, the socket is rated to carry 660 watts, somewhat more than the energy required by a six-pound pressing iron. The horizontal switch bar enables the current to be turned on with one hand and without twisting or jerking the socket as with a key, says the Popular Electricity. Pressing the white

All Porcelain Socket.

end of the bar turns on the current, while pressing the black end turns it off.

The socket is especially adapted to lamp locations such as basements, laundries, etc., and can be wiped off with a moist cloth and made to look like new.

The socket is readily installed, as a single screw allows the halves of the casing to be separated, exposing the terminal screws for the drop cord.

Electricity for Drying.

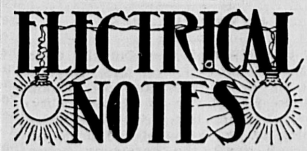

Two applications for electric heating are used in connection with drying work. One is the use of a portable combination heater and fan, ordinarily employed by hairdressers to dry their customer's hair after washing, to dry the ink on tracings. This "wrinkle" shortens the time required to complete the tracing, as the freshly mixed lines must be dry before T-square or triangle can be moved over the tracing. The other idea is to dry blueprints by going over them with an electric flatiron; and the flatiron is also useful to straighten out tracings and prints that have been rolled or folded.

Keeps Target Moving.

An electric attachment for a target such as is used on rifle ranges has been designed by an Australian. It keeps the target continually in motion, backward and forward on the track. The figures are constantly in action, and it is an entirely different proposition to hit once, especially in a vulnerable spot, than if they were stationary. Such a target is particularly good for use in the militia or the regular army, as in the case of war it is not likely that the enemy would stand still until somebody succeeded in shooting them.

Smallest Central Station.

The smallest electric central station in the United States is at Sacramento, Neb., which is operated by a three-horsepower coal-oil engine, and its total load consists of 30 incandescent lamps.

ABOUT OUR ICE

Natural Ice Declared Pure and Germless by Scientists.

New York Daily Tribune Sunday, Sept. 4, 1910.

The advocates of manufactured ice rest their claims for the purity of their product almost entirely on the water used in making it, as compared with the water from which natural ice is cut. They are driven to this, because all the other conditions of treatment of ice are exactly the same whether the ice comes from a factory or from an ice house. Objections to the methods of handling natural ice during its transportation to the city were the outgrowth of ignorance. When the top of natural ice cakes are planned

WEEK-END PARTY

The members of the Supper Dancing club enjoyed a delightful week-end dinner-dance on Saturday at the Wayside Inn. This has become an annual event of the Club, and the entire house had been engaged for the reception of the guests, who arrived motor early Saturday afternoon.

The afternoon was passed in the enjoyment of winter sports, and at 7:30 a elaborate dinner was served. An orchestra was in attendance and furnished music during the dinner, dancing being enjoyed between the courses. The guests were presented with the song books, printed especially for the occasion, which contained several of the most popular songs, and a company was entertained with an informal musical program by the members, which included vocal solos and chorus singing.

The dancing continued until 12 o'clock after which a chafing-dish breakfast was served. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George N. Boyle, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Warren, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dana West.

ANNUAL BANQUET

The annual Banquet of the Newton Teachers Association was held Tuesday evening in the library of the Technical High School.

Although the weather was not all that could be desired, there was a large attendance, fully 250 being present, and the occasion was most delightfully social.

Mr. Charles S. Thomas, head of the English Department, proved a very witty toast-master, and between the dinner speeches, there was singing by a male quartet, and Miss Ruth Milligan, contributed some beautifully rendered soprano solos.

"From Death To Life"

The Rev. E. M. L. Gould will deliver a lecture on the above-named subject on Sunday evening, Jan. 25, at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Highland avenue, Newtonville, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The public is most cordially invited. All seats free and no collection.

Other lectures will follow in the same course.

THE MIKADO

Fine Presentation of Noted Comic Opera by Newton Talent

The performance of the well-known comic opera, the Mikado given this week by Newton amateurs for the benefit of the Players, have aroused the utmost enthusiasm and large audiences were present at Players' Hall, West Newton, on Tuesday and Thursday nights with many more waiting eagerly for those to be held this evening and tomorrow afternoon.

Popular opinion is divided as to giving first place to Mrs. Joseph B. Ross, who takes the part of Yum-Yum or to Mr. Thomas E. Stutson for his admirable characterization of Ko-Ko. Mrs. Ross is captivating everyone with her admirable singing, while Mr. Stutson is simply irresistible as a comedian. Miss Dorothy Seccomb as Pitti Sing, Miss Ruth Stutson as Peep-Bo and Miss Alice Sampson were also well received. Mr. Francis W. Sprague was the Pooh-Bah, Mr. Ralph Somers, the Mikado, Dr. Leslie H. Naylor the excellent work as Nanki-Pai and Messrs. Harold Hambleton and Clinton Kyle were also good in their several parts.

An extra number was the dancing specialty in Russian costume by Miss Pauline Chamberlain of Brookline and Mr. Harold O. Whitney of Watertown.

The show was staged under the direction of Mr. William G. Hambleton. Mr. Hubert W. Pierce of the Hunnewell Club assisted Mr. Hambleton with the acting. Mr. Arthur G. Hosmer was the stage manager.

In the chorus were the Misses Winifred Adams, Miss Dorothy Atkinson, Mary K. Bacon, Ellen S. Brewer, Freda Davis, Ethel Gardner, Gladys V. Glover, Dorothy Hartel, Helen Hartel, Marguerite Hunt, Helen Kuntz, Eleanor Morton, Helen P. Morton, Mabel B. Nichol, Dona Morris, Eunice Newhall, Louise Newhall, Martha T. Rice, Hildegard Shirley, Marian K. Tenney and Messrs. Frank D. Baker, T. Edward Curtis, William A. Dorney, Cyril W. Forbush, Samuel H. Gardner, William Fawcett, Warren Jackson, G. E. Nicholson, H. H. Nicholson, George Toney, Richard D. Warren, George M. Wilson and H. W. Newell.

BOYS' NIGHT

On Thursday evening, January 15, the men's club of the Central Congregational Church, Newton, gave a banquet on which it will act this session. The committee hearings are naturally postponed, for it is the custom to group all bills relating to the same subject, for one hearing, and until all the bills are canvassed, it will be impossible to make much headway.

The Ways and Means committee of which Representative White of Newton is chairman is settling down to work for it must act quickly on appropriation matters in order to provide the necessary funds to keep the state machinery running. This committee meets daily at 10:30 in the morning and with a possible state tax of ten millions, two millions more than last year, its members will find their job no small one.

Governor Walsh showed excellent judgment this week in renominating our fellow citizen, Mr. Edward F. Hamlin as executive secretary. Mr. Hamlin is an authority on matters affecting the State House and, while a Republican himself, will be indispensable to the present administration.

The governor also nominated Mr. Nelson B. Vanderhof of Newton to tabulate the changes in general laws and the Council, on Wednesday confirmed the appointment. Mr. Vanderhof will be remembered as a candidate for school committee a year or so ago, from ward two.

Newton people will also be interested in the hearing held on Wednesday at the Electric Light Commission on the petition of Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for increase in its capital stock. While these matters are usually routine and attract but little public attention, a committee was present from the Newton Improvement Association, headed by Representative Henry E. Bothield as chairman including Messrs. Grosvenor, Callahan, and Charles H. Barney, and President Fred H. Tucker and Secretary Elliott B. Church, to intimate to the Commission that Newton wanted 80 cent gas.

The committee did not oppose the petition for increase of capital stock, but was given the opportunity to tell the Commission what it was there for. While no formal petition has yet been made for this reduction in price, negotiations are now being held by the Company and the committee and it is possible that a voluntary reduction may be made in the near future by the Company.

MASONIC SUNDAY

Dalhousie Lodge Attends Service At the Newtonville Universalist Church

About seventy members of Dalhousie Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons attended divine service last Sunday morning at the Universalist Church, Newtonville, on the invitation of the pastor, Rev. Albert Hammett, who is chaplain of the lodge.

The members assembled at the lodge room at ten o'clock and marched in a body to the church, wearing their aprons and white gloves, and headed by Worshipful Master Fred M. Blanchard and Marshal Frederick M. Mitchell.

A special musical service was rendered by the church quartet and Rev. Mr. Hammett gave an interesting sermon on "Freemasonry, what it stands for, its beginnings and its belief." Mr. Hammett traced the beginnings of free-masonry from the seventh century when builders of Rome formed an organization, to the eleventh century, when stone masons built the magnificent cathedrals, and to 1717 A. D. when the real freemasonry of the present day had its origin and speculative masonry took place of operative masonry. Mr. Hammett said that the belief of freemasonry could be crowded into one sentence "We believe in God and in God like men."

Masons believe in God; they believe in a five fold man, the social man, the pure man, the Democratic man, the charitable man, and finally in the immortal man. He closed with an appeal for the Christian church: "not for my church but for yours. I believe you will all agree with me that the church of Jesus Christ is a bigger and a better thing. It is numerically, numbering about four hundred millions. It is in the nature of the scope of its work. Masonry deals with good men. The church not only with the good, but also with the lowest of the low transforming sinners into saints, dwarfs into giants. Brethren magnify, intensify your love for, your loyalty to the church of Jesus Christ."

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The flood of bills created a new record this year and it will be several weeks before the printers can furnish the Legislature with all the matters on which it will act this session. The committee hearings are naturally postponed, for it is the custom to group all bills relating to the same subject, for one hearing, and until all the bills are canvassed, it will be impossible to make much headway.

The Ways and Means committee of which Representative White of Newton is chairman is settling down to work for it must act quickly on appropriation matters in order to provide the necessary funds to keep the state machinery running. FOR WEST POINT

Congressman John J. Mitchell announces that civil service examination for appointment as cadet at West Point Military Academy will be held at the Secretary of the First Civil Service District, Post Office Building, Boston. Beginning at 9:00 A. M. on Friday, February 27th.

Mr. Mitchell has chosen Boston as the place for holding this examination after advising with the Civil Service Commission, as it is the most convenient and best facilitated for conducting such an examination for candidates all over his district.

The examination is open to all boys actually living in and residents of the new 13th Congressional District, comprising the cities of Boston—Wardens 25 (Brighton-Allston) Marlboro, Newton and Waltham, and the towns of Ashland, Bellingham, Brookline, Dover, Framingham, Franklin, Holliston, Medford, Medway, Millis, Needham, Norfolk, Plainville, Sherborn, Southboro, Sudbury, Walpole, Wayland, Wellesley, Weston and Wrentham. No candidate will be admitted who is under 17 years of age or over 22 years of age at the time of entrance to the Academy, June 14, 1915.

The candidates will be examined on the following subjects: Algebra, Geometry, Grammar, Geography, United States History and General History. This examination is merely for the selection of a candidate and two alternates, and the boys successful in securing the designation will be compelled to pass an entrance examination on the last Tuesday in March. The boy receiving the highest mark in that examination will be admitted to the Academy. In the entrance examination boys will be compelled to undergo a physical examination, but not in the preliminary examination.

The applicant receiving the highest mark in this examination will receive the appointment as principal candidate, and the two next highest will receive appointment as first and second alternate respectively. The appointee will begin his duties at West Point on June 14, 1915, should he successfully pass the entrance examination there.

The first three young men in rank at the mental examination of February 27th, 1914, will be examined by a medical examiner at Boston for the purpose of showing that they will probably be able to pass the physical test as well as the mental. Only those who are able to pass both mental examinations and physical tests will be designated by Congressman Mitchell.

Although Mr. Mitchell expects to appoint applicants in order of qualifications as above indicated, he reserves the right to reject any applicant who in character, temperament or other respect may seem to him to be unfit to make a successful officer in the army. He also reserves the right to modify, as may seem necessary any or all of the foregoing conditions prescribed by him.

The height of the candidates for admission must not be less than 5 feet 4 inches at the age of 17 and not less than 5 feet 5 inches at the age of 18 and upward.

Boys intending to take this examination should at once send their names and addresses to Congressman John J. Mitchell, Washington, D. C., and they will be furnished with cards entitling them to take the examination, this being one of the requirements of the Civil Service Commission.

As to the crop that can be expected in New England, it will vary as widely as other forage crops, but there is the possibility of big crops and many of them. A very conservative estimate is from two to three tons to the acre, and from two to four crops each season. A man in Somerset county, Maine, has a three-acre field of alfalfa, and last season he took off 14 tons in three cuttings—seven tons in July, four tons in August and three tons in September. This is twice the amount of big crops of ordinary hay, and the alfalfa is much better to feed. Alfalfa has 5% more dry matter than timothy, 5% less water, and 3% more ash. Thus it is better for flesh making and bone making. Its food value is 12 cents greater per hundred pounds than timothy, or nearly 19%. So the farmer who is thinking of going into alfalfa may reckon that he can hope to produce about twice as much, in

Discussed At National Prohibition Meeting At Y. M. C. A.

The West Newton Woman's Temperance Union held a well attended meeting Wednesday evening at the Newton Y. M. C. A. in the interests of National Prohibition. Mrs. Nellie B. Rand, presided and prayer was offered by Rev. J. Edwin Lacount of the Newton Methodist Church. The program included singing by a quartet consisting of Misses Eva and Gladys Sanderson, and Messrs. Sidney Clark and Harley Crowell, and solos by Miss Eva Sanderson, reading by Master Robert Sisk of Abundant, the proclamation of Mrs. Stevens, president of the National W.C.T.U. and resolutions pending in the National House of Representatives were read by Mrs. M. Millie Beardsley, reading by Mr. William H. Rand and addresses by Mrs. Ella A. Gleason, state vice president, Rev. M. A. Levy, Rev. H. Grant Person, Rev. J. F. Brant and Mr. Allan C. Emery.

Mrs. Clara E. Birdsall displayed a poster similar to that which will be used in the poster campaign to be started in Newton on Lincoln's Birthday and asked the co-operation of the audience in this movement.

Rev. Mr. Levy said:

A noble cause has called us together. It is one that appeals to a laudable self interest, altruism, and patriotism. We are working to keep life sweet and wholesome. As a means to that end we believe in Prohibition. We believe in abstinence—personal prohibition, in "No License"—community prohibition, and in a saloonless State—constitutional prohibition. The logical thing is constantly to enlarge the unit of prohibition until it is country-wide.

In the meantime there is a battle nearer home. The danger lies in our becoming so presbyopic as to overlook immediate demands, and be unintelligent and indifferent, if not negligent, as to evils at our door. During the "tainted money" discussion of the last decade a popular preacher observed, "It is a good deal easier to hit a sinner at a safe distance than to get at the rascal in your own front pew." It is no less heroic, and may be braver, while we wait for action at Washington, to face the startling conditions that confront us here in Newton. It is the part of loyalty to face and meet them.

We are loyal to Newton, our "Garden City." We have pride in her shaded streets, her schools and churches, her spacious lawns and attractive homes, the public spirit of her people and their efforts for a clean community. Year after year her citizens have decisively, by about a four to one vote, outlawed the saloon. There is no place here for the liquor traffic. This is a "No" stronghold. That fact satisfied us for a long time. Then a startling inconsistency appeared. We turned out the saloon, four to one, and then issued sixth class licenses to a score of drug stores. The revelation bade us rub our eyes. These stores sold in 1911 more than 6000 gallons of liquor, and in 1912 actually reported sales of more than 7000 gallons. It is recent history how this discovery roused the community and led to the campaign of protest that resulted in the abolition of the sixth class license. Newton, to that extent, stands consistent before the other cities and towns of Massachusetts. Her "No" means "No." She will have no saloon business within her walls.

Now there comes another discovery. The abolition of the sixth class license did hardly one thirtieth of the job. The very year that the sixth class sales amounted to 7000 gallons, another agency handled 200000 gallons. The abolition of the sixth class license does not affect this larger business. We voted out the saloon, abolished the drug store traffic, but here is a liquor business of 200000—two hundred thousand gallons, legalized by the city of Newton. It is the "pony express," a saloon business on wheels. This is not an attack on legitimate express companies. It is rather an indignant protest that a covert and illegitimate saloon business should defy the moral sentiment of the community. Against legitimate transportation, even of liquor, we are powerless. But this goes beyond the limits of transportation, there is every indication that it shares in the transaction. The business is in too large degree not carrying and delivering of goods already ordered, bought, paid for, but a securing of unlicensed liquor for later retailing or "peddling out" to a clearly defined constituency. Moreover, such business is of necessity done among the poorer people, who pay a high price for cheap liquor, and are thereby mulcted of an amount exceeding $200000 a year. They, least of all people, can afford this drain upon their meagre incomes. We are interested in each other as neighbors and friends. This situation openly defies every effort at uplift and friendship.

If last year the discovery of the operations of the sixth class license stirred us to action, how much more ought the revelation of conditions of the business of twenty "pony express"es, doing thirty times as much business in liquor, to sting us into doing something. As one citizen, although only one, licensing of this business does not represent me and I protest. Neither does it represent you, or any of the better element in Newton. In the name of decency, of humanity, of God, this condition must be stopped. This is not striking at legitimate express or trespassing on the liberties of any man. It is calling for the abolition of a system that sets at defiance our "No License" vote, and uses the action of our representatives to conduct a traffic of enormous proportions, and for gain defraud and debauch a part of the community.

The time has come for us to demand better things for the city of Newton. We do not want a saloon within walls. We will not have a saloon on wheels. Let us stand up and speak out until we are heard at City Hall, and are rid of this inconsistency of legalizing a bad business already outlawed by our votes.

GREAT SUCCESS

"Midwinter Scream" Given At West Newton This Week

The Young Men's Club of West Newton scored a great success on Tuesday and Thursday nights, with a play entitled "A Mid-Winter Night's Scream" written by the leader of the club, Mr. Sydney A. Clark. Local hits were frequent and never failed to tickle the funny bone of the audience. The first two acts are laid in the club rooms of the Young Men's Club, and the third act is laid outside the "New Congregational Church." As the play was given in the old Congregational Church which is to be superseded within a year or two by the new church, the building of which will commence very soon, there was added interest to this act.

Mr. Howard P. Young, the "leading lady" played the role of "Victoria," daughter of the Russian Czar, and scored a great success. His dancing under the soft glow of the green and blue and red spot lights was very effective. There were various other dances no less effective, though in a different way. Titania, Queen of the fairies and her troupe of assistants, Peaseblossom, Cobweb and Moth brought shouts of laughter by their "fairy dance." Even old black Joe was present and after he got limbered up he produced a lightning clog dance for the entertainment of the Czar who was the guest of the Young Men's Club.

Mr. Douglas Furbush as "Desperate Desmond," with Silk-Hat-Harry as his foil sent cold creeps and shivers into the audience by his bold villainy, and in the second act where the villain kidnaps the sleeping princess and then "cut the book" to see which one shall marry her, the excitement was tense.

POLITICAL NOTES

The Republican city committee will organize this evening at the Newton Club. Mr. Edward A. Thurston, the new chairman of the Republican state committee, Mr. William F. Garcelon, member of the state committee from this district and Representative Geo. H. Ellis will be the guests of the committee.

RETURNS TO NEWTON

Mr. L. N. Whitney Accepts Important Office In Telephone Company

Mr. Lambert N. Whitney, a well-known former resident of this city, has been appointed general commercial superintendent for New England of the Telephone Company and will assume his duties in Boston on February 15th.

Mr. Whitney's education was secured in the Public Schools of Newton, Massachusetts and at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology from which latter institution he graduated in 1896. Very early in life he developed a decided liking for the telephone business for during the years he worked during his summer vacations for the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company as a general utility man at the Newton and Newton Highlands exchanges of that Company. These exchanges are now known as Newton North and Newton South. His general duties at that time were the preparation of reports and clearing trouble during the day time and sleeping in the exchange answering such calls as were made during the night. During this period he had the distinction of placing the first granular button installed in Newton and possibly in the England Company's territory, as it was installed on the residence telephone of Mr. J. N. Keller. After graduating from the Institute in 1896 he immediately took a position with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York. While with this Company he held the positions of Inspector, Chief Inspector, Right-of-Way Agent, Assistant Chief Operator, Chief Operator, Manager and Special Agent to the District Superintendent. In the fall of 1900 he resigned from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to assume the position of Division Superintendent for the Central Union Telephone Company in which position he was in charge of the State of Indiana with headquarters at Indianapolis.

Mr. Whitney's experience in the Telephone business has been varied, he having been actively engaged in practically all branches of the work including Plant, Traffic, Commercial and Executive work. During his connection with the Central Union Telephone Company he was early very prominent in the advocacy and development of the present established policy in connection with the relations with Independent and Connecting Companies. Mr. Whitney together with Mr. T. P. Sylvan and a few others was especially active in the advocacy of the principles and development of an "Universal Service" now almost universally in effect in the State of Indiana; whereby a subscriber may have only one telephone and be able from that telephone to secure connection with all lines irrespective of ownership and thereby be able literally, to talk to "Everybody Everywhere."

MEMORIAL SERVICE

To Be Held At Y. M. C. A. For Mr. Frank A. Day

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Newton Y. M. C. A. on January 19th it was voted to dedicate the building on Thursday evening, February 19th, and in connection with the dedication to hold a memorial service in memory of Mr. Frank A. Day. Friends of the Association have been planning for the last few months the generosity of the late Mr. Frank A. Day and Captain S. Edward Howard, and after the passage in the Legislature of an act to give State aid to vocational schools, such a school was started in the Newton Y. M. C. A. building. The quarters here were soon outgrown and it became necessary to locate the school in the old Jackson school building, with larger equipment and two additional teachers. That building was soon crowded and it became impossible to take in more pupils. At this period the Technical High School was opened and certain courses for boys were started there and a household economics course for the girls. The elementary building at Nonantum was soon outgrown, however, and the courses in the Technical High School, to do the work properly, became pretty expensive and some criticism was heard from City Hall. These two things made it possible to combine the technical and vocational and the elementary division work into one school in the Technical High School building. Of course this required the services of more specialists and more money, but the City is reimbursed for one-half the expense by the State. This last year we received $21,000 reimbursement for carrying on that work. It costs twice as much per pupil as in the Newton Y. M. C. A. High School. The net cost to the City is slightly more than it would be if the pupils were taking the regular courses, but probably 90% of them would not be in school at all, if we did not have the courses, so that the net cost is an increased expenditure in schools.

Mr. Whitney has a very pleasing personality and has always been very popular with his associates in the Telephone business wherever he has been located. His popularity has not been confined to his immediate associates in the Bell Companies but is extended to his exceptionally wide acquaintance among men of affairs, developed in connection with his advocacy of an "Universal Service," who are directly or indirectly interested in the telephone business. He is an indefatigable worker and is at all times loyal to his Company and to his employees as well and his impartial treatment of his employees has everywhere developed a very strong loyalty to himself and to the Company to which fact his continued success is quite largely attributable.

AMHERST CLUB CONCERT

The Amherst Musical Club will give a concert in Bray Hall, Newton Centre, February 21. There will be dancing from 10 until 12.

TO IMPROVE VENTILATION

A special meeting of the School Committee was held Monday afternoon in the Technical High School, and the plan submitted by Public Buildings Commissioner Walter R. Forbush for improving the ventilation system at the Technical High School, calling for the expenditure of $9346, was partially approved. The School Committee will first make a test of the partial improvement suggested by Mr. Forbush, that of installing a dust and shaving extractor at a cost of $900, and the raising of the skylights and sash at a cost of $1300.

Mr. Whitney has a very pleasing personality and has always been very popular with his associates in the Telephone business wherever he has been located. His popularity has not been confined to his immediate associates in the Bell Companies but is extended to his exceptionally wide acquaintance among men of affairs, developed in connection with his advocacy of an "Universal Service," who are directly or indirectly interested in the telephone business. NEWTON SCHOOLS MAKING GOOD

Address Made Before Men's Club At Newton Highlands

The topic of interest before the Men's League of the Congregational Church of Newton Highlands at their meeting on Friday evening, January 23rd, was, "Have the Newton Schools Made Good?" The speakers were Samuel B. Paul, Master of the Mason School of Newton Centre, Michael W. Murray, Head of the Vocational Department of the Technical High School, and Dr. Frank E. Spaulding, Superintendent of Schools.

Mr. Paul briefly outlined the methods of teaching in the Grammar Schools of today, calling attention to the system of special classes for both advanced and deficient pupils.

Mr. Murray spoke on the vocational department work, stating that through the generosity of the late Mr. Frank A. Day and Captain S. Edward Howard, and after the passage in the Legislature of an act to give State aid to vocational schools, such a school was started in the Newton Y. M. C. A. building. The quarters here were soon outgrown and it became necessary to locate the school in the old Jackson school building, with larger equipment and two additional teachers. That building was soon crowded and it became impossible to take in more pupils. At this period the Technical High School was opened and certain courses for boys were started there and a household economics course for the girls. The elementary building at Nonantum was soon outgrown, however, and the courses in the Technical High School, to do the work properly, became pretty expensive and some criticism was heard from City Hall. These two things made it possible to combine the technical and vocational and the elementary division work into one school in the Technical High School building. Of course this required the services of more specialists and more money, but the City is reimbursed for one-half the expense by the State. This last year we received $21,000 reimbursement for carrying on that work. It costs twice as much per pupil as in the Newton Y. M. C. A. High School. The net cost to the City is slightly more than it would be if the pupils were taking the regular courses, but probably 90% of them would not be in school at all, if we did not have the courses, so that the net cost is an increased expenditure in schools.

But I wish to maintain that that boy and girl, just as much as the one who elected their own courses, that is the kind of secondary instruction as the boy or girl going to college. A little over a year ago I had the privilege of making a special study on this subject for the Legislature, and one of the things I got out of the study was the need of trained men, who are to be the future leaders of the manufacturing industries. It is one of the aims of this school to impress upon every one of these boys and girls from 14 up, the necessity of getting the best possible education, and at the same time make it possible for them to go out and take the leading places in business and industry. Another thing I got from my study, is that most of the men who are occupying the leading positions in the manufacturing world today are not college men, but men who have grown up in their particular lines of business, men, who like many of our students rebel against a certain kind of book work. I remember a gentleman, the head of a textile mill, under 35 years of age, who is drawing a salary of $9,000 a year. That man left school when only 12 and educated himself in the textile business. It is next to impossible to do that today and the boys and girls have got to get that kind of work in the public schools. We have in our school two classes or groups, those who will probably never be more than the wage earners, and those who will be the leaders in their particular lines. These people are divided into different classes and all these classes are so small that the pupils can get ahead very rapidly. You will find in our evening schools, courses for men and women in typewriting, bookkeeping and stenography. You will find courses in shop work, printing, architectural and mechanical drawing, cooking, dressmaking, etc. All these are to be considered a part of our vocational school. We divide this school into two parts, one for girls and one for boys, because we make special studies for both classes, that is for girls, we have courses in the household arts, cooking, sewing, millinery, home nursing, and all the practical activities of the home. For the boys there are different mechanical courses, and this last year for the first time the boys elected their own courses, that is the course they were to follow for the next four years or whatever length of time they were to be in school. They may take pattern making, wood working, printing, electrical or various other courses. In any one of these they spend three hours a day on shop practice, and the other three hours are spent on book work and drawing. It is very difficult in a school of this kind to get teachers. We have to train in a way our own teachers. Teachers of shop work have to be first-class mechanics and have to be able to teach also, and deal with boys. Take

JUST TO MAKE YOU THINK

UNSEXED

It doesn't unsex her to toil in a factory Minding the looms from the dawn
till the night;
To deal with a schoolful of children refractory
Doesn't unsex her in anyone's sight;
Work in a store—where her back aches inhumanly—Doesn't unsex her at all, you will note,
But think how exceedingly rough and
unwomanly Woman would be if she happened to vote!To sweat in a laundry that's torrid and torrid
Doesn't subtract from her womanly charm;
And scrubbing the flags in an echoing corridor Doesn't unsex her—so where is the harm?
It doesn't unsex her to nurse us with bravery,
Loosing death's hand from its grip
on the throat;
But ah! how the voices grow quivery,
quavery,
Wailing: "Alas, 'twill unsex her to vote!"She's feminine still when she juggles
the crockery,
Bringing you blithely the order you give;
Toil in a sweatshop where life is a mockery
Just for the pittance on which she can live—
That doesn't seem to unsex her a particle,
"Labor is noble"—so somebody wrote—
But ballots are known as a dangerous
article,
Woman's unsexed if you give her the vote!

and the high three string total of 325.
The match was rolled last evening on the Hanover Street alleys, Boston.

POLICE NOTES

By the arrest of James A. Shaw, 17 of 27 Cherry street, Boston, and Daniel C. Ryan of 5 Hanson street, Boston, late last night by the Newton Police,
it is believed that several breaks which have occurred in this city will be cleaned up. In the Police Court this morning before Judge W. F. Bacon both young men entered a plea of not guilty to the charges of breaking and entering and larceny from the Brae Burn Country Club, West Newton, and larceny from the building of the Newton Catholic Club, and they were held in $1500 until next Monday.Ryan formerly worked at the Brae Burn Club, and although he was suspected by the club officials of stealing articles of clothing and other goods from the club, the detectives which followed him closely were unable to obtain any trace of his wrong doings.Daniel Keefe, an employee of the Brae Burn Club and a member of the Newton Catholic Club, took an active part in the arrest of the men.While a majority of the members were on the bowling alleys last night
the two men entered the building, and took two overcoats the property of John and Michael O'Halloran, from the room on the left of the entrance, and a new basketball from the room across the hall. They were about to leave the building but Mr. Keefe saw them, and held Ryan until Joseph Edwards, the club secretary arrived.Ryan was kept in the building, while Mr. Edwards started in search of his companion, who had already left the building.Patrolman Daniel McLaughlin was outside the club when Mr. Edwards pointed out Shaw to him, who was some distance away. He was captured and with his companion taken to headquarters. Before Lieut. Soule and Sergeant Kite both men admitted breaks into the Brae Burn Club, and a complaint was sworn out for Edward W.
Brown, which name was given when a pony coat which was stolen on the night of Jan. 16, was pawned in Boston.During the night both men changed their minds and pleaded not guilty before the court.They also admitted to the police that previous to visiting the Catholic Club,
they entered the Brae Burn Club.
Ryan still having a key to the back door in his possession, and were just about to enter a closet where the cigars and other articles are stored
but they were frightened away. Since Nov. 12, several articles have been stolen from the club, Ryan having been discharged on that day, and the police will put the two through the third degree today in an effort to get more facts in the case.

MAKE THE KITCHEN PRETTY

No Reason Why Most-Used Room in House Should Be Allowed to Look Neglected.A woman who believes that a kitchen should be a pretty room wonders why most people do not hold the same opinion.Of original tastes, she has devised this scheme of color and decoration for her kitchen. The walls she has had painted a bright sunny yellow,
the woodwork and chairs a deep Russian blue, the color of the pattern in her kitchen crockery and the corner pattern of her white tiled stove, which has a shining metal top."We are slaves to the view that a stove must be black and ugly," she says. "I got rid of this view in a visit to Holland, where I bought my pretty stove."The windows of her kitchen are hung with sash curtains made of glass towelings banded in blue. At the center of their sills a little square bracket shelf has been attached, upon which stands a gay geranium.

MAKE HOUSEHOLD WORK EASY

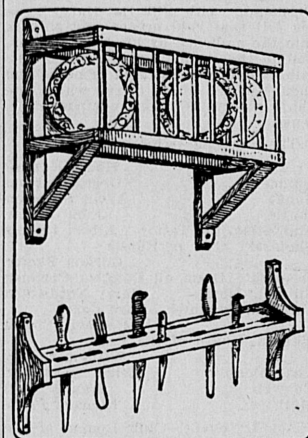

Main Thing is to Have the Articles
Most Required Always Convenient for Use.Sometimes it is the very little things, the things that appear most insignificant, that count for most in the making of household duties easy. To have things handy, right where they are within easy reach, is one of the things that should be the aim of every woman who must use certain utensils
at every meal time.A clever woman has devised a plan
by which she avoids drying the plates.
Over the sink rack, high enough so it will not interfere with anyone, has

Plate Cage and Knife Rack.

been built a plate cage, just a skeleton affair of chestnut, that has been stained to match the woodwork in the kitchen. The plates are slipped in between bars that permit them to stand upright, and as soon as they are washed and rinsed, they are placed in the cage where they drain and dry.
This shortens the time of "doing" the dishes considerably. She tells me that other "cages" are to be made for other pieces of china that will help in the dish-washing problem.If you have a rack in which the knives, forks, and spoons that are in daily use can be slipped, and place up over the kitchen table, you will wonder how you ever could get along when they were stowed away in the dresser drawer. Three strips of one-half inch chestnut lumber, have square holes cut in them at intervals, and then they are glued together so that the holes will be opposite. These are screwed to shaped ends that in turn are fastened to the wall, and the knives, etc., are slipped in their place
as soon as they come from the dish pan. One one-half inch chestnut or oak board with auger holes bored into it will do as well.

Bran Bread.

Set a soft sponge at night as for white bread; in the morning take two cups of bran, moisten well with cold water, and let it boil for twenty minutes. When luke-warm add this to two cups of the white sponge; also add one-half cup of molasses, one cup of raisins, two tablespoonsful of lard, and salt unless the white sponge has already been salted. Mix stiff with white flour and knead as you would white bread. When light place in pans and raise to double its bulk;
bake one hour.

Apples for Luncheon.

Put a tumbler of water on three-fourths of a tumbler of sugar in porcelain dish with the strained juice of one lemon. Boil gently 20 minutes. While this is cooking take six medium-sized sour apples, wipe, leave stems on and put into boiling syrup. Cook until you can pierce them with a straw, then lift carefully into a pretty dish or individual dishes, pour the syrup over them and set away to cool. Serve with a tablespoon of whipped cream on top.

To Set Colors.

To set colors in laundering, pink,
green, aniline reds, lavender, purple,
should be set in water containing dissolved alum, two ounces to a tub.
Dark blue, gray and black may be set by soaking them in salt water.

To Crisp Cereals.

I find an easy way to crisp the uncooked, ready-to-eat cereals is to place
the amount required for one serving in an ordinary cornpopper and shake for a few minutes over a hot stove or lighted oil stove.

YOUNG MUSICIAN'S CLUB

The regular meeting of the Young Musician's Club was held Saturday afternoon at the Club rooms on Bowery street.

Miss Eleanor Frail, the president, opened the meeting, and the roll call was answered by each member, with a quotation from some famous composer.

The pupils of Miss Helen Douglas are writing a magazine called the Musical Mosaic, and Miss Gertrude Barry, the editor, reported that the magazine will be issued February 10th.

At the close of the business meeting, a very interesting program of 20 numbers was rendered by some of the members, which included several papers on composers whose compositions were played.

The piano solos by Miss Mary Barry, Miss Rose Heisler, Miss Katharine Baker, Miss Eleanor Leighton, Miss Gertrude Barry, elicited much merited applause. Miss Ruth Parlin transposed a piece into other keys, and a duo from Rossini's "Stabat Mater," by Miss Eleanor Frail and Miss Hazel Cunningham, and Rubinstein's "Melody in F" by Miss Eleanor Frail, with violin obligato by Miss Ethel Frail, were greatly enjoyed by the audience, which included the parents and friends of the members.

KNIGHTS' TEMPLAR INSPECTION

The annual inspection of Gethsemane Commandery K. T. took place Tuesday evening at Masonic hall, Newtonville. Grand Generalissimo Frederick L. Dana, being the inspecting officer. The conclave was remarkable for the array of past grand commanders, the inspecting officer having three with him and meeting one connected with the local command. Preceding the ceremonies in the asylum there was a banquet.

Acting Capt. Gen. C. W. Henderson Jr., had charge of the lines. Adj. A. E. Billings was in command of the escort of 30 that led in procession to the hall. Grand Generalissimo Dana delivered an address, then was presented a bouquet, as was Acting Grand Warden Potter.

DINNER DANCE

In the small ball-room at the Copley-Plaza, with its beautiful rose-colored brocade draperies and gilt decorations, the members of the Supper Dancing Club assembled on Wednesday evening to enjoy another of the delightful dinner-dances that are becoming so popular with the Club.

"The dinner was served to about 90 guests and the table was decorated with exquisite baskets of pink roses twined with pale blue satin ribbons, and loose roses were strewn with careless effect over the table."

The Salem Cadet Band was in attendance and furnished an exceptionally fine program for the dancing.

During the evening coffee was served at small tables screened off in the corridors, and punch and cordials were served in the Georgian room, adjoining the ball-room.

The gowns worn by the ladies were unusually handsome and elaborate and the dance order included the latest and most popular of the season's dances.

The hostesses were Mrs. Harry L. Ayer of West Newton, Mrs. Harry Dana Priest of Auburndale, Mrs. Prescott Warren of Newton, and Mrs. George Walker of Newton Centre. Mrs. Ayer was gowned in yellow and gold brocade with silver lace; Mrs. Priest wore white lace over blue tulle; Mrs. Warren was attired in burnt orange satin with white lace, and fur trimmings and Mrs. Walker wore a gown of black charmeuse.

The dancing continued until midnight, after which a chafing-dish breakfast was served.

RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Luke Walker entertained at a charmingly appointed reception on Monday evening at their residence on Elm road, Newtonville.

The entire lower floor was beautifully decorated for the occasion. American Beauty roses and ferns were attractively arranged in the dining-room and music room and in the library, where the wedding presents were displayed, the decorative scheme was pink.

The servers were Miss Packard and Miss Harding, who were Mrs. Walker's attendants at her wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker received from 8 until 10, and were assisted by Rev. Robert Walker and Mrs. Walker of Concord, and Mr. Herbert Clarke of Waltham.

Mrs. Albert Luke Walker wore her wedding gown of ivory white satin, and carried a bouquet of violets and orchids, and Mrs. Robert Walker was gowned in coral pink silk.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walker were about 200 were present from Boston, Brookline, Waltham, Concord, and the Newtons.

Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. William Otis Hunt, Rev. and Mrs. John Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. James Richard Carter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. FAREWELL TO DR. STOCKING

Rev. Jay T. Stocking preached his farewell sermon Sunday at Central Church to a very large congregation.

Mr. Stocking has been associated with the church for the past eight years and leaves to accept the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Washington, D. C. At the close of the service Mr. Stocking was presented with a testimonial bearing the inscription "Greetings and Friendship from the Church, to Mr. and Mrs. Stocking, printed on parchment and bound in leather. Mr. Stocking was also presented with a check, and with a loving-cup from the members of the Neotes Club, Knights of King Arthur and Queens of Avillors.

The council of dismission held a meeting Monday evening in the church parlors.

Before the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Stocking on Wednesday the ladies of Central Church presented Mrs. Stocking with a very handsome sapphire ring set with diamonds, as a token of their love and esteem. It was planned as a surprise and Mrs. Stocking was requested not to open the package until the train on which she was going had started.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

Next Tuesday will be observed as Neighborhood Night with an entertainment by C. Charles C. Gorst, the Bird man, followed by dancing.

There were thirteen tables in play at the ladies' matinee whist on Wednesday, the prizes being awarded to Mrs. Edward M. Moore, Mrs. E. M. Elwell, Mrs. Hoch and Mrs. Joseph Smith. Mrs. J. D. Crawford was in charge and Mrs. C. L. Pearson and Mrs. Wm. H. Bliss poured and Mrs. A. C. Cummings, Mrs. George Owen and Mrs. Joseph Smith served frappe.

The Executive committee of the Hunnewell Club has passed the following vote of thanks,

"In behalf of all members of the Hunnewell Club and their invited guests, we wish to express to you and to your brother the thanks and deep appreciation of all for your kindness and courtesy in giving us the privilege of listening with so much pleasure on Thursday evening, to four artists of such musical ability. Stanley Hall was never more happily filled, and everyone present had words of praise and thanks for a most enjoyable program."

Love.

I am inclined to believe that for a woman love is the supreme authority—that which judges the rest and decides what is good or evil. For a man, love is subordinate to right. It is a great passion, but it is not the source of order, the synonym of reason, the criterion of excellence. It would seem, then, that a woman placed her ideal in the perfection of love and a man in the perfection of justice.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

VARIOUS FOOD VALUES

IMPORTANT MATTER UNDERSTOOD BY HOUSEKEEPER.

Dishes Served at Family Table Should Be Constitution Builders as Well as Palatable—Sweets Have a Definite Purpose.

The average housekeeper selects her food in a very careless manner. She buys coal and wood for the heat they provide and fabrics for their durability, but she gives very little thought to the efficiency of foodstuffs. She merely gets what is liked and what happens to be in the market and is easily persuaded.

It is certain that in years to come, when housekeeping, or "domestic science," has taken the high position toward which it is gradually moving, each housekeeper will be compelled to have her little volume on "Food Values" on the shelf with her book of recipes, and she will consult it even more frequently than she does the other books, because she will have been taught that the importance of food lies in its energy-giving properties.

But until that time comes we must struggle along ourselves and look at the buying and cooking of foods from a readjusted point of view—one which includes the value they have as constitution builders as well as their palatable qualifications.

We must teach ourselves to choose foods wisely, regarding rather the essentials than the nonessentials, and to use discrimination in the processes of preparing them.

Say that we need so many thousand units to live and work. Well, then, our food, properly chosen and prepared, should help to supply the necessary units. You cannot make bricks without straw or bread without flour or energy without the fuel to provide it.

It would be impossible to go deeply into the food-value question in a short talk, but there is one essential which must be mentioned because of the change of view regarding it.

When we were all children we were given sweets only as a sort of reward for having eaten the plainer foods. Sweets were not looked upon as necessary, but rather as verging on the injurious.

Now we have learned that sweets, far from being harmful, are beneficial and productive of energy.

There are so many health-giving constituents in the ordinary pudding that it is far more advisable for the dessert of the average child than rich pies or pastries. Almost all puddings require eggs and milk, and these add a goodly number of units to the column.

There are also many delicious fruit puddings which contain many more strengthening elements than the plain fruit itself. And yet a decade of years ago the pudding would have been dealt out to the younger members of the family with a sparing and grudging hand, while they might have partaken freely of the fruit itself.

Mothers are now beginning to realize the possibilities of desserts as strength-giving factors in their children's lives.

Frozen Custard With Almonds.

Heat one quart of milk in double boiler. Add to this four well-beaten eggs. Stir constantly with wire egg beater until this thickens. Sweeten to taste and set aside to cool.

Take one pound of almonds, shell and blanch. Spread over a pan, add one teaspoonful of olive oil, place in a hot oven and allow them to get very brown. Cool and then put through a meat chopper. Add to custard also one-half teaspoonful of almond extract. When the custard is quite cold, freeze.

Baked Sweet Potatoes.

Boil the potatoes until barely done, then skin them and cut in half inch slices. Fill a deep baking dish with alternate layers of the potatoes, bits of butter and a sprinkling of sugar. Bake in a moderate oven until the butter and sugar form a rich syrup, in which the potatoes cook until they look almost clear; then allow them to brown.

Prune Custard Pudding.

Stew ½ pound of prunes in water to cover until the stones will slip out easily. Let the sirup boil away. Soak 1 pint of dried cake in 1 quart of milk. Add 2 beaten eggs, a little salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla and the stewed prunes. Bake slowly until a knife will come out clean. Stir at night to prevent fruit from setting. Serve with cream.

Potato and Cheese Loaf.

Take hot mashed potatoes moistened with milk and seasoned with pepper and salt; stir in one beaten egg to a pint of the potatoes, turn into a buttered loaf tin and cover with one-half inch layer of grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until the potatoes are light, and the cheese melted and brown.

Dark Nut Cake.

One cupful sugar, one-half cupful butter, one and one-half cupfuls milk, two cupfuls flour, one teaspoonful cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful soda, two spoonfuls molasses, two eggs, cinnamon, nutmeg and one cupful chopped walnuts.

Sailie Lunn.

One-half cup butter, two tablespoons sugar, two eggs, an even teaspoon of salt, two cups flour, one cup milk, two teaspoons baking powder. Bake 20 minutes in loaf, in bread pan.

VARIETIES OF MUTTON

MEAT NEED NEVER BECOME AN UNWELCOME MEAL.

So Many Ways of Serving It That It Will Always Be Appetizing—Some of These Recipes May Be Appreciated.

Haricot of Mutton—Two tablespoons butter or drippings, two tablespoons chopped onion, 1½ pounds lean mutton cut into two-inch pieces, two cups water, salt and pepper, lima beans, chopped parsley.

Fry the onion in the butter, remove the onion, add the meat and brown; cover with water and cook until the meat is tender. Serve with a border of lima beans, seasoned with salt, pepper, butter and a little chopped parsley. Fresh, canned, dried or evaporated lima beans may be used in making this dish.

Stewed Sheep's Hearts—Two sheep's hearts, two ounces fat salt pork, two tablespoons minced onion, two tablespoons flour, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, 1½ pints boiling water, salt.

Split and wash the hearts, season them with the salt and pepper, and roll them in the flour. Fry out the pork and add the onion to the pork fat and cook them ten minutes. At the end of that time remove the pork and onion to a stewpan and fry the hearts in the fat. Transfer hearts to the stewpan. Rinse the frying pan with the water, which should then be poured over the hearts. Use the flour that remains after the hearts are rolled to thicken the broth.

Boiled Mutton With Oyster—Four pounds mutton from the shoulder, one onion, one pint oysters, salt.

Bone the mutton and stuff with half the oysters, or make a gash in the meat near the bone and insert half the oysters and tie into shape. Half cover the meat with water and cook in a closely covered dish for two hours. With the remaining oysters make the following sauce:

Oyster Sauce—Two tablespoons butter or mutton fat, one tablespoon flour, one-half pint oysters, one-half of the liquid in which the mutton has been boiled.

Drain the oysters, drain heat and strain the liquor. Wash the oysters, add them to the hot oyster liquor and cook until they are plump. Remove the oysters and keep warm while making a sauce of the butter, flour, oyster liquor, and season with salt and pepper.

Steamed Mutton—Small pieces of mutton may be very satisfactorily prepared by covering the surface with powdered or finely chopped seasonings, as suggested in the foregoing recipe, and steaming it, or it may be steamed without seasonings.

Duck, Braised With Turnips.

Prepare a duck as for roasting. Line a small pan just large enough for the duck with slices of bacon, strewn over the bottom a little parsley, onions and lemon peel. Lay in the duck, add a carrot cut into strips, an onion, stuck with three cloves, season with pepper and cover with stock broth and a glass of white wine. Turn occasionally and simmer an hour or until done. Fry some slices of turnip in butter to a light brown, drain and add them to the stewpan, after removing the duck, which should be kept hot. When the turnips are tender, remove them and strain the gravy, thickening if necessary with a little flour. Put the duck on a dish, pour the hot gravy over it, and garnish with the turnips. Fry the turnips eight or ten minutes. Sufficient for five persons.

Unbaked Fruit Cake.

Take equal parts by weight, English walnuts, Brazil nuts or a mixture: Dates and figs (if preferred substitute raisins for figs). Put through the food chopper. Grease bowl or square cornered granite pan with butter, press this mixture down hard and let stand over night then turn out and slice cake.

Also:—Two cups of stoned and chopped dates, one cup chopped English walnuts, mix thoroughly, and press in same way. If liked add one-half cup chopped raisins.

Cucumber Pickles.

Plain little green cucumbers can be pickled like this: Wash and dry a hundred of them and put them in jars. Cover with a brine strong enough to bear an egg for 24 hours. Take from brine, wipe dry and put in clean jars. Cover with hot vinegar in which an onion, 12 whole cloves, three blades of mace and an ounce of mustard seed have been boiled.

Maple Sugar Cookies.

One cup of sugar, one cup of maple sugar finely shaved, one cup of butter, two well-beaten eggs, two tablespoons of water, two teaspoons of baking powder, and sufficient flour to roll. Bake in a quick oven. These cookies are especially nice when sprinkled with a layer of chopped nuts before baking.

Steamed Brown Bread.

One cup sweet milk, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, one and one-half cup molasses, one-half cup flour, pinch of salt, one-half cup raisins if desired. Steam three hours. This is delicious either hot or cold.

Potato Dumplings.

Two cups hot mashed potatoes, butter size of an egg, two eggs, four tablespoons of chicken or other stock, three tablespoons of sweet milk; add a pinch of salt, beat well and add enough flour to stiffen.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Mr. Frank W. Chase, Master of Bigelow School Believes in Conservation

During the past decade conservation has been the keynote of many a campaign—political and otherwise. Our national resources have received the careful attention of statesmen and scholars. Reclamation of desert territory of the West has increased land values more than $105,000,000. Along the irrigation canals cheap electricity has enabled the farmer, far removed from the centers of community life, to enjoy all the benefits of modern heating and lighting.

Large sections of forests have passed under the control of the government. Our public parks of the West and our White Mountain reservations have been saved from the vandalism of the woodsman, and resulting climatic devastations. Thousands of acres of coal areas are regulated and leased by the Federal Government.

The control of our rivers, whereby vast regions of rich land are freed from the periodic overflow and the tides of Niagara and the "Father of Waters" are being harnessed to distribute manufacturing, lighting and motive power to widely distant points. Last but not least in this list of benefits to the race, may be the Federal Health Service which aims at bringing about better conditions of life, thereby lowering the per cent. of preventable diseases and deaths.

Our immediate problem is, however, a local, but none the less a difficult one. How shall we conserve the physical, the mental, and the spiritual life of our boys and girls? I assume that I am addressing those who are most intimately concerned in this question—the mothers of the children. I am sure, therefore, if I may chance to say some things with which you do not wholly agree, I may yet claim your indulgence in discussing this question of mutual interest.

Readers of a popular magazine of wide circulation, have recently been treated to severe criticisms of the public schools. With an experience of more than twenty-five years as a teacher in district, high and elementary grades, I am persuaded that with all their faults and imperfections, in the public schools largely lies the future safety of the Republic. The public school touches and influences more vitally the lives of the large majority of the children of Newton.

How are these children affected physically, mentally and spiritually through their training? Society has decreed that the school must be paternal. Modern life, particularly in our urban communities, has handed over to the school many of those duties which belong to the home. The health of the child must be a matter of concern to the teacher. A sound mind presupposes a sound body. It is of prime importance that the sight of the child must be conserved by use of good, legible print, proper light, freedom from eye strain, with periods of frequent rest and frequent examinations.

The laws of Massachusetts require that the eyes of every pupil shall be examined, and defects in vision be reported to the parent with the recommendation that an oculist be consulted. Some years ago, a pupil came to us from the Parochial School. She seemed unusually stupid and it was several weeks before I discovered that she could not see the work on the board. Notice was sent to the father that the girl needed glasses, but some time elapsed before I could persuade her to wear them, and then only under threat of non-promotion. Her excuse was that glasses were unbecoming to her.

The ears also demand and receive attention. Many pupils fail to do good work because of inability to hear distinctly. Enlarged tonsils, adenoids and other growths affecting the general health of children are reported and their removal or treatment advised. Children who have been absent from school on account of illness are upon their return, referred to the school physician. General lessons in hygiene are required and nails, hands, hair, and teeth are subject to weekly inspection by the school nurse. The latter visits the homes of the poorer classes, advises the mothers in regard to the treatment of children's diseases, and takes children needing treatment to hospitals and infirmaries.

A clinic for malformation of the spine and other bones of the body has been established at the Newton Hospital. Just recently a dental clinic at Newtonville has been opened. Poor children may have the benefit of these on the payment of a small fee.

No child excluded from school on account of contagious disease is allowed to return without a permit from the Board of Health, and all children must present certificates of vaccination, satisfactory to the medical inspector.

Individual towels are prescribed by law; the common drinking cup has been abolished and pupils are constantly counseled against putting pencils, pens or fingers in the mouth.

Briefly, what is being done for the mental training of the children?

Boys in the seventh and eighth grades have sloyd while the girls are having sewing. Some boys volunteer to come back Tuesday afternoon for extra work. Individual pupils and groups of pupils are receiving special instruction in various branches.

Our plan is to allow each pupil to advance as fast as his natural ability and his evidence of work will admit. Pupils who show aptitude for superior work are promoted at any time during the year. Classes are divided approximately into divisions, according to their relative standing.

Boys over 14 years of age who have very little scholastic promise are advised to go to the Independent Industrial School where one-half to two-thirds of the time is devoted to wood-working, printing, electricity, pattern-making, and sheet-iron work.

Those who are far below the average in mentality are urged to enter the school for mentally deficient children, under the instruction of special teachers.

This segregation places pupils in schools where they may have opportunities to learn how to do that kind of work which most of them must do when they are through school, and also removes a drag from the regular classes.

Some children find great difficulty in completing the regular grade work and often fail of promotion. Boys of 15 years and girls of 14 years may now have the privilege of going to the High School in the Transfer Class and taking courses—the boys in shop work and the girls in Household Economics—thus fitting them for future self-support and usefulness.

For younger children who remain in Newton during the summer, there is the Vacation School, where wood-work, basketry, weaving, etc., keep many children off the streets.

The school and home gardens in this district, largely under the direction of the Social Science Club, have been means of interesting many children in a healthful occupation during out of school hours, and through the summer vacation. Larger numbers ought to plant gardens.

I have mentioned only a few activities whereby the school is attempting to educate the child. By all means the physical development must be attended to. The mental phase has received the combined wisdom of ancient and modern thinkers. Nor can these two be separated, with the best results to either—they must go hand in hand. But were I to stop here, I should feel that our time were well high wasted. The moral and spiritual development rests to a large extent on the physical and mental. It is difficult to analyze them into their component parts, but I am convinced that the man with the finest physique and keenest intellect, if he were wholly devoid of the moral sense, would not be your ideal as an example of manhood for your sons to imitate.

The founders of our Commonwealth, looking with clear vision into the future, inserted in our Constitution, this section:

The president, professors and tutors of the university at Cambridge and of the several colleges, all preceptors and teachers of academies and all other instructors of youth shall exert their best endeavors to impress on the minds of children and youth committed to their care and instruction, the principles of piety and justice and a sacred regard for truth, love of their country, humanity, and universal benevolence, sobriety, industry and frugality, chastity, moderation and temperance, and those other virtues which are the ornament of human society and the basis upon which a republican constitution is founded; and they shall endeavor to lead their pupils as their ages and capacities will admit, into a clear understanding of the tendency of the above-mentioned virtues to preserve and perfect a republican constitution and secure the blessings of liberty as well as to promote their future happiness, and also to point out to them the evil tendency of the opposite vices.

The school, while reaching up to the ideal, has failed in attaining its highest efficiency in each part of its three-fold problem. This failure is due to causes both within and without. The pupils of the Bigelow School sadly need a playground near at hand, under an instructor at, and during the hours of the day, to maintain order and supervise the games. Farlow Park should be reserved for the Underwood children. The street sides of our Bigelow grounds ought to be kept in first class condition, not only for the sake of their beauty, but also as an incentive to a more loyal school spirit, and a higher regard for the school property.

When these things are introduced into the schools, many educators and parents thought that it would solve the problem of the bad boy. It undoubtedly aided, but the problem remained.

We are just now in the midst of the vocational and industrial solution of the same question, and while many will be immeasurably benefited thereby, the problem will still remain in a modified form.

Most of all, the school needs the help of the home. Here, I believe, lies the true solution and here can be done the most effective home missionary work.

In few communities are there such cordial relations between home and school, as obtain here in the Bigelow District. The parents expect their children to have as good opportunities educationally, both in equipment and instruction, as their environment in Newton would seem to demand.

Rarely have I experienced other than respectful and hearty co-operation on the part of parents, and where differences of opinion or misunderstandings have arisen, with few exceptions, the difficulties have been satisfactorily adjusted. Parents have often made valuable suggestions for the good of the whole school—and I know every teacher in this district gladly welcomes helpful and constructive criticism. Therefore, I believe it is the duty of every parent to inform the teacher, as early in the school life of the pupil as possible of any physical or mental defects which may interfere with the school work. Much trouble and loss of time may thereby be avoided.

Parents should carefully control the amusements of their children. The activities of modern American life make great demands upon the physical and nervous systems of the individuals. Men harassed with the strenuous duties of business life call for something to divert their minds from the daily grind. Homekeepers must have some kind of amusement. Nor are the children content with the simple childlike amusements of bygone years but must vie with their parents in the complexities of social life. Private theatricals, evening dances, evening theatre parties, moving pictures, girls' clubs, and other forms of entertainment demand late hours, a consequent loss of sleep and undue nervous excitement. Often this is followed by absence from school of one or more sessions, and in any case, the pupil is scarcely fitted, physically or mentally, for school duties.

Now, if this were an occasional matter, there would be little objection, but your daughter's birthday may fall on a Wednesday afternoon. She must have a party, inviting her intimate friends and there may be several vacant seats in school. Other parties follow and when the principal or teachers, having in mind the attendance laws and the work needing to be done to ensure promotion, protest such absence, the feelings of the children are often much disturbed.

A high school girl remarked to her mother, "But, mamma, I don't have one minute to myself"—a statement easily proved should one look into that child's daily routine outside the school-room. Many children in the lower grades approximate that condition.

Chap. 5, Section 17 of the School Rules says: Pupils shall be required to attend school regularly and punctually. Pupils not in their seats at the time of opening shall be marked tardy, and any pupil who is frequently tardy without adequate excuse shall be suitably warned and reported to the parent or guardian, and if the evil be not corrected, shall be suspended from school until the parent or guardian shall give satisfactory assurance to the superintendent that the irregularity shall be corrected.

Right here the home can help the school more than it does—in teaching practical lessons of regular and prompt attention to business. School is the child's business. Children unfitted to be in school on account of illness have the best of reasons for non attendance, but it seems to us teachers that with a Saturday holiday and two half-days of during the other five there should be ample time found for all necessary outside interests. Indeed, it is the common experience of teachers that, except for sickness, the pupils who stand highest in their classes feel that they can least afford to lose any time. Most of the absences and tardiness are caused by comparatively few pupils.

Were you a principal, what would you do on receiving a note from a parent, whose son had been closely questioned by his teacher as to the cause of tardiness, saying that "neither you nor your subordinates have any business to pry into my private affairs?" Several years later, the father begged that the boy should not be dropped from our rolls.

Or again if you had advised a mother whose daughter had been absent from school and after several days of reported illness was known to be walking the streets with young men of loose morals, would a note from the parent saying "that was not much to make such a fuss about" encourage you to repeat your warning?

Supt. Horn says that "So long as homes are different, children will be different. The moral training received in the home affects the child's moral capacity just as the intellectual training affects his mental capacity. No scheme of education is complete which does not take into consideration the home life of the child.

We heard a few weeks ago in this church that the child passes through the same stages that the human race has passed. In his early years, he is a savage and from ten to fourteen, a barbarian. I believe it is all wrong if we think he must do unkind and cruel things during these periods, and we do wrong if we teach that these tendencies are too strong to be overcome. There need be no period of sowing "Wild Oats." Prof. Rauschenbush says that "the mother who is rearing a family has all the social problems, in miniature, in her own home, and may be excused from public service."

Character must be the basis—the foundation in any plan of education. We are putting things enough into the head of the child. Is his heart being rightly educated? There must be a strong moral fibre interwoven into our product of the school. Many of us hear our lamented and dearly loved Mr. Savin, during the year and a half your children were housed in the Horace Mann School at Newtonville, say to his pupils, "Children we are working for mental power and discipline. None of you can afford to pass in slovenly work or fail of doing your best."

According to a newspaper report from Washington, children of that city, at least those whose mothers are members of the local branch of the National Congress of Mothers, are preparing to return to the simple life. The following are some of the rules adopted at a recent meeting:

All entertainments in our homes including dances stop at midnight.

That the "nameless" dances not only be discouraged, but forbidden in our homes and to our children.

When objectionable dancing is commenced, that the music cease at once. That simplicity in dress distinguish our girls.

That we instruct our boys to end a social call at ten or ten-thirty o'clock.

The members also pledged themselves to frown on Sunday entertainments and to refrain from having parties for their children on school nights.

Severe constraint gives poise, inwardness, self-control while the mother's common habit of coquetting for the child's favor, and pedagogic petting for its good will, and sentimental fear of a judicious slap to rouse a spoiled child with no will to break, to make it step with the rest in conduct, instead of delaying a whole school-room to apply a subtle psychology of motives on it, is bad. This is pretty stern language for these days, isn't it? And yet if one will read Dr. Hall's "Youth, Its Regimen and Hygiene," he will find that the author believes in a firm, though just, training of children.

Many of you may have read recently a report of a lecture to young mothers at the Harvard Medical School, by Dr. John Lovett Morse, when he told of the need of occasional whippings if the mother would have a well disciplined child. "Children must be made to obey. It is because they are not obedient, he said, that they are run over by automobiles or eat stuff that kills them."

Judge Deuel, of the Court of Special Sessions, known as the "Father of the Children's Court" of New York, says that the usefulness of a parental spanking is impossible of measurement when properly administered.

Do not misunderstand my attitude in regard to corporal punishment. I believe the less we can have of it, the better. I am advancing the opinions of these men, who have had large experience with boys, as an argument in behalf of my plea for more discipline at home.

Every one who has thought of the great deal of waste time in school, in my opinion, should be concerned, were certain conditions more favorable. Some children, like the soldier, are ready at the word of command. Others must always be waited for. Sometimes forty must wait for one. Certain children invariably raise hands to ask why certain recitations or exercises are changed to another period or day, and if we are to have the regular recitation at the usual time, "To obey is better than sacrifice," wrote one of ancient time. The undisciplined will make a weak character and a forerunner of failure, just as Saul's disobedience cost him a kingdom.

I know of a boy whose conduct in school is irreproachable. His street manners are good so far as I have observed, yet it is said that he is the leader of a gang of little toughs who will some day be citizens of Newton. Is your boy one of them?

A lady who moved to our city some years ago, told me recently that she never knew of a place where the boys were so rude. A new boy coming into the Bigelow School is made to suffer far more keenly from the remarks and glances of his fellows, than he would from any bodily punishment. "Does your boy have that experience? Do you know that often a pupil who gets good marks will do something to lower his rank for fear of being called a 'Willy-boy'?"

Since these things are so, fellow-parents, what are we going to do about it? We are facing a condition and not a theory. Some may think that the fact is over drawn, that there is little danger when all the outside forces for good are at work. We have the Y. M. C. A., the Boy Scouts, the Boys' Clubs, the Sunday Schools, all working for the saving of our boys, but these are not enough. All of these institutions combined cannot do the work of the home.

I cannot close this discussion without a reference to that other great institution for the conservation of our young people—the training schools of the Church. When in the closing years of the nineteenth century, Robert Hakes gathered about him "for restraint and instruction in the rudiments of morality, the filthy degraded children of the Gloucester slums," he was inaugurating a divine moment of supreme importance. We are told that a "great scheme of popular education began to mature in his mind." And his application was to the authorities that a cry was raised that "the masses must be kept in their place." A Scotch minister was afraid that the movement would destroy all family religion. John Wesley, however wrote, "Who knows but what some of these schools may become nurseries for Christians."

This movement has now become the "most potent instrument for moral and religious advancement of the twentieth century." The reported number of Sunday-school pupils in 1911 in the U. S. was 15,478,000 and for N. A. over 16,600,000.

The product of the S. S. will be the church membership of the future and the quality of work done will, in a large degree determine the kind of religion, the standard of morals and the type of citizenship of the coming generation." The Sunday-School is the only organization today which teaches the Bible to the masses. It is the opinion of many that Christianity will stand or fall with the teaching of it to the children of this century.

In 1911, there were enrolled in the Protestant S. S. of Massachusetts nearly 330,000 pupils of all ages. The last census credits the state with 3,366,416 population. Less than one tenth of our children and adults are enrolled in Protestant Sunday-schools. More than 65 or 60% on an average are attending its sessions on a given Sunday. Not more than 25% of all children who belong to the Sunday-schools become church members. Are we conserving the moral and religious natures of our children?

The church is admittedly an institution necessary for the progress and uplift of the race. Around it centers every Christian organization through whose agencies it touches humanity. Can you conceive of a Newton, uninfluenced by some Christian activity? Would you care to rear a family in a Godless community? The very fact by which we are living here answers the question.

To the patriotic citizens then, the future of the church is of concern. To the parent it is doubly so.

Why are so many of our children out of the Sunday-school? Various reasons may be given. Locally, the one often advanced, namely, uninteresting instruction would not apply. Unlike the day school, no law requires attendance. Indifference on the part of the parent may be a reason. Many are more interested in the illustrated supplement of the Sunday paper. Someone has said that the large majority of our children know very little of the story and beyond the "funny" parts and the sporting page.

I believe children should attend Sunday School as regularly as they do the day school. There should be classes for all ages and all grades. Children too young to attend school should be on the Cradle Roll. In the larger schools there should be Kindergarten, Primary, Intermediate and Adult Departments. These must be under the supervision of able, conscientious and consecrated men and women. A home department for adults unable to meet with the school, and a department to encourage the mothers to assist the young children in the weekly lessons ought to be sustained. May I close this plea for a more effective and united service on the part of the home, the school, and the church in the conservation of the greatest asset of our city, by quoting the words of the Great Apostle:

"Finally whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

CITY HALL NOTES

The annual meeting of the Civic Club of Newton will be held on Feb. 18 at the Harvard Club of Boston. Dr. Spaulding and Alderman Blakemore will debate the question "Are we paying too much for schools in Newton?" Dr. Francis Geo. Curtis, chairman of the board of health, was re-elected treasurer of the Mass. Association of Boards of Health at an annual meeting held yesterday in Boston.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss Grace M. Burt, Editor.

The Music department of the Massachusetts State Federation announces a new outline of study on "The Growth and Development of Music." This is intended for the person who enjoys music but has not had special training, and is adapted for class work.

"The department appreciates" so says the bulletin, "the efforts of the many clubs which have observed the courtesy of 'absolute silence' during a musical performance. A recent editorial in one of the Boston papers commends this attitude, and voices the approval which this action merits. Will you not from time to time give it special mention in your club?"

A musical scholarship is the present ambition of the department and to this end the department proposes to establish a musical fund. Artists who will be enrolled on a percentage basis, the resulting fund to be the nucleus of the Musical Scholarship.

Federation Announcements

Legislative Conference—Medford, Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 2:30 P. M., Unitarian Church vestry, Powder House Square. The afternoon will be devoted to the consideration of bills which have been approved by this department and endorsed by the Executive Board, and which are to be presented to the Federation at the mid-winter meeting for further endorsement. Take West Medford or Woburn cars from Sullivan Sq., running time 23 minutes.

Mid-Winter Meeting of the State Federation, Dorchester, Friday, Feb. 6, in the Second Church, Codman Square, by invitation of the Dorchester Woman's Club. The morning session will open at ten o'clock when the legislative measures will be presented for endorsement, followed by an address by Hon. W. Cameron Forbes. The afternoon session beginning at two o'clock has been arranged in charge of the Literature department. Miss Angela Morgan will read from her own verses and Mr. Norman Hapgood, editor of Harper's Weekly, will speak on "The Social Significance of Contemporary Fiction and Drama." Box luncheon. Coffee may be secured for a nominal price. White reserved seat or brown admission will be necessary. Any Dorchester car going to Codman square from Dudley street, cast platform passes the church. Running time 25 minutes.

Local Announcements

The Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club meets on Saturday, Jan. 31, at the home of Mrs. S. L. Eaton, 340 Lake avenue.

On Monday afternoon the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands meets with Dr. Wentworth.

Mrs. William G. Snow of Devon road, Newton Centre, opens her home for a guest day of the Newton Mothers' Club on February 2, when Miss Crystal Waters will give a program of songs.

The Newton Highlands Monday Club will meet on Feb. 2 at the home of Mrs. Edwin S. Drown, 32 Lakewood road.

Presidents' Day is the announcement of the Brightestone Club for Monday afternoon, Feb. 2, with a musical.

An Irish play "The Twig of Thorns" by Marie Josephine Warren, will be given by the members of the Newtonville Woman's Guild at the Technical High School Hall on Tuesday afternoon. A fairy dance and an Irish folk dance come into the play.

On Wednesday morning the Social Science Club holds its monthly business meeting. Miss Taylor of the Nantucket Day Nursery will speak at the close of the business session.

The Ladies Home Circle will hold an important business meeting on Thursday afternoon, at the G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville.

Local Happenings

On Friday, Jan. 23, the members of the West Newton Women's Educational Club listened to an address by Mrs. S. L. Eaton on the life and work of Alice Freeman Palmer, which claimed the attention of all from start to finish. Miss Elizabeth Bowen read with deep sympathy several selections from Mrs. Palmer's poems. After music by Mrs. Robert Gorton and a chorus of club members, there was a symposium on current events conducted by Mrs. G. D. Byfield in which the following ladies took part: Mrs. W. A. Beedle, Mrs. I. T. Farnham, Mrs. Seaver, Mrs. G. Phipps, Mrs. Parlin and Mrs. Youker. A social half-hour over the teacups closed a very enjoyable afternoon.

Mrs. S. A. Thompson was hostess for the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club on Jan. 25. The subject for the afternoon was "Our Presidents." A sketch of the lives of the presidents of the United States and marked characteristics and the most important issues of their terms of office were presented by these ladies: Mrs. J. S. Barnes, Mrs. J. V. Beekman, Mrs. George W. Barker, Mrs. A. H. Armstrong and Mrs. L. H. Marshall. In the absence of Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. C. T. Bartlett read her paper. Mrs. Marshall touched upon the marked literary ability shown by many of them and read from "Congressional Government" by Woodrow Wilson, and Mrs. W. C. B. Robbins read from Theodore Roosevelt's "History as Literature."

At the meeting of the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. on Jan. 23 the club began a "Comparative Study of Contemporary Literature" under the direction of Mrs. Sweetser, the special topic being the Drama of England and Ireland. English drama, she said, is realistic, that is, a truthful likeness and fearless exposure of all that is harmful. The direct influence of Ibsen may be seen in all modern English drama. Among playwrights touched upon were Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, who is at his best when life is at its worst, John Galsworthy, author, poet and dramatist, ironic in mind and temperament, called the most finely tempered and aristocratic playwright we have; and George Bernard Shaw, satirist and dramatist, the modern Don Quixote, writer of problem plays and despoiler of romance, devoid of poetic faculty, subtle and concealed. Irish drama is imaginative. The Celtic renaissance dates from 1895. The Irish are born actors. Mrs. Sweetser devoted her attention chiefly to Yeats and Lady Gregory.

Mrs. Vose was in charge of the Home Economics class of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday spent in considering labor-saving devices with demonstrations. At the next meeting the members are asked to bring receipts.

The Abundant Review Club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Van Wageningen. Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Sisk, Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Gordon gave short but comprehensive accounts of the work of the various departments of the State Federation. Mrs. Peloubet then took charge of the meeting, speaking of the early life of Mrs. Edward Miller (who died on Jan. 12), a member of the club since 1896 for two years its president. Mrs. Heron spoke of her love of music, and her knowledge of hymns. Mrs. Fuller spoke most lovingly of Mrs. Miller's friendship, and of her understanding and careful study of the literature taken up by the club in the past years. Miss MacMillan attested to Mrs. Miller's beautiful life in her home and her faithful endeavor in her beloved church. Mrs. Knowlton, resident of the club, acknowledged Mrs. Miller's friendly help and encouragement in the club enterprises. Mrs. Draper remembered with deep affection Mrs. Miller's friendliness, and wonderful loyalty to the club and each member. Mrs. Ruggles and Mrs. Spaulding sang most beautifully. Mrs. Freeman played the accompaniments. Mrs. Peloubet read a poem to close the exercises.

On Wednesday morning Mrs. J. W. McIntyre was in the chair at the meeting of the Social Science Club. After the preliminary business Mrs. E. E. Kent closed the series of papers on "Recent Developments in Constitutional Interpretation." Mrs. Kent had made an exhaustive study of her subject and presented it in an able manner. She began by resting her topic as "Recent Developments of Democracy in the United States." She told of the adoption of the Constitution and stated that it was adapted to the conditions at that time and in many ways it is to those of today. While the language remains much as it was in 1787 the developments have had to do with the spirit of the Constitution. Among present day issues, which she mentioned may be included, Imperialism, child labor problems, railroad and immigration legislation, government ownership and property rights. Supreme Court decisions have worked hardship to individuals, but have safeguarded the many. In the past there has been a rapid development of individualism to collectivism and now the individual is again asserting himself and is looking to the state for his safety and comfort, which are being endangered by the corporate combinations, and which the Constitution should guarantee him.

The Pierian Club met with Mrs. C. A. Chadwick on Wednesday afternoon. It was decided to join in the poster campaign on Feb. 12. The subject of the paper given by Mrs. Willard was "Ecuador and Columbia." The members of the club are interesting themselves in Twombly House, two going each Wednesday evening to assist in teaching the women to read and sew.

On Tuesday, February 3, at 2:45 P. M. in the hall of the Newton Technical High School the members of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will present, "The Twig of Thorns," an Irish Fairy Play in two acts by Marie Josephine Warren.

The persons of the play are Mrs. G. P. Puffer, Mrs. W. C. Boyden, Mrs. Horace Kidger, Mrs. W. O. Hunt, Mrs. A. L. Wakefield, Miss McGill, Mrs. C. W. Davidson, Miss Bassett, Mrs. F. H. Daniels, Mrs. F. E. Mann, Miss Westgate, Mrs. Samuel Thurber, Jr., Ruth Allen. The coach is Miss Wetherbee, and the manager, Mrs. John B. Heber. Folk-dances and a fairy dance will accompany the performance of the play.

The Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club held a matinee theatre party Wednesday and saw Forbes-Robinson in Hamlet.

The Waban Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Herbert O. Stetson on Monday afternoon, when Miss Emma Latimer Fall gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Everyday Law for Women." She said that ignorance is not excused by law and therefore women should know certain facts. Many cases were given to illustrate different points of law, like the law of contracts, of inheritance, laws for wills, for married women in old times and the present, and for the employer and employee. A very pleasant tea followed.

The Guest Night of the Newton Centre Women's Club, on Monday, January 26, was quite the most successful affair of the club program this winter. Bray Hall was filled with club members and their families and friends. The stage was tastefully decorated with palms and flowers. Mrs. Frank H. Stewart opened the evening with a brief explanation of the work of the club, dwelling especially on its annual gift of a college scholarship to some deserving young girl of Newton, who could not otherwise go to college.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. William Dana Follett entertained at bridge on Friday afternoon at her residence on Park street, Newton, in honor of Mrs. Leland Powers. The game was auction bridge and ten tables were arranged in the library and reception rooms, which were attractively decorated in a color scheme of pink.

Handsome souvenirs were awarded the winners being Mrs. Richard Wall, Mrs. Robert Harding, Mrs. Malcolm Eaton of Brookline, Mrs. Eastham Guild of Newton Centre, Mrs. Marian Stutson of West Newton, Mrs. Curtis Delano and Mrs. Leland Powers of Cambridge. Mrs. Follett was assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. William J. Follett of Newton, and Mrs. Austin W. Follett of Wellesley Hills.

BRAE BURN CLUB

Society turned out in large numbers to attend the skating carnival on Friday evening at the Brae Burn Club. The ice was perfect, and many enjoyed fancy skating and hockey matches in the enclosure.

A brass band was in attendance and music was also furnished by a hurdy-gurdy. A string orchestra played during the evening in the club house.

Among those who entertained at dinner before the carnival were Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Davis, Mr. George M. Coss, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield, Mr. William A. Quimby, Mr. and Mrs. Houston, Mrs. Forbes, Capt. Kellogg, Mr. W. R. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Dana, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kimball and Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Kimball.

A series of conferences of special interest to High School and College girls is to be held by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union on four Wednesday afternoons at 4 o'clock beginning February 11. They are planned to help young women in choosing and preparing for vocations.

The speakers and subjects are as follows:—Feb. 11, Mr. J. Prentice Murphy, General Secretary of the Boston Children's Aid Society, "The Social Worker"; Feb. 18, Mr. Frank W. Burdett, Vice-President and Secretary of Silver, Burdett & Company, Publishers, "The Woman in the Publishing House"; Feb. 25, Mr. Edward F. Flynn, Secretary of the Stone & Webster Management Association, "The Stenographer"; March 4, Mr. L. C. Whitaker, District Superintendent of Traffic, New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, "The Woman in the Telephone Service."

The above gentlemen will explain the opportunities for women in the work they represent and the qualifications required. While the talks are planned primarily for students, they will be of interest and value to teachers, parents, social workers, and all those who must give vocational advice.

As a result of this experience in registering and placing women in positions through its Appointment Bureau, the Union has come to have very practical knowledge of the short-sighted way in which many women choose their work, and the slipshod manner in which they prepare for it, and in some cases, alas, the unbusinesslike way in which they perform it. So it is in an effort to lend constructive, far-sighted help that this second series of conferences is planned. The first series was held last year and was addressed by women at work in various lines. This year the subject is approached from the employer's standpoint.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

During Dr. Barker's stay many people have become interested to take systematic exercise either at home or in the gymnasium at the Y. M. C. A. These exercises will be demonstrated at the Newton Y. M. C. A. at 5.15 P. M. on Jan. 31st, Feb. 2nd and 5th and at 8 P. M. on Jan. 31st, Feb. 3rd and 5th. Ladies desiring to see these exercises demonstrated may come to the Y. M. C. A. on Jan. 29th, Feb. 2nd and 4th at 10.30 A. M. Copies of the exercises which Dr. Barker left may be obtained at the Newton Association.

Mr. Sayford will continue his lectures on the New Testament, Monday evening at 7.15. All are invited.

At the second track meet in the Greater Boston Y. M. C. A. series held last night at Chelsea, the Newton team won third place with 12 points, Woodworth winning second place in the 20-yard dash and in the standing broad jump, Wansker winning third in the 20-yard dash and the relay team, Ellis, Wansker, Clark and Woodworth beating the Boston team.

An interesting series of fireside talks has been arranged for the coming month, under the auspices of the Newton Y. M. C. A. The talks will be conducted Sunday afternoons at the Association Building. The speakers will be, Feb. 1, Elliott D. Smith of the Harvard track team; Feb. 8, William Price; Feb. 15, Mayor Edwin O. Childs, and Feb. 22, Allan C. Emery, president of the association.

N. H. S.

The annual Newton High School Interclass Track Meet is to be held in the Drill Hall, Newtonville, tonight at 7.30 P. M.

This evening in the drill hall of the Newton High School the annual interclass athletic games will be held. This event in the past has been the means of bringing out several fast athletes, who have strengthened the track team considerably. The present members of the track team will also run for their respective classes.

Robert Vankirk has been elected captain of the Newton High School debating team which meets the Brookline team at Newton on March 6, and Chase Kepner will captain the team which meets the Somerville High team at Somerville on the same date. The subject that will be discussed at these meetings will be: "Resolved, That the Monroe Doctrine Should Be Discontinued by the United States as a National Policy." The other members of the team are Rexford Tucker, William L. Prosser, Philip Horne, Charles Noble, Robert Cunningham and Louis Randlett.

LODGES

The newly elected officers of Betsey Ross Lodge, N. E. O. P., were publicly installed Monday evening in Elliot hall, Newton, in the presence of more than 200 people, including many officers of the grand body. The installation was conducted by Mrs. Marie Mayhew, GW. of Puritan Lodge of Cambridge, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Gahn, GG. of Cambridge Lodge. During the evening the members and friends tendered a reception to Mayor Edwin O. Childs, a charter member.

The newly elected officers of Division 10, Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., were installed Tuesday evening in A. O. U. W. hall, West Newton. The installation was conducted by Mrs. Margaret Spaulding of Waltham, assisted by Mrs. Susan McNamee of Somerville. The retiring officers, Mrs. T. J. Powers, president; Mrs. P. Whelan, vice president, and Mrs. Leslie Moriarty, treasurer, were presented good with bouquets. Following the installation remarks were made by Congressman John J. Mitchell, Pres. David H. Kerr of Division 53 and J. L. Foley. Instrumental and vocal selections followed the evening to a close.

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"

Wm. C. Freeman, the well known New York Advertising Counselor says: "If I were a New England manufacturer the first thing that I would try to do would be to influence my home people to buy my product. I would regard it as worth while to have their approval."

"The population of New England represents practically one-fourteenth of the total population of the United States. Their natural loyalty to New England would induce them to buy reliable products of reliable manufacturers if these manufacturers asked them to buy. A home indorsement is more important than a national indorsement."

"If a product stands well in the community or the section in which it is manufactured, it is quite likely to stand well everywhere else."

"I would advertise in the New England newspapers. I think that a manufacturer could use all of the New England newspapers, big and little, at a cost of less than $40,000 in one year, giving to each one a 10,000 line contract, enabling him to use either a 50-line double column advertisement, twice a week, or 100 lines double column, once a week, for fifty weeks. "A campaign of this kind should produce for any manufacturer selling a reliable article a business of at least a million dollars in New England alone. If it did, his advertising cost would only be four per cent. After he has introduced himself to his home people, and secured their approval, he could go out to the whole country and say, "My product satisfies my neighbors; they believe in it and in me, and I appeal to you for your trade, because I am backed up by my home people." I should think personal pride would influence a manufacturer to do this very thing."

POVERTY PARTY

Sumner P. Lawrence, Rebekah Lodge, No. 177, I. O. O. F., held its annual poverty party last evening in Odd Fellows Hall, Newtonville, which proved an enjoyable event. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Plaisted, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Perkins, Mrs. William Russell and Mrs. Carrie Holmes.

INDUSTRY and MECHANICS

MANTLES THAT WON'T BREAK

English Article That Can Be Tossed About Like Ordinary Rubber Ball—Big Gas Saver.

As astonished gathering at the Hotel Cecil saw incandescent gas mantles thrown about the room, caught by the skillful and afterward thrown back again to the platform, writes the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. Then the ill-used mantles were put on gas burners and gave a brilliant light, as if nothing had happened to them. Then the demonstrator, while the gas was still burning, pushed the mantle up with a rod until it bulged and let it fall back again. And still it continued to give a brilliant light. An ordinary gas mantle burning alongside it collapsed at a touch, as, of course, any ordinary gas mantle would. The reason why the ordinary gas mantle gets crippled so easily is that its structure is a network of woven fabric, so that when you break two or three vertical threads at the neck or collar all the dependent horizontal threads give way, too.

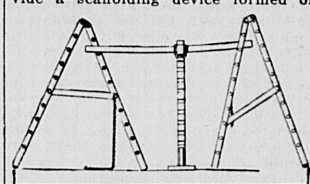

The new mantle is made of exactly the same materials as the old, but it consists entirely of vertical threads, so that destruction of the threads does not alter the hang of the mantle and destroy it wholly. You must destroy every single thread, since each thread (there are 500 of them in a mantle) hangs by itself. The new mantle, in fact, looks like an inverted tassel. It is made entirely by machinery and it is stated that one unskilled worker can turn out a dozen times as many in a day as a skilled worker of the old mantles. It is further stated that the new mantle saves one-third of the gas consumption, because it can be used at a low gas pressure.

SCAFFOLD LADDER IS HANDY

Adapted to Be Various Adjusted and Rearranged for Accomplishment of Various Purposes.

The Scientific American, in describing a scaffold ladder, the invention of C. G. Bishop of Southampton, N. Y., says:

An object here is to arrange improved means adapted to be variously adjusted and rearranged for accomplishing a plurality of purposes, all of which relate to the use of scaffolding of various kinds. Further, to provide a scaffolding device formed of two members connected by a pivotal link and carrying braces for holding the supporting members a proper distance apart and locking the same in that position. The scaffolding ladder is associated with intermediate supports designed to support scaffolding bars. The ladder proper may be used in various capacities as a support for scaffolding, as an ordinary ladder, and as a scaffolding support for use on roofs of various shapes.

MANY TOOLS ARE COMBINED

French Novelty, Contains Among Other Things, Small Anvil to Be Used Together With Vise.

A whole cabinet of tools, including vise, cutting pliers, wrench and hammer, along with the numerous small tools usually included in combination tool sets—all part of the hammer, or nested in the hammer handle—is a novelty from France says the Popular Mechanics. The hammer head may be used as either a vise, a cutting plier or a wrench. The sleeve, which holds the end of the hammer handle and the other leg of the tong together when the tool is being used as a hammer, serves, when removed, as a handle for the small tools. A small anvil is also provided with the outfit, for use in connection with the vise.

Artificial Marble.

Artificial marble invented by a Bohemian is said to closely imitate the rarest marbles and to be stronger, more substantial and less liable to damage than the genuine.

The ELECTRICAL WORLD

BIG CLOCK WITHOUT HANDS

Hours, Minutes and Seconds Are Indicated by Arrangement of Multicolored Electric Bulbs.

One of the largest electric clocks in existence has just been exhibited. It is a marvel of beauty and workmanship. The pendulum weighs over 3,000 pounds. The clock contains 5,485 multicolored electric bulbs, for which 11,000 connections were necessary and over a mile of wire. In making the connections 140 pounds of special screws were required. The dial, although it indicates hours, minutes, and seconds, has no hands.

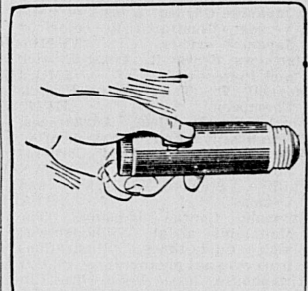

The time in minutes is indicated by 60 series of lights, each series containing 32 globe-covered bulbs, radiating from an ornamental centerpiece to the outer edge of the dial. Shorter rows of different colored lights indicate the hour, and these change their different position 12 times during each 60 minutes, or once every five minutes. The seconds are shown by 60 lights placed at equal distances around the extreme outer edge of the face.

The hour figures are three feet high, outlined in colored lights. Each second the illumination in the outer circle of light moves forward one bulb, and when the dial has been entirely circled the lights indicating the minutes also advance, and the hour hand, formed by lights, makes its slow journey at five-minute intervals. Despite the huge proportions of the clock it has been found that it keeps absolutely correct time even to the second.

NEW POCKET ELECTRIC LAMP

Continuous Light Is Supplied by Small Dynamo Instead of the Customary Dry Battery.

Instead of the customary dry battery, this ingenious pocket electric lamp is provided with a little dynamo which is driven by a spring says the Popular Mechanics. The lamp can be made to give a continuous light by simply depressing a lever at regular intervals of about three or four seconds, the action of the lever simultaneously releasing and rewinding the spring. The lamp is 5 1/2 inches long by 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

a book, and an arm designed to support the lamp in such position that it will illuminate the pages. The location of the electric bulb interferes in no way with the turning of the pages.

Canadian Telephone Lines.

There are in Canada 4 telephone lines owned by provincial governments, 27 owned by municipalities, 368 owned by corporations, 133 owned by co-operative companies, 31 owned by partnerships and 113 private lines.

For Quick Washing.

A vertical cylindrical brush, as high as a railroad car, driven by an electric motor and supplied with water as it revolves, has been invented for quickly washing the exterior of railroad rolling stock.

Something Spectacular.

The plans for the illumination of the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915 call for something entirely new in spectacular effect. Oriental color and soft lighting effects will predominate.

Talking Machine Repeats.

A talking machine may be made to repeat a record through the invention of a German of a disk on which is a return groove to carry the needle automatically from the end back to the starting point.

NEWTON SCHOOLS MAKING GOOD

mathematics for instance, we have one man who is an electrical engineer, who teaches all the mathematics to those in the electrical course, and so on.

Supplies for this school are rather expensive. I was surprised in figuring up the other day to find that if we had sold our by-product during the past year, it would have netted about $10,000.

This school is very complex. To do the work successfully we have to have a large amount of machinery and we have to deal with a type of boy and girl who have found school work difficult.

Mr. Murray also stated that during his period of teaching at the Technical High School he had had the pleasure of showing more people about the rooms who were from outside of Newton and outside of the State, than he had taxpayers of the City. He urged all present to make a visit to the school.

Dr. Spaulding said that he believed the two preceding speakers had given the members a very good insight into the principal features of the Newton School system, touching upon the details as well as the fundamentals, and that it would be impossible for him to speak of the problem as a whole without repeating some things which have already been mentioned.

I have been very much interested in working out this school problem, and, of course, I am in a position where it is impossible to give an unbiased answer to the question, "Have the Newton Schools Made Good?" It is a most difficult question to answer, even if our school system is not very extensive. We have at present, about 7500 pupils and over 300 teachers. A considerable number of cities and at least two States have employed outside people recently to answer just such a question as you ask us tonight.

Teachers can answer this question from our own standpoint, the parents from their standpoint. The parents in many cases are demanding too much of the schools. Now Mr. Paul has defined what we are trying to do, of the standard we have set for our school system as a whole. We are taking the children from 5 or 6 and keeping them, through the aid of the vocational department, with us until they are 18. I want to mention that, because that is the fundamental thing perhaps, which has brought about all the changes which have so vitally changed the cost of our school system.

In the past we have said, here is the way and means for securing an education, here is education, take it and be educated and if you fail it is no fault of ours. Now we are trying to go about it in a radically different way. We say here are the children of all types and kinds and we try to fit the equation to the child. It has been our aim to bring education to the child and this has been especially apparent since the completion of the Technical High School.

Previous to the introduction of this vocational school we were keeping in the schools, children for the most part up to 14 years of age, beyond that age we were losing them at a more rapid rate each year, but not so many as before when we were endeavoring to adapt them to education instead of education to them. I have here a chart, this solid line represents the percentage of increase in the number of children over 14 years of age, children who are not obliged to go to school, and who for the most part would not be in school, if it was not for this vocational department. You can see that it was over 40% in 1913. The normal increase of pupils who are required to go to school by law, is shown by this broken line and is not quite half as much as those who attend school voluntarily. Now this system of education absolutely depends upon co-operation between the parents and the teachers in the schools. In the old days there were not many chances of making a mistake in selecting a course. Now, it is absolutely necessary to study a child carefully and see what course is best adapted to him, and to do this successfully, principals and teachers and parents must co-operate.

We must find out his probable future, how long he is likely to remain in school, and then decide wisely what will be the best course for him to follow. Much of this work is handled by the principals. Of course, some are not successful in the courses chosen. Sometimes the parents select a course entirely different from that suggested by the principal and teachers. In that case sometimes the pupils are successful, but more often they are not. If the parents and teachers do not co-operate then the child is not getting the best out of the schools and the schools are not reaching their highest point of efficiency. I do not mean to say that principals and teachers are always right, but in the majority of cases.

As a rule parents are allowed to select the courses if they insist on certain ones, and if it is possible pupils are allowed to try them. Sometimes the parents prove they are right that the pupils are better served than in the courses that the teachers would have them take. But, as a rule the pupils do not make a success in these cases and they are the ones we lose those who get discouraged and it is then we hear from the parents that the schools are not making good.

I said I would speak about the cost. The cost has run up quite rapidly in the last few years. I shall make some comparisons. It is true that the cost per pupil, if we make no distinction in departments, but take all together and figure the average cost, then Newton is higher than any other City in the State by about $1.00. But Newton is educating a much larger percentage of its pupils in the most expensive end of the educational system, a much larger percentage than in any other City in the State or country.

That is to say, we are educating a greater number in our courses in the High Schools. A little over 25% of our entire number of pupils are in the high schools, an unprecedented number. It cost in the high school two and one-half times more per pupil than in the kindergarten and twice as much as in the grades, and when you are doing the largest part of your business in the most expensive end of the system, it is necessarily going to make the average expense a great deal higher. Now in Boston and Springfield it costs almost the same per pupil as in our grades, but in the high schools of those cities it costs several dollars more than we do, and if they educated as large a number in comparison with Newton, of course, the average cost would then be more than in Newton. There are several towns where the expenses are higher in every department than in Newton. In the Town of Brookline it is 30% more in the kindergarten, something like 50% more in the grades and more in the high school, and the same is true of Wellesley and Weston. They are paying more per pupil than we are.

Now the people in Newton have demanded the very best that can be maintained. I would not attempt to compare the work we are doing with any other city or town, but we are trying to give the very best quality. Most of our pupils are now continuing through the high schools and we are keeping a very careful record of every pupil who gets through the Commercial Department in our school, and we know just what every graduate is doing, we know every position they have ever held, and we are getting, even here, a similar record in our classical High School, but which is not quite as successful, because a large number of the graduates go to college and scientific schools.

I have heard of reports that the standards of the Newton High school people were lower than those of other schools and that certain colleges had refused to admit graduates of the Newton High School. The facts are that no college that admits pupils from any high school on certificate, fails to admit from the Newton High Schools and no college has ever suggested the withdrawal of this certificate privilege from the Newton High School graduates. Not long ago I was interested to get at the facts of the standing of graduates and so I wrote to proper officials of every college in this country where pupils of the Newton High Schools have ever entered, and asked them to tell me what their experiences had been with our graduates and how they compared with graduates of other schools, and I got answers from all. The replies were not universally commendatory, but were on the whole very good. They are still on file in my office and I am rather proud of them. They give a very unbiased opinion and are very creditable on the whole. I think on the whole I am safe in saying that the Newton Schools are making good. There are many faults, and the remedying of these depends on better and more intelligent co-operation between the parents and the principals and teachers. You will find that they will always welcome any inquiries you may wish to make regarding the pupils or work of their school.

Dr. William E. Huntington, former President of Boston University spoke briefly, stating that all graduates of the Newton High Schools who had entered Boston University during his term of office had proven themselves very adept students and were successful. He believed thoroughly that the Newton Schools have made good.

Various questions were asked Dr. Spaulding regarding the vertical system of penmanship. Dr. Spaulding replied that after various tests the vertical system was found to be as rapid and legible as any other system.

"FROM DEATH TO LIFE"

A lecture on the above-named subject was delivered by Rev. E. M. L. Gould at the Church of the New Jerusalem in Newtonville, last Sunday evening.

"There have been two great advances in Christian religious thought during the past century and a half," said the lecturer. "The first is the rejection of mere faith as a centre of the religious duty of man and the adoption in its place of the ideal of service. The second is the substitution for belief in physical resurrection at some future day to the thought of spiritual resurrection immediately after death. In both these changes the teachings of Emanuel Swedenborg has had a great—and many historians say the central—part."

His teaching in regard to the resurrection was certainly new with him; but is, of course, not to be accepted merely on his personal authority. He and, undoubtedly, strange psychological experiences, but whether these were, as he claimed, a revelation from the Lord is a question which must be decided on its merits. It does seem reasonable to suppose that if God had planned an eternal destiny for us He would not keep us forever in ignorance concerning it. But what does Swedenborg say of death and the resurrection?

"In the first place he rejects the idea of a physical resurrection at the last day as irrational and unscriptural. 'God is not a God of the dead, but of the living'. Death of the body cannot mean even temporary cessation of living, for the real self—the soul—exists independently of it, over now. Our bodies are merely garments, which we put on for a time to serve the purposes of the material world."

"And not merely our souls exist after death, but our personalities. For individuality is the real essence of the self or soul. The tendency of the universe, as shown in evolution, is not toward simplicity but toward even more complex forms of life; and this because the true perfection and unity lie in the working together of an increasing number of specialized entities. For an individual to cease to be individual after death would be retrogression, not progress. Thus in the future life, with its opportunities for self-development, we shall become more and more individual forever."

"Nor must we think the operation of the senses ceases with the death of the body. Sensation is not a function of the body, but of the mind. It requires a body as a medium, but not necessarily a material one. St. Paul says, 'There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.' The spiritual body is the lowest plane of the soul proper, and is the real medium of sensation even while we live in this world. After death it will see and hear and act as before, but the objects of its sensations will be spiritual. Thus in the future life we shall have an external environment, as here, but it will be spiritual, and will be the outward expression of our mental states. A description of the nature of this environment may be found in Swedenborg's work on 'Heaven and Hell'."

"Death, then, is simply our removal from one plane of life to another; and strictly speaking it is not even that. For our souls are immaterial, even now, and dwell, not in the material, but in the spiritual world. Thus dying means simply the transference of our consciousness from a lower plane to the higher one in which our real selves have always lived."

Obviously from this point of view death is no longer a tragedy, but is the climax and fulfillment of life. It is solemn, all great and irrevocable things are solemn, but its solemnity is filled with peace. It will bring sorrow until men are unselfish enough to rejoice at the friends' good fortune even when it means their own outward loss. But it need never bring bitterness or despair. Those who have gone before us are much more alive than we; they are not far away from us, since our souls are with them even now; and they are happier than before, because they have no longer the limitations of a material environment to hamper their efforts at well-doing. Death is the Master's summons, telling us that we have learned the lessons of the primary school of life and are ready for larger privileges and responsibilities."

"Such a belief as this may seem too beautiful to be true, but as a matter of fact its very beauty is the supreme evidence of its truth. For once we accept the thought of an infinitely loving God, the best that we can imagine is the nearest to what He will be doing for His children."

"It must be, surely, from a perception of this fact that the old fear of death by which our fathers were tormented is passing out of existence. It must be for this reason that the idea of the resurrection which is first found in Swedenborg has had so wide and constant a spread among the most high-thinking men of all branches of Christianity. Many of them do not know from whence it came. Still more avoid the question or the means by which it first came to the thought of the great Swedish seer. But the intrinsic beauty of the idea of death as but a transition to a better and higher life has been, to all who trust in God, the supreme evidence that it is His truth."

MOTION PICTURE MEN'S BALL

Many novel features will characterize the first annual entertainment and ball of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Massachusetts, which is scheduled to take place at Symphony hall on Tuesday evening, February 17. The committee which is headed by President Ernest H. Horstmann is actively engaged and propose to spare neither time or expense in order that the occasion may prove one long to be remembered. A concert has been arranged for the early part of the evening, in which a long list of talented people will appear. The grand march will be one of the big features. It is planned to have it led by Governor Walsh and Miss Mary Fuller of the Edison company and participated by a large number of the league's members. Refreshments will be served during the intermission at midnight. Dancing will continue until 3 in the morning.
